VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

WASHINGTON D.C. — While the price of milk received by the farmer has been slowly increasing, a number of events have occurred recently that have created some change and present the possibility of further change soon in the federal government's role in dealing with the dairy industry.

Most of the nation's farm organizations over the past months have been urging national political leaders to look at the dramatic effect the price of cheese at the National Cheese Exchange (NCE) has had on the stability of the nation's dairy industry.

They have been urging federal action because of an unexpected $4 drop in milk price that is attributed to a dramatic drop in the price of cheese at the NCE last fall.

The Basic Formula Price of milk is by law calculated by the USDA using, among other factors, the price of cheese at the NCE. Estimates are that the cheese volume at the NCE represents about 1 percent of the national volume of cheese traded.

In addition to bringing attention to the issue, the major farm organizations — nationally and within the state — have also issued statements of praise to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman for quick action late last year in implementing a limited number of options the secretary has at his disgression to remove as much dairy product from the open market as possible.

While those purchases are short-term attempts to increase the price farmers receive for milk, they could also represent a longer-term risk, because the USDA has a limit on how much can be purchased during the year, thus those options apparently would not be available to the secretary later in the fiscal year should another drop in price occur.

Further, the bent of the Congress has been away from intervening in market swings, creating another unknown as to the amount of federal policy or direct support can be expected.

Some of the major farm organizations, such as the Pennsylvania State Grange and National Grange, have called for an investigation of the NCE.

The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau had called for the actions thus far taken by Secretary Glickman, but has stopped short of calling for an investigation of the NCE. However, it did indicate that it too was not pleased with the weight placed upon the NCE price in calculating the price of milk.

In the meantime, a relatively small faction of dairy producers have been attempting to publicize and organize a national milk strike.

What they are ultimately seeking is for adoption of a policy that ensures at least a return of the cost-of-production to the farmer for his milk.

There are two Pennsylvania dairy producer organizations with leadership claiming enough support to call for and follow through with a milk strike with enough impact on the milk supply to cause shortages and prices to surge.

A strike was to be held at the end of this month.

According to Arden Tewksbury, founder and manager of the Progressive Agriculture Organization (Pro Ag), a significant number of producers have indicated to him that they are willing to strike — that is, withhold their milk from shipment, thereby creating a drop in supply and an increase in price.

Tewksbury has indicated that, except for one meeting, he has received strong affirmations of

Pork Rep: Environmental Action Plan Key To Lawsuit Protection

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Swine producers can give themselves a weapon of defense against potential environment private nuisance lawsuits — and it doesn't take a lot of work.

For many Midwest swine producers, their solution: a one-page environmental action plan. One sheet of paper can contain records of when fields were applied with manure at what time along with weather conditions. And it could contain a simple list of phone numbers to call in case of an environmental problem: a contractor with the proper equipment and, of course, the family lawyer.

If producers take time to document what they do on their farms, that documentation can go a long way during any legal proceedings, according to Jeff Gabriel, director of environmental services for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC), Des Moines, Iowa.

Gabriel spoke to about 75 swine producers and agri-industry representatives on Tuesday morning at an environmental quality meeting hosted by the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland.

Gabriel told producers that under the provisions of the recently passed Safe Drinking Water Act, which takes effect in two months, every water treatment facility must list all the contaminants they found in the water they tested at recharge sites and provide that information to the public, if requested.

This could pose real concerns for producers who are aware of

EVERETT NEWSWANGER

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — One of the highlights of the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania DHIA last Friday was the announcement of the name of the recipient of the Clyde S. Robinson Leadership Award. This award was established by the board of directors several years ago to honor Clyde's contributions to the dairy industry.

The 1997 leadership award was presented to William Jackson, New Salem. Bill is well-known for his work in the dairy industry as vice-president of the state DHIA and in his support of local and regional dairy, extension, and fair associations. He served as a banquet committee member for the national and state Holstein conventions and chaired the dairy bar committee for the state Holstein convention this weekend in Reading.

The Jackson farm consists of 700 acres with 350 head of registered Holstein cattle. Approximately 150 cows are milked twice daily in a double eight herringbone parlor. The cows are fed a total mixed ration balanced for 60 pounds of production, with higher producing cows receiving supplemental feed through a computer feeder system.

Jackson Farm's dairy story was established in 1958 and is located on Route 40 between Brownsville

Delmarva Broiler

FEBRUARY 19, 1997

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was slowing, and was light to fair at best. Offerings were at least adequate, particularly on the heavier sizes, which were increasing in availability. Live supplies were moderate; weights were desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 56 to 70 cents. Trade sentiment was barely steady. In the parts complex, bone-in breasts were generally no more than adequate. Boneless skinless breasts were adequate at most plants. Legs and leg quarters were adequate to fully adequate. Wings were in excess.

FEBRUARY 20, 1997

Trucklot buying activity was slow and disappointing. Demand was light with increase availability noted on most items However, wings were ample with little or no interest noted at the higher levels. Distributive and retail movement was light to moderate, best where specials were in progress Undertone was usually weak on wings, barely steady on legs and leg quarters. Although, offerings of white leg quarters were limited. Balance of items were usually reported as cautious but generally steady.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES. National Egg Market

FEBRUARY 19, 1997

Prices were unchanged to lower, mostly unchanged. The market tone was cautiously steady. Retail demand had improved and ranged light to instances good, best where features were in progress or planned for upcoming weekend. Loose egg demand was moderate. Supplies were adequate to fully adequate. The national egg inventory increased by 1 percent over the previous week. Breaking stock supplies were also adequate to fully adequate. Live hen offerings were short to about adequate for processing requirements.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
FEBRUARY 19, 1997

Wheat bids finished mostly lower with profit taking on the board weighing on bids. However, good export demand for wheat this week, especially for soft white wheat, offered light support to Portland bids. Corn bids were narrowly mixed after yesterday's sharp climb. Light export sales to Taiwan overnight, added some strength to corn bids. Soybean bids fell sharply after Tuesday's sharp advances due to profit taking, weakness in corn bids, and dry weather forecast for Brazil this weekend, allowing for continued early harvesting. Wheat mostly 1 to 5 cents lower except Portland 1 to 2 cents higher. Corn mixed. Sorghum 2 to 6 cents lower. Soybeans 1 to 9 cents lower. OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
FEBRUARY 17, 1997

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers steady. Demand good and improved throughout the trading session. Stocker cattle and calves firm to 2.00 higher; steers at full advance. Demand excellent for stockers. Quality of supply average to attractive for genetics. However feeders off dry and nutritionaly strong wheat continue to do well and fleshier each week. Feeder flesh medium to moderately fleshy. Weigh-ups full to mainly average. Stocker flesh highly varied from very thin to fleshy new crop calves. Not much discounting on new crops. Slaughter cows steady. Slaughter bulls 1.00-2.00 higher. Packer demand good for limited slaughter numbers. Many cows heavy bred and returning to country, also several thin cows headed to graze-out. Total of 500 cows and bulls sold with 50 percent to packers. Receipts this week 16,650; last week 8,683; last year 10,621. Supply consisted of 72 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 25 percent calves under 600 lbs; 3 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis. The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

FEBRUARY 24-MARCH 2, 1997

"DR. SEUSS" BORN, MARCH 2.

LONG-GONE LYRICIST

February 27 is the birthday of poet and former Harvard professor Henry Wadsworth Longfellow (1807-1882). Unlike much poetry, Longfellow's work was very popular in his day and remains familiar today. His "The Song of Hiawatha" and "The Courtship of Miles Standish" are just a few of the longer works Longfellow penned. Few people know that Longfellow also wrote the words to the Christmas carol, "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day." It was written during the Civil War, following the Battle of Gettysburg, and after Longfellow's son had been seriously wounded: "And in despair I bowed my head; 'there is no peace on earth,' I said."

I shot an arrow into the air, It fell to earth, I know not where. -H W Longfellow

TIP OF THE WEEK

QUICK BAKED HALIBUT

2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 small onion, chopped fine
1 bay leaf
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
salt and pepper to taste
2 pounds halibut fillets

Preheat oven to 350° F. Make a simple white sauce: Melt the butter, gradually stir in the flour, then slowly add the milk, whisking constantly until thickened. Add the chopped onion, bay leaf, ground cloves, and salt and pepper. Place fish in a greased, shallow baking dish. Pour the sauce over the fish and bake until the fish flakes easily and all translucency is gone, about 20 to 40 minutes, depending on the thickness of the fillets.

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

So many mists in March, so many frosts in May.

March comes in with adder heads and goes out with peacock tails.

It's Time To Take Another Look at Onan.

Onan's standby generator systems are more affordable than ever, and the quality is still every bit as high. Onan's simplified diesel generators from 35-200kW deliver the famous Onan reliability that you want– without a lot of extras you don't need.

The fact is that a reliable standby power system – and Onan provides everything from the genset to the switch gear – could even make you money. Just ask your processor, who might pick up part of the cost, or your local electric company, which might show you how to cut your costs by helping them shave peak loads.

Quality emergency power can save you money – even while it gives you greater freedom. Your emergency generator should be doing the standing by, not you.

Take another look at a generator you can count on. Call us today for a closer look at a quality power system designed for your work and your budget.

OPINION

Early Priority

A recent new tax ruling by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) threatens to hit many farmers with unexpected tax bills. Under the new position by the IRS, along with support by a Northern Iowa ruling in U.S. District Court, farmers are subject to the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT).

According to the national newspaper of Communicating for Agriculture, Inc., this means IRS has essentially challenged the use of deferred payment contracts by farmers who sell their grain or livestock commodities and opt to defer receiving payment until later, typically in a new year when it would be taxable income. Farmers also often transfer taxes from one year to another by paying for inputs in advance to take credit for expenses in the year of highest income.

Now some farmers could be hit with an unexpected AMT of at least 20 percent. If it stands, the move effectively will stop farmers from using deferred payment contract to adjust their tax liablilty into future years.

We believe farmers should be able to continue to use deferred payment contracts and pay taxes on income in the years they actually receive the income. Agriculture is such a risky business that inherently subjects farmers to volatile incomes.

With government getting out of the price support programs of the past, future income to farmers will be even more volatile. Therefore, farmers ought to have more tools to help them balance their incomes from year-to-year for tax purposes, not fewer tools. This needs to be an early priority for the new Congress.

Now Is The Time

To Consider Crop Insurance

The 1996 Farm Bill introduced a new risk for farmers. The bill ended the traditional federal disaster and deficiency programs for crops.

When disasters occur such as droughts or flooding, farmers will not receive the disaster benefits that they enjoyed under previous farm bills.

Crop insurance is the only federally sponsored risk management program available to farmers. The enrollment deadline for crop insurance is March 15 for most spring-planted crops. Crop insurance provides farmers with protection against low yields. There are other benefits such as replanting, late planting, prevented planting, low yield, and poor quality protection.

Take time to evaluate your insurance and price protection strategies to make sure you are adequately protected in this new risk environment.

To Determine If You Need Crop Insurance

With the 1996 Farm Bill eliminating disaster and deficiency payments, now is the time to determine if you need crop insurance.

Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, offers the following four-step approach to determine if you have adequate price protection.

First, calculate the protection that was available when a previous disaster occurred. Then determine the dollar lost that would be experienced if the same event occurred under the 1996 Farm Bill.

Second, determine how well you need to be protected when a disaster occurs. Third, contact a crop insurance agent to receive details and advice on yield, quality, and price protection ideas.

Fourth, follow through and implement a protection plan that meets your needs.

A well thought-out protection package can manage the increased risk exposure of the farm bill. The big question is: Can you afford to be self insured in your crop production enterprises?

To Use Animal Diagnostic Services

With the recent construction of a new laboratory and animal diagnostic facilities in Harrisburg, the Bureau of Animal Industry is making renewed efforts to provide diagnostic services to animal agriculture.

The services are provided jointly by the Bureau of Animal Industry (BAI), The University of Pennsylvania (U of P), and Penn State (PSU).

Diagnostic work is distributed among the various institutions according to each lab's specialty. All lab work may be accessed by computer at any location. In addition, veterinarians are available to follow up on field cases.

For more information, contact the lab closest to you: BAI at (717) 787-8808, U of P at (610) 444-5800 or PSU at (814) 863-0837.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NO ONE LIKE HIM
February 23, 1997

Background Scripture:
Acts 16:1-5;
I Corinthians 4:14-17;
Philippians 1:19-24;
II Timothy 1:3-7, 3:14-15
Devotional Reading:
I Timothy 4:6-19

Some weeks ago, I woke up in the middle of the night and, unable to get back to sleep, began to enumerate and thank God for all the people who had touched my life for Him since I first came into this world. The parade of people through my mind and heart was absolutely staggering in number and effect.

There were people of whom I hadn't thought about for decades. There were others whose beneficial effect upon me was only apparent after careful reflection. There were even some who, I realized belatedly, had been influential even though at the time I had thought their intent was harmful, rather than beneficial.

Timothy was a Christian leader who was deeply influenced for Christ by others. II Timothy says, "I am reminded of your sincere faith, a faith that dwelt first in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice and now, I am sure dwells in you" (II Tim. 1:5). Like Timothy, I received a rich spiritual inheritance from my parents. Have you ever given any thought to the person or persons from whom you received your first inheritance of Christian faith?

VOTES OF CONFIDENCE

Among those people who were influential in my own life are some whose names I have long ago forgotten. When I decided to dedicate myself to the Christian ministry, I had to preach a trial sermon and those present signed a petition of recommendation to church authorities — despite a sermon which must have been a trial for them as well as for me! So I can appreciate how Timothy must have felt when he found that the people at Lystra had recommended him to Paul and the apostle decided to have him join his missionary journey.

We know from various New Testament epistles and Acts that Timothy became Paul's travelling companion and one of his closest associates. In I Corinthians 4, Paul says, "Therefore I sent to you Timothy, my beloved and faithful child in the Lord to remind you of my ways in Christ . . ." (v. 17). But it is in his letter to the church at Philippi that Paul reveals his deepest estimate of Timothy: "I hope in the Lord Jesus to send to you soon . . . I have no one like him who will be genuinely anxious for your welfare. They all look after their own interests . . . but Timothy's worth you know, how as a son with a father he has served me in the gospel" (2:19-22). Is there anyone who can say of you, 'I have no one like him. None like her?'

What a gift it is to work with someone in whom you can trust completely, knowing that they will do and give their best. Paul sent Timothy to Corinth because he couldn't get away to go himself. But he knew that if anyone could represent him in that troubled church, it was Timothy.

REKINDLING THE GIFT

Like Timothy, I have also richly profited from several "fathers in the ministry," pastors during my youth, seminary professors, and colleagues in the ministry. And there have been many lay people who probably didn't realize they were teaching me anything, including my wife. If I was a slow learner, it wasn't their fault.

Along the way, then, we gain some of our faith through inheritance and some of it through association. But, what is passed on to us will not sustain us forever. II Timothy says, "Hence I remind you to rekindle the gift of God that is within you through the laying on of my hands" (II Tim. 1:4-6).

What is handed down to us and rubs off on us along the way is a good start and foundation, but Faith in God must constantly be rekindled. None of us were behind the door when the gift was handed out. But the real question is, what will we do with the gift we have received?

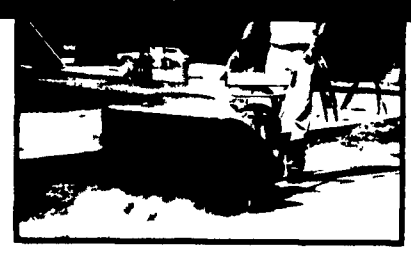
Make Clean-Up Fast & Affordable



Save time and money with the SWEEPSTER Model C36 Self-Propelled Walk Behind Sweeper The 36 inch brush head is large enough to handle your big jobs, yet small enough to transport easily in the back of a pick-up truck This affordable sweeper does many jobs in half the time it would take to do them by hand, reducing labor costs

A Model C36 can clean hard packed dirt, gravel and trash from paved areas Remove thatch from turf areas in the spring Sweep leaves in the fall instead of raking Keep it busy during the winter cleaning snow off of sidewalks and driveways You can even backfill a trench

Many people find many different uses for the Model C36 Landscaper s keep them busy cleaning jobsites Grounds maintenance crews get turf areas in shape Apartment complexes and schools keep them busy cleaning snow

Did You Know?

University tests and tens of 1,000s of satisfied dairy producers have proven isolation calf housing, hutches, are absolutely the best way to raise healthy calves Progressive dairy producers do not sacrifice calf health for personal convenience

Calf-tel is the only thermoformed hutch Thermoforming is a process that imparts strength to the polymer like forging does to steel Rotocasting, a process used by all other plastic hutch manufacturers, creates a weaker, less durable product that is prone to cracking

Calf-tel is the only hutch manufactured with completely opaque material to effectively eliminate the green house effect This heat trapping effect overheats calves when temperatures climb above 80° F and also causes uncontrollable temperature swings daily when temperatures drop below freezing Over 100,000 Calf-tels are helping raise healthier, growthier calves worldwide from Florida through the sunbelt to California Washington across the dairy belt to New England and in 20 foreign countries

Calf-tel is the only hutch made of high molecular weight polyethylene plastic with a high load UV blocking pigment This quality material enables Hampel Corp to warranty Calf-tel for ten years the longest in the calf hutch industry

Long after competitive hutches are discarded, used Calf-tels sell from $125 to $200 each–even after ten years of use Such a high residual value decreases cost per hutch to as low as $12 per year

When operator comfort is a concern, creative dairy producers have provided covered service alleys or placed Calf-tels in two or three sided shelters during inclement times support for a milk strike during a series of meetings held in southern New York state and across the northern tier of Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Milk Producers Association is a 2-year-old organization founded by its president Marshall Wilson, an Elk County dairy farmer who tills 200 acres and milk 45 cows. He markets milk through Milk Marketing Inc.

According to Wilson, PMPA has 200 members and they have been working in cooperation with Tewksbury and Pro Ag in calling for a national strike.

He said that similar organizations in seven other states have joined PMPA in forming the United States Milk Producers Council, an independent organization comprised of the presidents and vice presidents of the different state affiliates.

In northeastern Pennsylvania, the PMPA and Pro Ag have had a number of opinion articles published recently in farm publications that have urged dairy farm families to bond together in a common effort to secure a price for milk that reflects cost of production.

According to Wilson, his organization's latest projection of cost of production for a hundredweight of milk is $17.77.

Withholding milk, as a last resort, is the main power upon which the groups are basing their strategy to achieve that cost of production.

No Strike For Now

However, according to a news release this week from Pro Ag, and according to Wilson, the strike has been postponed for at least three weeks, as a result of a Feb. 10 meeting at the Keystone College in Scranton between dairy producers, the dairy support industry of northeastern Pennsylvania, and U.S. Sens. Arlen Specter, Rick Santorum, and U.S. Ag Secretary Glickman

Cost Of Production

Other dairy and farmer groups, such as the National Farmers Organization and the National Farmers Union, have also promoted national milk pricing policies that are based on the cost of production.

However, the actual cost of dairy production varies greatly.

All things being equal, there are economies of size that factor against small family farms.

Beyond that, personal skills, knowledge, abilities, proximity to processors, road conditions, local competition, and farm management strategies vary greatly and present perhaps the greatest obstacle to pricing milk according to the cost of production.

Determining whose farming style should set an industry standard for cost of production seems to be the greatest barrier to achieving such a standard price.

While such a standard does not seem inconceivable to determine (though complicated), even if some new formula would be created to standardize the cost of production, it would seem impossible to achieve complete agreement among dairy producers.

In general, the number of dairy farms has been continuing to decline year after year while the amount of milk produced has increased. This could indicate that production lost through the exit of dairy farms is not only being picked up by expanding operations, but that those expansions are increasing the total amount of milk, and thus lowering the market value of milk.

It also indicates, as statistics bear out, that dairy production is coming more and more from the larger operations.

That continuing trend can be expected to also mean that the divide between cost efficiencies of the different dairy operations is gradually widening, puting more pressure on the smaller farms competing in the same market.

Some smaller farms have been switching production and marketing strategies, such as grazing to lower operational cash flow and debt requirements, or attempting to garner a premium price by supplying specialty markets, such as the "organic" market.

However, Pro Ag and the Pennsylvania Milk Producers Association have stated that their demand of a price received that reflects their members' cost of production must be met or a strike will occur.

Meeting In Scranton

According to Andy Wallace, Sen. Specter's northeast Pennsylvania regional administrator (in the Scranton office), and a staff employee for 14 years, the Feb. 10 meeting was put together within a week, and resulted from numerous farmer meetings that have been occuring during the past several months.

"It was the largest meeting of dairy farmers ever in Pennsylvania," he said. "There were not only dairy farmers, there were feed growers, veterinarians, bankers. The (misconception) is that (the low milk price and the loss of dairy farms) affects just the farmer, but it's affecting the entire economy, feed suppliers, etc., the support industry to the consumer."

According to Sen. Specter's staff in Scranton, about 750 attended the Feb. 10 meeting.

Wilson said if he would have had more notice he could have been able to inform more of his members.

Wallace said that staff members have been attending some of the farmer meetings. He said that the meetings shouldn't be considered Pro Ag meetings or PMPA meetings, but instead they should be considered farmer meetings.

He said his office has been made aware of the problem and that the entire Pennsylvania delegation — including Representatives such as 10th District Rep. Joseph McDade whose district includes Scranton — has been concerned and working to bring some relief.

At the request of Sen. Specter and Sen. Santorum, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Glickman also attended the meeting.

The meeting was held on a Monday morning, the same day as the annual meeting and Cornucopia event of the Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations in the Harrisburg Capitol.

Planned for months ahead of time, the Cornucopia provides farm organization and industry representatives an opportunity to discuss with state Legislators the current conditions of their respective industry(ies) and issues affecting them.

The state Legislature is in the beginning stages of a new legislative session and developing new proposals.

But according to many reports from different sources, at the meeting in Scranton, local farmers, dairy industry support business representatives, and some local representatives of the state's major agricultural organizations and others testified about the injury to Pennsylvania's northeast dairy producers, and the potential devas-

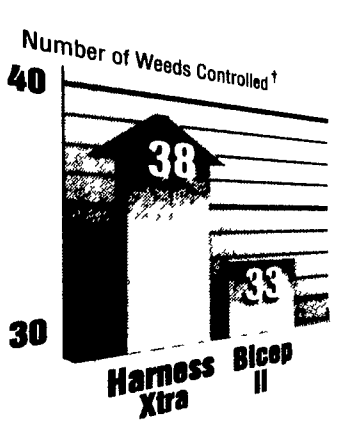
HOW DO YOU GET CONTROL OF MORE WEEDS?

WITH THE MAXAVAIL™ ADVANTAGE OF HARNESS® XTRA HERBICIDE.



Harness Xtra with the MaxAvail Advantage controls the tough small seeded broadleaves Bicep II leaves behind. And unlike Bicep II and Extrazine, Harness Xtra stops triazine-resistant weeds.

It's time for you to make a herbicide choice. That means choosing the herbicide that gives you superior control of more weeds all season long. Of course, you can't be 100% sure that the tough weeds you had this year will be your only tough weeds next year.

That's why it pays to have science on your side when choosing a herbicide. And with the MaxAvail™ Advantage of Harness® Xtra herbicide, you do.

GET THE MaxAvail™ ADVANTAGE

Check the labels for yourself. Harness Xtra with the MaxAvail Advantage controls 15 percent more weeds than Bicep® II—including tough grasses and broadleaf weeds. The MaxAvail Advantage of Harness Xtra also stops the triazine-resistant weeds Extrazine® and Bicep II leave

Herr Joins Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Jim Herr, 46, of Lancaster has joined the staff of Lancaster Farming as an advertising sales representative.

Herr has worked in advertising for a number of years, having worked for another farm publication for three years prior to joining Lancaster Farming.

For 10 years he had his own advertising agency based in Lancaster and served businesses, including many agribusinesses, in the Mid-Atlantic area.

He first started working in a local mattress factory that his grandfather had started in 1909, before going on to achieving a bachelor's degree in elementary education from the Northwestern University of Chicago.

"I consider it a privilege to work with the leading agricultural newspaper in the East," he said.

"I see my role as helping people make sure they get the advertising they need to make their businesses grow, in a paper that really works."

Herr is married to Cindy and they have a 9-year-old son. Jim is a member of the Lancaster Friends Meeting (Quakers) and is the editor of his church newsletter. His hobbies include woodworking, coaching his son's soccer team, and hiking.

tation to its economy, as well as the suspiciousness of activities at the National Cheese Exchange.

Some speakers requested that Secretary Glickman do something to raise the price of milk so that farmers can recoup their cost of production and not go out of business.

The logic of the government using the cheese price at the National Cheese Exchange to determine the price of milk paid to farmers nationwide was also questioned.

As a general policy, in reporting all market prices of commodities, the USDA has taken steps to broaden the number of markets tested and reported.

The Basic Price Formula, however, is set by Congress and the secretary of agriculture has, according to Sen. Specter, the authority to drop the NCE price in lieu of a price equivalent.

According to Jim Peterson, a spokesman for Secretary Glickman who attended the meeting, Glickman began efforts in late January to address the use of the NCE price and has been receiving public comment.

However, it's not clear if what Glickman already started will fulfill what Sen. Specter requested when he returned to Washington and addressed the Senate later in the day on Feb. 10.

According to the Congressional Record for the day, Sen. Specter said, "Mr. President, the dairy farmers of northeas ern Pennsylvania, and for that matter the entire state of Pennsylvania, and for that matter the entire nation, are suffering very materially because of low milk prices.

"It is a national calamity where dairy farmers all across the country are facing the prospect of bankruptcy because the costs of producing milk have risen so tremendously and the price of selling milk has decreased very rapidly in the course of the past several weeks and several months."

In his address, Specter described the meeting and how it came to be called. He also talked about the testimony and specifically mentioned testimony given by Mrs. Patricia Swetter.

"The highlight of the meeting occurred when a woman named Mrs. Swetter made the point very, very emphatically, about the imminent difficulties faced by the farmers and how answers were needed now.

"This Mrs. Patricia Swetter made that point with special gusto, as did quite a number of the other farmers who spoke at the hearing."

Spector said in his address to the Senate that Secretary Glickman explained the difficulties of finding an immediate solution, which he said lead to a discussion of the BFP and the use of the cheese price at the NCE.

Specter then explained the connection between the price of cheese and milk and that, "There have been some indicators that the price of cheese is not accurate as it has been currently established.

"The Secretary (Glickman) responded in dialogue that ... he would be willing to work now to develop an equivalent price of cheese so that we could have a reevaluation as to the price of milk.

"There has been some indication that there has been some manipulation of the price of cheese. It may be that this is a subject which ought to be a matter for a hearing by the Judiciary Antitrust Subcommittee. It may also be that there ought to be a hearing from the Agriculture Subcommittee of Appropriations, or from the Agriculture Committee, on the pricing of milk, taking a close look at the issue of developing an equivalent price for cheese."

He then outlined a "sense-of-the-Senate" resolution that he subsequently proposed and which was adopted by the Senate (83-15) on Feb. 13 that calls upon Secretary Glickman to "... consider acting immediately pursuant to his legal authority to modify the Basic Formula Price for dairy by replacing the National Cheese Exchange as a factor to be considered in setting the Basic Formula Price."

The resolution was sponsored by U.S. Sen. Specter, co-sponsored by U.S. Sen. Rick Santorum, and also co-sponsored by Sens. Russell Feingold, Herb Kohl, James Jefford, Patrick Leahy, Rod Grams, Paul Wellstone, Olympia Snowe, and Susan Collins.

Specter's Washington-office press secretary John Ullyot said this week, "This is pretty substantial step forward."

He said that what signifies the importance the dairy issue is receiving from the entire Senate is, "... that the debate of the balanced budget amendment was interrupted. The full weight of the Senate is behind urging Secretary Glickman to de-link the Basic Formula Price from the National Cheese Exchange."

Local Chapters Celebrate FFA Week

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "FFA-Leaders With A Vision" was the theme for National FFA week, Feb. 15-22.

Lancaster County has 11 active FFA chapters with approximately 1,200 members. County officers coordinate activities such as leadership conferences, hayrides, and career development events for members in the county.

Local chapters including Ephrata, Solanco, Elizabethtown, Eastern Lancaster, Penn Manor, Lancaster Mennonite, Pequea Valley, Garden Spot, Lampeter-Strasburg, Manheim Central, and Warwick are active in the FFA. Each of the chapters participates in a variety of activities. Here are a few highlights of the events coordinated by the FFA chapters in Lancaster County.

The Cloister FFA chapter of Ephrata High School, advised by Earnest Orr and Jodi Brown, recently updated their program of activities. One of the special programs of the FFA is a Supervised Occupational Experience which is tailored to fit each student's interests and career goals. These projects range from working in an agricultural industry to raising a crop or animal. Each student requires specialized attention to help with planning and to supervise progress. The Cloister FFA has implemented a mentoring program between the FFA members and Ephrata Area Young Farmers. These adults help guide the students and provide information and support for their projects.

The FFA chapter at Eastern Lancaster County has recently implemented a new aquatics program. Under the direction of Phil Ogline, Bob Lauffer, Cliff Day, and Bruce Stajnrajh, members of the Grassland chapter hope to grow 6,000 pounds of Talapia a year. The program, with financial assistance from a state grant, is located at the Shirk Farm and will be in operation in September 1997.

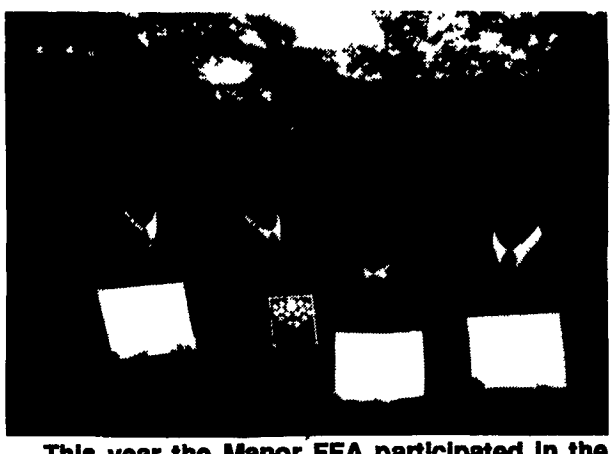
Solanco FFA delegation attends the annual PA FFA Summer convention and participates in state judging contest at FFA Week.

Todd Huber, Wes Swanson, Klint Frey, and Vince Metzler were the meats evaluation and technology judging teams, pictured here after winning the state contest at FFA Activities Week at Penn State. They went on to the National FFA Convention at Kansas City, Mo., where the team placed bronze.



This year the Manor FFA participated in the poultry evaluation judging and technology Contest at FFA activities week at Penn State University. Grassland FFA officers go to Snyder County biannually to hold an officer retreat. Here the officers plan activities, discuss how to improve the FFA, bring out their ideas, and have fun getting to know each other. The officers also meet members of West Snyder FFA, who are only a few minutes away.

Approximately 200 students are enrolled in agricultural science and technology classes each semester. Last year, two teams from LMH, namely farm business management and livestock judging, placed first at the state level and went to national competition in November at Kansas City. As a member of the Hans Herr chapter and an accomplished pianist, Dayna Weinhold has represented the chapter in several talent programs. Recently, she performed at state and national levels including the Kansas City Club and Bartle Hall in Kansas City, Mo.

The agriculture program at Manheim Central just got a face lift. As part of the high school renovation project, the agricultural program and the FFA got new facilities including a greenhouse the students are constructing. Under the guidance of Heather Ander-

Grassland FFA is building an aquaculture system that they received a $15,000 grant for, from the state. There will be a filtration system that will keep the water clean, as it is predicted to produce 6,000 pounds of Tilapia each year. The system is expected to be completed and in operation by September 1997.

Planter, Drill Clinic Broadcast Throughout Region

Check Planter Equipment To Create Proper Seed V-Trench

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Good planter adjustment and maintenance has one goal: get the seed in the properly made V-trench as quickly as possible.

Joe Whitney, farmer and distributor of commercial planting equipment from St. Mary's, Ohio, told a statewide audience on Tuesday afternoon that many problems with planters could cause dirt to be placed in the trench before the seed. Also, improper seed placement and firming could create emergence and standability problems.

Whitney spoke from the State College Ag Arena on a Penn State-sponsored planter and drill satellite conference broadcast throughout Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Ohio early Tuesday afternoon. Producers with the right home satellite reception equipment had a chance to pick up the free broadcast and call in to ask questions about planter and drill troubleshooting for the coming season.

Lynn Hoffman, senior research associate in Penn State's Department of Agronomy, told the viewing audience that many yield problems could be overcome if a couple months in the winter could be designated for corn planter and drill adjustment and maintenance.

Whitney reviewed several key planter components that need to be inspected and improved to solve some of the emergence and yield problems in the field.

On the corn planter, proper planter leveling is key. The tongue and top of the frame should provide a level point as you "raise or lower the drawbar," he said.

Drawbars are available angled or straight. Many producers believe that those two designs are all they have to work with. But Whitney was able to customize a drawbar and took a plate and added a hooking point — raising the drawbar. This helps maintain consistent seed depth. Most corn planters have adjustments on the planter tonque to also assist in leveling.

Also, the seed chute placement and the parallel linkages are critical to getting the seed into the trench as quickly as possible, noted Whitney. Growers should check the planter looseness or "play" at the parallel linkages, which could spell critical variations in the seed depth and keep dirt out of the trench before the seed is placed.

Producers should raise the hitch and check the bushings and bolts for proper give — if the bushings and bolts are worn, replace them to keep the parallel linkages free. Bolts should be tight and allow from ½ inch to ¾ inch movement.

Disc wear is also critical. If the 15-inch disc has worn down to 14¼ inches, it's time to think about replacing the disc, Whitney indicated. Also, the seed tube protector could be worn and could rub against the seed tube — causing holes and haphazardly scattering seeds.

Growers should check the sidewalls of the seed tube protector and the seed tube itself. Whitney said he has seen seed tube protectors wear so badly they actually get hot enough to melt the side of the seed tube.

Discs work well in no-till conditions because they can open up a trench readily and help place the seed properly. Soil that is moist poses little problems. Only when there is dry, loose soil can uneven seed placement be a problem.

The key is to "protect the trench as long as we can until the seed gets there," said Whitney. In a few milliseconds, a lot can happen to the trench — so check components such as the firming wheels that push the soil sideways onto the seed. By checking those items, growers can "shoot for even emergence in all plants," a key to standability and yield.

A planter insert device is available to hold the seed trench open longer so a seed can go to the bot-

Farmland Trust, Ag Preserve Board Focus On Helping Plain Sect Farmers

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Success in preserving 34 Lancaster County farms last year is the result of both the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board and the Lancaster Farmland Trust working together.

Bouyed by success, the two preservation programs do not want to rest on their laurels. Instead both programs want to increase their efforts in setting aside more agricultural acreage for future generations to continue farming. Leaders from the two programs met recently to discuss strategy on exactly how to further efforts in preservation.

The main topic of concerned centered on how to help plain sect farmers. Theoretically the plain sect does not like to deal with an organization that uses government funds. Because Ag Preserve Board generates funds from county, state, and federal levels, the plain sect steers away from the organization. However, Lancaster Farmland Trust uses no government funding, but relies strictly on donations. Amish and plain sect farmers who understand this are more inclined to work with Farmland Trust.

Because both organizations have the farmers and in particular plain sect farmers best interest at heart, they want to do whatever possible to help them be able to afford purchasing county farms for agricultural uses.

Although few Amish apply for preservation funds, Tom Stouffer, director of Lancaster Farmland Trust, said that a large percentage of preserved farms end up in Amish hands after they are preserved. Reasons for this can be attributed to the Amish' commitment to agriculture and to the decrease in cost to the buyer of a preserved farm.

Because the Amish have a comittment to agriculture in this county and need more farms in order to do so, Stouffer said that it makes sense for them to take advantage of the services of both agriculture preserve boards. The concensus of both organizations is that if the Amish bishops or leaders better understood the farm preservation program, they would not have qualms about using its services.

Both organizations want to dialogue more with plain sect leaders in order to determine how they can help in making farms more accessible cost wise. In some cases, older farmers may find it makes sense to donate properties to younger farmers.

Together the preservation organizations have preserved 282 farms with more than 23,600 acres. Because the Preserve Board receives public funding, they have more money and pay an average of $2,000 per acre for conservation easements, which is based on the difference between a farm's open market value and its value if restricted to farm use.

Farmland Trust average approximately $315 per acre because many of the easements are donated to the non-profit organization in exchange for tax benefits.

The two organizations work jointly together and yet each serve a unique purpose. Often farmers errorously believe that a farm must be in an ag security area to be preserved. But that is not true if preserved through Farmland Trust, which can preserve farms not in ag security areas.

Each organization takes the individual farmer into consideration when an application is received to determine which organization will best serve the needs of a farmer.

"We are not competing against each other, but working toward the same end," Stouffer said.

Compare Two Farmland Preservation Groups

	Ag Preserve Board	Lancaster Farmland Trust
Established	1980	1988
Status	Public (County) Agency. Board is advisory body to the County Commissioners.	Private, non-profit organization. ("501(c)(3)")
Funding	County appropriated funds from the general fund and bonds; state appropriated funds from cigarette taxes; federal funds from 1996 Farm Bill.	Donations. No government funds sought or accepted — a critical point for Amish and some Plain Sect.
Easement Acquisition	Usually purchases easements at full appraised value: average price per acre (paid to the farmer) is just under $2,000.	Most easements donated or purchased at "bargain sale." average price per acre (paid to the farmer) is about $315.
Farms/Acres Preserved	215 farms, about 19,200 acres: about 15 to 25 farms a year.	67 farms and about 4,400 acres: about 10 farms a year.
Waiting Period	Uncertain. All applications must be re-ranked yearly. Depending on soil quality, development pressure, and other criteria, waiting period could be short or extend for many years.	None for donations or for low easement prices. Otherwise dependent on availability of funds.
Special Restrictions	>Neither organization preserves farms within Urban Growth Boundaries. All farms must be in designated Agricultural Security Areas (ASAs), which cover only 122,000 acres.	No ASA requirement.
Intensive Animal Agriculture	No limitations. (Conservation and nutrient management plans required.)	Limited only at request of the landowner. (Plans encouraged.)
Building Lots	Generally limited to one additional house per farm.	Generally limited to one house per 25 acres.
Estate and Income Taxes	>Taxable estate is normally reduced by the easement value. >Depending on the property's original basis, some or all funds received may be subject to income tax. (A "like-kind exchange" may be used.) >The greater the donation, the greater the income tax deduction.
Flexibility	As a government agency, somewhat limited. (Sep 1 application date yearly; over 150 farms now awaiting funds.)	Often can respond at once to landowner's unique needs.

How To Pass Your Farm On To The Next Generation

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County farmers are invited to attend a free morning workshop titled, "Building On Your Success: A Farm Transition and Estate Planning Workshop," to be held Monday, February 24 from 9:45 a.m. to noon at the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

The seminar is hosted by Lancaster Farmland Trust, a private farmland preservation organization. Speakers will be American Express financial advisors, Doug Tanner and Dave Weidman, who are both certified financial planners, as well as attorney Jay Clark, Esq., James & Clark, Intercourse. Lunch will be provided following the seminar at no charge, courtesy of Lancaster Farmland Trust.

To register for this two-hour seminar, call (717) 293-0707 as soon as possible, and leave the names of those who will be attending with the receptionist, or on the answering machine if calling over the weekend.

Pa. DHIA Expansion

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Pa. DHIA continues to grow into competitive territory with the new addition of a technician in central New York.

Having graduated from Cornell University and being a former 1992 Broome County dairy princess, Becky Silvanic of Whitney Point, New York, is up and running as a Pa. DHIA technician, already serving six herds in the Cortland-Chenango counties (New York) area.

Becky grew up on a 61-cow dairy farm as well as worked on various farms during her college years which gave her a mix of different situations which in return prepared her for a role as a Pa. DHIA technician.

Since the age of nine, Becky has been a member of several 4-H clubs which included dairy as well as other pertinent clubs.

When asked what she likes most about being a Pa. DHIA technician, Becky said, "I like being around cows, seeing different farms and how they are operated."

Pa. DHIA invites the dairy industry in welcoming Becky aboard and feel free to contact Pa. DHIA at 1-800-344-8378 if we can assist with your dairy operation.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Also included in the discussion was the need to explain both preservation programs to township planning commissions so that townships may become more sympathetic to preservation and be able to clear up misconceptions individuals may have about farm preservation.

To date more than 200 farm totally 14,000 acres are on the waiting list. In 1998, the preserve board will be required to use a ranking system when selecting farms to preserve with state monies. The Preserve Board wants to make certain that an even handed approach is used in ranking when funds become available and will use Trust funds in helping to purchase easements on farms that may not rank as high.

"Confidence from the public has grown since the Ag Preserve Board was established in 1980 and the Farmland Trust in 1988," Stouffer said. "We have had tremendous increasing support from agribusiness."

This support enabled the Trust to preserve more farms and exceed the funding of last year's goal.

Both organizations will continue working in the same direction characterized by closely working together.

In the past, joint board meetings of both preservation organizations met annually. But, Stouffer said that they plan to conduct smaller meetings several times throughout the year to focus on strategies.

Before Clyde passed away, the Robinson and Jackson families were especially close friends and this makes the award that much more meaningful.

The annual corporate meeting was preceded by eleven district delegate meetings. The annual meeting program included a presentation by Dr. James Ferguson, New Bolton Center, on True Protein and Milk Urea Nitrogen (MUN) as they relate to dairy cow rations, and Dave Dowler, Dairy Extension Agent, Mercer County on New Trends in Managing Feedstuff. President Lane Sollenberger, and Dave Slusser reported on the progress made by PA DHIA and our challenges for the future. The Finance Report was presented by Ted Brown, Director of Finance and Human Resources and Jim Boyer, Manager PA DRPC, reported on the Dairy Records Processing Center Advisory Committee activities. Sonny Meyerhoeffer, National DHIA Director, gave the National DHIA report. Frank Orner, Chairman of the Fact Finding Committee, had a discussion on PA DHIA's strategic long range planning and negotiations held between other farm cooperatives and DHIAs. Two resolutions were presented and passed by the delegates.

Presidents Reported

President Sollenberger reported on the successes and opportunities that PA DHIA accomplished over the last year and thanked the members, the delegates, the board, the employees, and the management staff for all the progress. He stated these accomplishments were in line with and inspired by the Strategic Long Range Plan approved by the Board of Directors. The first and most important accomplishments was the financial turn-around of the association with a profit in 1996. He attributed this to cost cutting measures and the success of new products introduced.

"The dairy industry is changing fast and I constantly read articles about the negative aspects of these changes, unfortunately we in Pennsylvania have not been able to work together to seize opportunity from these changes," state Sollenberger. He said, "We no longer have the resources and must stop the duplication of services and reinventing the wheel. It is my strong conviction that we will need to align ourselves with another organization or organizations and spread the cost of farm service and product development over more cows."

Finance

Ted Brown, Director of Finance and Human Resources presented the financial report. PA DHIA had a profit of $198,766 in the fiscal year ending September 30, 1996. This was quite an improvement over the $96,462 loss in 1995 and it was accomplished not by increased revenues but with cost cutting measures. The association has made a substantial reduction in its debts and a strong improvement on the balance sheet during the year.

Dairy Records Processing Center Report

"The year was dominated by the demands of a rapidly changing dariy industry. We lead the nation in innovative test plans," stated Jim Boyer, Manager of PA DRPC. These programs plus the changes in National DHIA's from the old rules to herd profiles, Code of Ethics, and Uniform Procedures, have taken time and planning. During the spring of 1996, PA DHIA became the first DHIA to go on line and is still the only DHIA where herd management information can be accessed through the Internet. Presently 30% of our records information on the mainframe is being accessed by members and consultants from our Web page. Our DRPC is the only one that can provide date in larger numbers on MUN research. Programming is complete on the laptop billing program and trial runs will be done this spring. Also, we are ready to provide True Protein

At ENB, we calculate loan interest the traditional way...
My calendar has 365 days
Although I am new to Ephrata National Bank, ENB is not new to me In my 26 years of agricultural lending, mostly in Lancaster County, I came to respect ENB as a tough competitor for quality agricultural loans
ENB has been providing loans and other banking services to farmers since 1881 Many of the philosophies that helped ENB enjoy more than a century of growth are as important today as they ever were
Take the way we calculate interest on loans, for example The traditional way to calculate interest on a loan is to use the actual number of days in a year, which on my calendar is 365 Many, if not most, lenders use a 360-day year
What does that mean to you? Well, on a $100,000 loan at 8¼% (the current prime rate), your interest bill at ENB would be $8,250 If you paid interest on the basis of a 360-day year, your loan would cost you $8,364, or an annual difference of $114
I think $114 is a significant savings If you agree, give me a call We've got lots to talk about

Robert D. Steele From Wisconsin-Madison Named Ag Dean

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Robert D. Steele, associate dean for research in the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences and executive director of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, has been named dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, effective July 1. Formal approval will be taken up by the Board of Trustees at their March 21 meeting.

"Dr. Steele is an accomplished administrator known nationally for his research in nutritional sciences, and we are very pleased that he will join Penn State as dean of one of our key colleges," said Penn State President Graham B. Spanier. "He has a proven track record in the integration of teaching, research and service, and we look forward to working with him."

As associate dean since 1993, Steele is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the research division, adminstering approximately $70 million of research activity from federal, state and private sources encompassing nearly 600 projects by 300 research faculty in 22 departments and numerous centers. He also has overall responsibility for the operation of 13 research stations throughout the state of Wisconsin, and administers a $4,000,000 internal competitive grants program. He served as acting associate dean for the 1991-92 academic year.

Among his intitiatives as associate dean have been the development of a Research Advisory Council to recommend policy and review processes for research proposals, the development of a home page and a database for the college.

His principle areas of research include amino acids; nitrogen and sulfur metabolism in liver disease; interactions of retinol and folic acid metabolism; blood-brain barrier transport of nutrients; and ethionine hepatotoxicity. His more than 50 articles have been published in such journals as Biochemical Pharmacy, the Journal of Nutrition, the American Journal of Physiology and the Journal of Biological Chemistry.

Steele has been a professor in the Department of Nutritional Sciences since 1987 where he teaches both graduate and undergraduate programs in nutritional sciences as well in the Biocore and Ways of Knowing programs.

He helped develop the Interdepartmental Graduate Program in Nutritional Sciences, worked toward integrating research and undergraduate programs and served as chair of the departmental Graduate Admissions Committee.

Steele has strong commitment to the land-grant university missions. He says that, "Cooperative Extension is a fundamental and integral function of the College of Agricultural Sciences at Penn State. I believe Cooperative Extension is critically important in transferring and applying the knowledge and expertise of the university on problems and issues that are important to agriculture, agribusiness, families, youth, and communities in Pennsylvania. Penn State Cooperative Extension is a model for other outreach enterprises in the University and across the country."

Before joining the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1982 as an assistant professor, Steele was an assistant professor of nutrition at Rutgers University from 1978 to 1982. He received his B.S. in nutritional sciences and his M.S. in biochemistry and nutrition from the University of Arizona in 1970 and 1973, respectively, and his doctorate in nutritional sciences from the university of Wisconsin-Madison in 1978.

Among his awards are the Bio-Serve Award for Experimental Nutrition from the American Institute of Nutrition, and a New Investigator Research Award from USPHS.

He is currently a member of the North Central Regional Research Committee, responsible for review of all Hatch regional research projects; chair of the ESCOP subcommittee on human nutrition, and member of the Board of Scientific Advisors for the American Council on Science and Health.

Steele also has served as institutional representative to such boards as the National Agricultural Biotechnology Council and the Agricultural Research Institute; was conference chair of the Ross Laboratories 12th Nutritional Conference on Medial Issues and co-chair of the A.E. Harper Symposium on emerging aspects of amino acid metabolism. He has been a member of a number of professional societies such as the American Farmland Trust, American Society for Biochemical and molecular biology and American Institute of Nutrition, among others and as such has served on numerous committees for them.

Check Planter Equipment

tom. Several dealers sell that device.

Huge stones in the way of the planter can wreak havoc with the disc, the firming wheels, and the linkages. A lot of planters have been bent and twisted because of stones, mostly in conventional tillage situations. Discs need to be checked for straightness and size, the seed tube should be loose (not real firm), and the firming wheel tires should be clear of soil.

The wheels and disc can be checked on the shop floor (dragging the planter across the concrete floor and looking at disk location for the centering of the seed between the firming wheels) or out in a sod field.

The final check of the tires and the discs and other adjustments should be made right in the field. The trench should be at proper planting depth and the firming wheels should provide a "topping" of dirt above level with the ground on top of the seed. In other words, seed-to-soil contact needs to be complete.

When using fertilizer injectors, growers should be sure proper pressure is available and the nozzle is in the right place.

But even when all the equipment is considered, the "moisture and temperature on the day of planting has everything to do with our success," Whitney said. "Make your decisions based on the moisture level of that ground."

Four different planter manufacturers were also represented during the broadcast with descriptions of the new equipment.

Strategic Long Range Planning

The Strategic Long Range Plan and PA DHIA market projections were presented at the District Meetings. Frank Orner, Chairman of the Fact Finding Committee lead a discussion and answered questions concerning talks held with other DHIAs and farm cooperatives.

PA DHIA's strategic long range plan has four major categories. 1) Develop new products, services and marketing techniques for the next century; 2) Enhance stability, tenure and opportunities for employees; 3) Update practices in the areas of membership, governance, and business structure; and 4) Work within the broader industry thru strategic alliances, joint ventures, etc. Many aspects of the plan have already occurred or are being developed. MUN, True Protein, Internet, Heifer Net and a Regional marketing manager fall into the category 1. In category 2 we developed a uniform pay and benefit package for all employees. Category 3 includes lap top billing, and other internal management procedures. Also, the Board of Directors downsizing from 18 to 11 directories are in this category. Under category 4, many talks have occurred at various levels with other DHIAs and farm cooperatives. We have talked to many organizations on joint ventures, strategic alliances, or even mergers to better serve dairy farmers, and to better enact the strategic long range plan. The discussions are still in progress, however any actions or recommendations to the membership must be to the long range benefit of our members.

Resolutions

The following resolutions were introduced at the Annual meeting from District meetings and were passed at the Annual meeting.

Resolution From District 8: Be it resolved that to encourage attendance and participation of delegates at the district level the Board of Directors consider paying a per diem to the delegates who attend.

Resolution From District 4: Because of the difficulty of identifying ET calves. We resolve that ET calves be properly reported on the technicians's computer in the Quick Barn Sheet program such as an optional page on the computer screen. We feel this will add to the success of the Heifer Net.

District Meetings

One hundred and two delegates plus staff and other guests attended eleven district meetings. The directors elected in each district are as follows:

District 1, Ralph Gilkinson; District 2, Adam Derr; District 3, Frank Orner; District 4, Bill Itle; District 5, John Brodzina; District 6, Neal McCulloch; District 7, John Wilcox; District 8, Mark Eby; District 9, Dale Hoover; District 10, Norm Hershey; District 11, John Castrogiovani.

The District meetings continue to provide an excellent environment for discussion and new ideas to be communicated between the delegates, the board, and the PA DHIA staff. A printed Annual report and audited financial statement will be sent to every member in their herd reports over the next six weeks.

Technicians Serving Dairymen

Listed below are some of the DHIA Technicians currently employed by the County and State DHIA's how are responsible for the actual data and sample collection at the farm. Award winners for 1996 are as follows:

Distinguished Service Award (D): Region #1, Ralph Rudy, Centre County; Region #2, Anne Couch, Huntingdon County; Region #3, Lyle Packard, Bradford County; Region #4, Craig Van Horn, Juniata County; Region #5, Gary Williams, Susquehanna/ Wayne County.

This award is presented to the outstanding individual in each region who must meet certain standards of cooperation, completeness of work, neatness and appearance.

Hollinger Memorial Award (H): Jim Batz of Dauphin County.

The Carl Hollinger Memorial Award is presented to the outstanding Technician for excellence in neatness and accuracy and samples and barn sheets sent to the Central Milk Lab.

Putnam Memorial Award (P): Linda Wagner of Wayne County Full Time; Criss Hess of Bucks County Part Time.

This Dexter N. Putnam Memorial Award is presented to the Technician with the greatest accuracy in reporting data on barn sheets.

Rookie Of The Year (R): Mary Schmidt of Crawford County Full Time; Amy Chilcote of Huntingdon County Part Time.

The Rookie of the Year Award is presented to the outstanding new Technician for the past year.

Merit Award (M): 53 Technicians received merit awards for their excellent service to members.

Herb Gilmore Superior Technician Award: Ken Smith of Indiana County.

The purpose of this award is to honor those Technicians who deliver exceptional service to Pennsylvania's dairy farmers, promote good public relations, and provide up-to-date records for all of their members.

Key To Lawsuit Protection

possible high nitrate contamination of groundwater sites and could possibly open potential nuisance lawsuits.

Now, because of the existence of the Safe Drinking Water Act and its widespread implications to producers, swine farmers must become even more record-conscious and have nutrient management plan strategies in place. And as environmental action groups such as the Sierra Club becomes more active (23 states have been recently sued by the club's legal defense fund because they claim EPA is not doing its job in regulating nonpoint source pollution), producers must be even more aware of their nutrient management strategies.

(Gabriel noted that is possible that EPA may someday regard nutrients from agricultural application a "point" source of pollution.)

Gabriel provided an overview of nutrients and their potential effects on water supplies. Manure has great value as a nutrient — but excessive amounts raises question about overloading the environment.

(Case in point, according to the NPPC representative: North Carolina and Minnesota are thinking of making phosphorous the limiting element in nutrient management legislation.)

Hogs don't handle phosphorus as well as ruminants, according to Gabriel. Thus, producers should look into feed additives such as phytase enzymes to limit the amount of phosphorous released into the environment.

Also, there are conservation reserve plan funds available to pay landowners to place buffer strips of land alongside streams, tributaries, and wellheads to reduce the amount of stream sediment. Producers can consult the local NRCS office for more information.

Jeff Gabriel, director of environmental services for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC), Des Moines, Iowa.

Having a control plan is the key. Gabriel provided several real accounts of where having a plan in place was key:

• One day an Indiana producer and his wife drove away for the weekend to attend a wedding. Fortunately the couple made plans to have their farm watched over by neighbors. One day the neighbors were driving around and noticed the manure lagoon was shallower than it appeared hours before. They noticed that a berm had burst and the manure came spilling down into the fields. A contractor was summoned immediately and a bulldozer was able to contain the spill before it reached a stream. (Landowners are fined only if the manure reaches a stream, not if it remains on the property.)

• Not having any plan could provide disastrous. A Missouri producer realized he had a clog in the pumping system feeding into his lagoon one winter day. He decided that the only way to get rid of the material logjam would be to pump fresh water into it, not thinking about where all the water would end up. The water overflowed the berm, dumping contaminated water into a local stream, frozen over by ice. The DER fined the producer a substantial amount of money. The issue: DER decided that since the ice prevented them from seeing how many fish were killed, they assumed all the fish were killed.

"If you're making production management decisions, think of what the consequences of those decisions will be," Gabriel said.

• When deciding the location for a manure pit, don't put it necessarily in the most convenient spot, according to the NPPC representative. One time, the University of Tennessee decided to upgrade their swine facility and wanted to locate the facility in a nice, secluded area. Trouble is, the secluded land was owned by a chemistry professor who wanted to develop plots on that land and fought against the location of the facility. The university decided to upgrade the facility instead at its original location — next to the president's house, noted Gabriel.

Producers should note that consumers believe "perception is reality" and how the facility looks is "going to have an impact on how they feel about you as a person," Gabriel said.

• Be sure to communicate your plans to the right people and try to gauge their reaction ahead of time. Gabriel noted another case where four crop producers in southcentral Iowa wanted to build a 1,200-sow farrow-to-finish operation to help find a good place for their corn. They prepared careful plans and went to the local municipalities. But one group resisted the facilities, arguing over the setback distance from residential housing. Gabriel said the group quickly placed a trailer up near the intended sight, found a truck driver to admit he had no home, and moved him in — creating the concern over the setback distance to a "local resident."

Careful planning — and listening to your attorney, Gabriel noted — can help you avoid pitfalls in your operation.

2-Year-Old Tops Holstein Convention Sale

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — A 2-year-old Hosltein consigned by William and Michael Ammon of Lewistown sold for $16,500 to a New Jersey farm Thursday night to top the Pennsylvania State Holstein Convention Sale held at the Berkshire Sheraton Inn, in Reading.

The sale totaled on the sale of 57 lots, for an unofficial average of $2,731 per lot.

There were seven that sold for more than $5,000. There were a number of fall-fresh, recently fresh, soon fresh and bred 2-year-olds and older cows, with no embryos, and seven first-choices of pregnancies. There were several calves offered as well as several yearlings.

Ammon Farms Luke Effie-ET, born August 13, 1994, out of Norrielake Cleitus Luke and Bayville Blackstar Edie-ET, sold to Bob and Kathy Finderg of Cedar Lane Farms, in Old Wood, New Jersey for $16,500.

According to Kathy, they came to the sale specifically seeking to purchase Effie, and were pleased with the offerings of the sale overall. The couple has 150 registered Holsteins and primarily markets genetics.

Second highest seller was Seven sold for $5,000 or more.

The convention was to continue Friday with the annual meeting, during which time the state's National Holstein Winter Forum was to be held to discuss such issues as changing the herd book and identification.

The theme of this year's convention was, "Pennsylvania Holsteins. Looking to the future."

Turnout for the convention sale was strong with standing room only in the ballroom of the Sheraton. In addition, telephone bids were received during the sale and some purchases made that way.

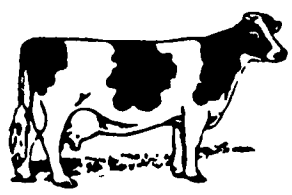
State Dairy Princess Angela Werley, and alternate state princesses Meredith Weiderspahn and Lisa Fitch helped during the sale by running sale slips.

Other dairy princesses scooped and handed out ice cream at the rear of the ballroom during the sale.

Dave Rama of the New York Cattle Exchange in Delhi, N.Y., and Mike Weimer of Emlenton served as auctioneers for the sale, while being helped by well-known pedigree-reader Horace Backus.

Ringmen included Don Welk, of Strasburg, and Pennsylvania Holstein Association director of sales Bill Allen and PHA interim executive director Ken Raney.

The sale committee was comprised of Dwight Stoltzfus, chairman, Ray Moyer, Dean Hartman, Donald Seipt, Mark Weber, and Tim Barlow.



Acres U.S.A. Conference March 3-5

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The annual Acres U.S.A. Conference is coming to Lancaster.

From March 3-5, several hundred eco-minded individuals from around the world will gather at the Lancaster Host holiday Inn in Lancaster to participate in a variety of in-depth workshops, listen to prominent speakers, and learn more about ecologically minded production at the conference, Eco-Ag/East.

Included will be an "eco-product" trade show and all-day-long viewing of videos on subjects such as soil fertility, composting, non-toxic weed control, biological insect control, grazing, and other sustainable ag topics.

According to Eco-Ag East sponsors, the conference speakers will cover all facets of sustainable agriculture — soils, crops, weeds, and insect control — and make the connection between the soil and human and animal health as well. Together they represent hundreds of years of experience.

Workshops include "Living Compost, Living Soil," by Siegfried and Uta Luebke, on Monday, March 3, from 9 a.m.-noon. "Diversifying Your Farm for Pleasure, Profit and Production" will be the topic presented by Joel Salatin on Tuesday, March 4, from 8:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. An "Introduction to Biological Farming" will by presented by Gary Zimmer on Monday, March 3, from 2 p.m.-5 p.m. "Demystifying Biodynamics" will be presented by Hugh Courtney and Steve .Moore on Wednesday, March 5, from 9 a.m.-noon. "Hands-On Soil Fertility" will be the topic presented by Neal Kinsey from 2:30 p.m.-5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 4.

Other topics include "Herd Health Naturally" by C. Edgar Sheaffer, V.M.D.; "The Secret Life of Compost — Putting Static-Pile Composting To Work On Your Farm" by Malcolm Beck; and "Soil Testing, Do-It-Yourself" by Bob Pike.

Seminars will be held on Monday, March 3 on "ecoproducts" by Jerry Brunetti, "A Whole-Farm Approach to Market Gardening" by Eric and Anne Nordell, and CSA-style marketing by Steve Moore.

On Tuesday, March 4, seminars include "The Cure Is In The Feedbag" by Gary Zimmer; "Eco-Farming Grass — Fairway, Putting Green or Pasture" by Joel Simmons; and "Tillage, Compaction and Soil Fertility" by Neal Kinsey. A luncheon lecture to those holding tickets obtained at the registration desk by Dale L. Schurter is titled "You Are What You Eat and Think." Other Tuesday seminars include information about an organic, grazing-based dairy by Roman Stoltzfoos; "Using Heritage Breeds as Elements of Sustainable Agriculture" by Don Bixby, D.V.M.; "The Case For Eco-Agriculture" by Charles Walters; and "Soil Fertility — the Plant, Animal, Human Health Link" by Dale L. Schurter.

Registration fees are $90 for singles, $145 for married couples for preregistration on or before Wednesday, Feb. 26. At-door registration for singles is $110 and married couples is $175. Students with valid ID are one-half price.

For more information, call (800) 355-5313 or (504) 889-2100.

Using DHIA Can Mean More Money

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Cooperative Extension
Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — As dairy farmers, we are constantly thinking about how to cut costs in our dairy business and how we can have more net income left over. True?

Because DHIA participation is a cash cost item due monthly, many of you weigh the expense — is it worth the money? Some of you quit DHIA this year, possibly for this reason.

About every second dairy farmer in this country has never joined DHIA. Yet in the leading dairy states of Europe, DHIA participation is much greater than it is here.

Of course, participation is required there.

Why? Because it is considered essential for staying in business, for surviving competition and price squeezes and for making progress.

Does the same hold true for the United States?

You may say that my answer to this question is biased. Sure it is. Why not, when I see all the benefits weighed against the cost?

You ask, "Why should I spend money for monthly DHIA testing of cows and the farm milk tank in an official program supervised by a third person?"

You say, "I can save the cost of paying a third person by doing it myself with an owner-sampler program."

The first reason to belong to DHIA is trust in the reliability of the records.

If you sell a cow, heifer, bull calf or flush ova from a cow, the buyer knows you did not favor a cow in feeding, milking, breeding, culling or housing, because a third person supervised your records and documented your management.

A second reason for belonging to DHIA comes from looking at the records of non-DHIA herds. Here in Delaware last year we had 4,620 cows participating in DHIA compared to 3,935 cows (almost all Holsteins) not enrolled in the program.

The non-DHIA cows last year produced an average 14,600 pounds milk. At the same time, the DHIA cows produced on average 19,076 pounds milk, a difference in milk production per cow per year of 4,476 pounds milk in favor of the DHIA cows.

Given the average milk price, this translates to $591 more income per cow per year for a total of $78,012 more for the average size Delaware dairy herd, or $2,730,420 more income for all Delaware DHIA cows and herds compared to the non-DHIA cows and herds.

So, how do those figures strike you disbelievers who shrug and say, "Who cares" or, "So what?"

I can give you even more reasons based on details from our Delaware DHIA records, such as farm cost per pounds of milk; milk cost per day of life of cow; genetic merit of cow, sire, newborn calf, unborn calf; calving interval; treatment costs, etc.

But it's hard to beat the above milk difference — that is the bottom line — assuming that if you make more gross income from milk, you tend also to have more net income.

For many years our research at UD has shown that if we feed more grain, no matter what the price, it generally results in more milk and more net income. This past year has seen a few challenges to this general rule, because of unusually high grain prices without a simultaneous rise in milk prices.

As long as you can feed with the price of one pound of grain for at least two pounds of milk, you usually make money.

In their feeding programs, some dairy farmers have reemphasized more high-quality forages and grazing.

At the same time, they also have decreased grain feeding to one pound for three pounds of milk, thereby reducing feeding costs. However, this often means an increase in labor cost.

So you must examine your balance sheet carefully (which is what DHIA does well) to identify income over feed cost for every cow, heifer and the total herd.

This singles out the cows and heifers that are losing you money. What we may know intuitively shows up in actual, far more convincing figures on our monthly DHIA computer barn sheet.

Andrew Carnegie, the self-made Pittsburgh multi-millionaire, wrote in his autobiography the secret to his success: "Control costs and the profit will take care of itself."

That is my central argument in favor of participating in DHIA. DHIA gives us reliable figures that identify the cost of producing milk — our main source of income — in addition to many other data.

DHIA gives dairy farmers a tool to weed out costly cows and heifers to control dairy farm costs in milking, feeding, genetics, breeding and treatment.

No wonder Delaware bankers require participation in DHIA before giving a loan to a dairy farmer.

Dairy farmers in this region have a new challenge awaiting them now — the merger of our milk-wholesaling Atlantic Dairy Cooperative with the highly integrated Land-O-Lakes Cooperative.

Is this a profitable step for dairy farmers?

Some of the costs involved have some farmers worried. However, according to the balance sheets of the two cooperatives over the last year, both cooperatives handled approximately the same volume of milk — 3.8 versus 4.0 billion pounds.

Yet the sales figures for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative given at a public meeting were $600 million compared to $1,700 million for Land-O-Lakes Cooperative! Net earnings were $6 million for Atlantic compared to $23 million for Land-O-Lakes!

The finest milk begins with new Feedtech™ Silage.

What you feed your cattle has a direct effect on the quality of milk you produce. To achieve the finest quality of milk possible, treat your silage with new Feedtech™ Silage from Alfa Laval Agri.™

Feedtech Silage offers a unique combination of pasture-selected bacteria and specific enzymes designed to enhance silage quality. Fast-acting Feedtech Silage speeds up fermentation creating a palatable, highly digestible feed product with greater nutritional value for your cattle.

Tested in five major American Agricultural Colleges over a wide range of conditions, Feedtech Silage has been proven to improve animal performance . . . plus, it's safe and easy to use.

Farm Transfer Workshop Feb. 24

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County farmers are invited to attend a free morning workshop titled "Building on Your Success: A Farm Transition and Estate Planning Workshop" to be held Monday, Feb. 24 from 9:45 a.m.-noon at the Farm and Home Center.

The seminar is hosted by Lancaster Farmland Trust, a private farmland preservation organization. Speakers will be American Express Financial advisers Doug Tanner and Dave Weidman, certified financial planners, as well as attorney Jay Clark, Esq., James & Clark, Intercourse. Lunch will be provided following the seminar at no charge courtesy of Lancaster Farmland Trust.

To register for this two-hour seminar, call (717) 293-0707 prior to 8 a.m. Monday, Feb. 24, and leave the names of those who will be attending with the receptionist or on the answering machine.

Because of his death several weeks ago, the family of J. Robert Myers, Sr. of St. Thomas, wish to inform the public that they can no longer reserve sale dates. Robert was well liked as an auctioneer and according to his son-in-law Dennis Koontz, he was a sincere and dedicated individual who touched the lives of many people.

Over 600 people attended a memoral service in the James Buchanan Middle School.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The recent snow gave our grandchildren an opportunity to climb our big hill in the meadow beside our house and sled down. Even the little one enjoyed going down on her father's back. This is the same hill where my sisters and I sledded when we were youngsters. Sometimes there were accidents and glasses got broken and even the sleds.

During the snowstorm, I walked with the men around the farm as we checked on trees that were ready to be lumbered. The three-year-old boy had to take so many steps compared to his Daddy's big ones. He saw a rabbit hopping through the woods and then race toward a nearby field.

We have not seen the red fox as often recently as my husband is clearing the brush off a hillside where he lived. But, six bluebirds come most every morning to check out the bluebird houses on posts around our yard. I'd have thought they would go South instead of being here when it is 10 degrees in the morning. The male bird is so very colorful when he flies.

This is the season when I have time to try new recipes. Some that I read about are enticing and some do not appeal to me at all. One of these was "Banana Cup." It called for six small bananas, one-half cup of ketchup, chopped celery and Worcestershire sauce. I decided that ketchup and bananas were not for me.

Now steamed orange dumplings with nutmeg sauce sounded good to me. We like this for dessert and often eat it with milk. I don't make very many casseroles but they can save time by being a one-dish meal. We have always had dessert with all of our meals. "Lenten Lemon Custard Cake" is an unusual one as it has custard in the bottom of the baking cup and cake on top. Oh, all of those good sweets that we shouldn't eat.

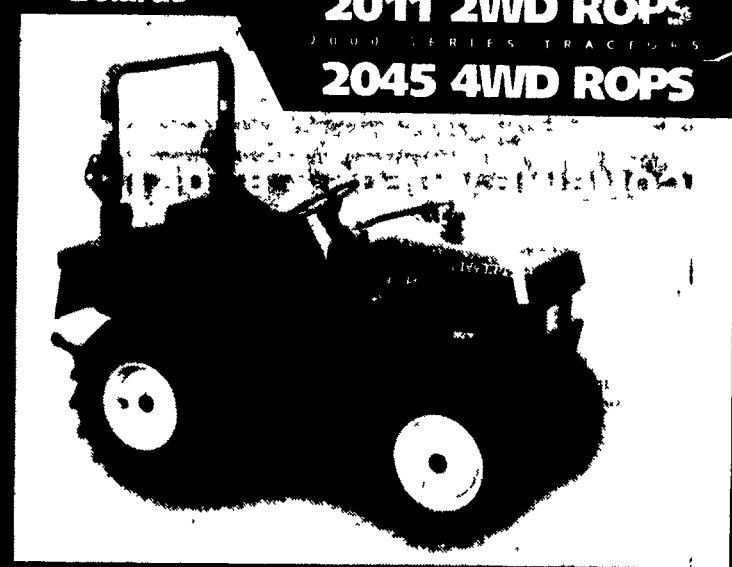
Belarus
2011 2WD ROPS
2000 SERIES TRACTORS
2045 4WD ROPS



DOUBLE THE BELARUS VALUE.

Even the smallest of jobs has to be done right. That's why our tough new 2000 Series tractors are built with the same durability, value and affordability you expect from Belarus.

Choose from two versatile models: the 2011 or the 2045, each with 540/1000 PTO and Category I three point hitch. Add the strength of the hard working 22 hp fuel efficient 2 cylinder air cooled diesel and you have the small tractor engine that's big on performance. And that makes the 2011 and 2045 tractors ideal for everything from lawn and garden work to small acreage applications.

But that's not all. The 2000 Series is available with two wheel (2011) or four wheel (2045) rugged traction. Additional features include the ease of power assisted steering and a solid transmission with 16 forward and eight reverse speeds. Add them all up and you've got the series that sees small projects through from start to finish. So get a good day's work done – the Belarus way.

Hey, it works. The system works.

And at a time when we read about government gridlock and folks "falling through the cracks," it's comforting when the community systems that have been painstakingly put into place do function with speed and efficiency.

So, there I was, sitting at the kitchen table, on the telephone with one of our dairy cooperative staffers in his office halfway across the country. Suddnely the front door burst open and in poked the head of dairy herd-assistant Angie, who yelled a four-letter word at me.

"F-I-R-E! The skid loader's on fire. Call 911!" she pleaded.

"Omigoshtheskidder'sonfire.G' bye!" I sputtered into the phone and hung up. Sure enough, clouds of gray smoke rolled up from the front part of the trench silo, clearly visible from the east kitchen window.

Frankly, I was a little hesitant to call for emergency help. The smoke was visible, but not any flames. It didn't look all that serioius and there was nothing else around the trench that could burn. We had a round-bale haybaler catch fire out in the hayfield many summers ago; and in the few minutes it took the fire engine to get there, the baler was beyond saving.

Would we be running someone out with fire equipment and when they arrive, there would be no fire left? That seemed like a waste of the emergency systems — to say nothing of the embarrasment. Still ... I punched 9-1-1 into the phone still clutched in my hand. Let it ring once. Saw the smoke dying down. Figured the worst of the crisis was over. Changed my mind and hung up. In about 30 seconds, the phone rang. It was County Control.

"Do you need help?" inquired a dispatcher's voice.

"Well, we have a piece of farm equipment on fire, but it's in a trench silo where nothing else can burn and it looks like it's dying down," I explained. "I really don't think we need fire equipment."

"We'll send something out, just in case," a concerned gentleman's voice assured me. "Can you stand out in front of the house and direct them?"

I stepped out the door to walk the few hundred yards up the road to the trench and heard the fire siren at Loganville, two miles away, already wailing.

By the time I reached the trench, not much more than a minute later, The Farmer and our field crops assistant Bob were backing out with the pickup from the still-smoking skidder. Bob had grabbed a fire extinguisher from the shop and they had subdued the flames around the motor, where a probable loose wire had sparked and started the burning.

Momentarily, a vehicle came sailing up the road, red light flashing on the top, with another truck behind it. And behind the wheel of the first truck was my cousin, Dale Dubbs, who is also a neighbor and devoted volunteer fireman. He and several other volunteers from the area are veteran "Hot Shots," who are occasionally sent from the East to help battle the giant western fires. How fortunate we are to have such professionally-trained volunteers right in our backyard.

While Dale radioed back the situation — or the lack of one in this case — I apologized for running them out.

"No problem," he grinned. "We were at the station anyway."

Back inside, I called our insurance agent and related what had happened.

"I always wondered if, when you call for help, someone will come like that," noted the assistant who took my call. "That's really reassuring."

Indeed it is. And we sleep better nights, knowing that.

To County Control and to our local volunteer firefights, a heartfelt and prayerful thanks guys!

Paul and Twila Ranck with their six children operate F.A.M.I.L.I.E.S., which stands for Fathers And Mothers Illustrating Love In Everyday Situations.

"We desire our home to be peaceful, fun, and filled with learning," Twila said of Paul's and her efforts to incorporate the family into operating their home-based business.

Home Is Peaceful, Fun And Filled With Learning

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

PARKESBURG (Chester Co.) — If you attended the Pennsylvania Farm Show, you probably ran into Paul and Twila Ranck or one of their six children. They are the family who have a playset display in the Family Corner where thousands of children explore the playhouse and slide down the tunnels.

Although the Farm Show happens only one time a year, the Rancks work together year-round not only with the outdoor playsets but also on encouraging others in building family relationships.

"We both grew up in strong families and know that it requires work to make it," Paul said.

"We are committed to illustrating God's love in our everyday lives and encourage others to love those that God has placed in their lives," his wife said.

Paul grew up on a Cochranville dairy farm. Twila grew up in northwestern Ontario, where her family worked with native Indians. They returned to Lancaster County for Twila to spend her final high school year at Faith Mennonite School. The couple met through Paul's sister who was a classmate of Twila's.

For the first year and a half after the Rancks married, they worked on the family's dairy farm. Then they served a 2½ -year stint in mission work at the Thunder Bay Indian Reserve.

They returned to the county and farming for four years. Paul worked as a relief milker averaging 60-70 hours weekly.

"Paul had more offers for relief milking than he could handle. He was gone from early morning to late at night. Although some of the children accompanied him, he had no energy left for the family when he got home," Twila said.

Although both liked dairy farming, their life's vocation seems to take a different twist.

"We started looking for things so that the family could become involved," Twila said. With six children they wanted a job that did not require the father leaving the family to work, but one where they could work together.

The children are homeschooled and include Jason, 11; Marlene, 10; Barbara, 8; Elizabeth, 6; Martha Joy, 4; and Daniel, 2.

A few years ago, they heard about the business where they now live. Called Cackelberry Farm, located three miles east of Gap along Route 30, the yard is filled with wooden outdoor furniture in addition to a large selection of playsets and wooden train. A wholesaler places the items on the grounds for consignment.

Primarily a seasonal business, the outdoor furniture and playsets attract passerbys along the heavily traveled Route 30.

It was the Rancks who decided to launch out and set up displays at the Farm Show and at numerous other events that draw large crowds.

In addition, they offer other items for sale. Twila, who holds nursing classes for mothers of newborn babies, had for many years sold a few items relating to babies and mothers.

"I look for products that are quality made and hard to find," Twila said. These include such items as heavy duty cloth diapers, grain mills, and baby slings.

The line has now expanded to wooden wagons, car rollers, non-spill bubble blowers, and many other child-related items.

"We make very few things ourselves. We use local craftsmen when possible, but I spend hours on the phone calling all over the nation to track down products to add to our line," Twila said.

While the items offered at first glance seem to be a conglomeration of unrelated items, Twila explained, "Most of the products offered are derived from our need of them."

That explains the inclusion everything from nursing mother's personal wear to a child's harp with easy to learn lessons for teaching musical notes.

The Rancks named their business F.A.M.I.L.I.E.S., which stands for Fathers and Mothers Illustrating Love In Everyday Situations.

The Rancks say that they make family the number one priority when deciding how much and what direction to take in promoting their business.

The whole family travels together and stays in their motor home to cover events when they set up displays at the Farm Show, home school fairs, and festivals.

"There are lots of opportunities to venture into, but the family is most important. If we can't go together as a family, we don't go. We've had offers to set up elsewhere, but the headaches don't seem worth the tradeoff," Twila said.

The children takes turns accompanying Paul in setting up the playsets for private customers.

At home, the children help package orders for mailorder and the whole family folds diapers for packaging.

Although the whole family pitches in to help out wherever needed, the children, as they grow older, seem to be settling into chores that they prefer. Jason mows the grass, which requires moving the huge display of outdoor furniture and playsets. Marla likes to help with shipping. Barb likes to prepare lunch for the family and go with her dad to set up swings.

Home schooling fits in well with the Ranck's schedule," Twila said. "The hours are adaptable. We don't post store hours because we want that option to close the store for a few hours if the children require the time."

In addition to required studies, each child plays a musical instrument. With the help of self-study programs, the parents teach the children how to play the trumpet, violin, piano, and harp.

"We sing together as a family for enjoyment but we don't offer programs," Twila said. The family attends Rockville Mennonite Church.

Summertime is the busiest season, and the hours may be longer than the Rancks would prefer, but winter days offers a respite from long hours. Generally sales are by appointment in the wintertime.

"Our business is similar to farming in that we have slow and fast times of the year," Paul said.

He said that when they first acquired the outdoor furniture business, he supplemented the income by continuing some relief milking and helping with the chickens on the farm. But the owner decided to sell the chickens and turn the chicken house into a business and the barn also houses another business. And, Paul has less and less time to devote to anything outside of F.A.M.I.L.I.E.S.

Of the success of the business, Twila said, "It is such a gift beyond our imagination that I'm not sure we can dream where we will go from here."

Paul said that he often seeks counsel from his dad. "My dad (Harold Ranck) was a man of integrity. He always told me: 'If you're got work to do, do it well,'" Paul said of his dad.

For a brochure of the items offered by F.A.M.I.L.I.E.S., write to the Rancks at R.1, Box 347, Parkesburg, PA 19366 or call (717) 442-1255.

Work goes faster and is more enjoyable when the whole family works together. They are folding diapers in preparation for filling mail-orders.

Microwaves Can Do More Than Re-Heat

Recently, I read that most people use microwaves to re-heat food. Rarely are they used for actual food preparation. When they are used for food preparation, popcorn is the most commonly prepared food. I know the "popcorn" feature on my microwave is one of the most popular features — especially when it pops popcorn without burned kernels!

I've been informally gathering information on exactly what people prepare when they "cook" in their microwaves. Eggs frequently were mentioned. It reminds me of a time several years ago when our microwave was being repaired. My son was moping around the kitchen. He said he was hungry, but he couldn't have eggs. I asked if we were out. He said, "No, but the microwave is broken."

It finally hit me — he never saw scrambled eggs prepared on top of the stove! In his lifetime of experience, he thought eggs could only be prepared in the microwave.

Here's a favorite egg recipe that was shared. Please note this is a high-fat dish that needs to be balanced with low-fat foods throughout the day.

Egg Sandwich. Cook a strip or two of bacon by wrapping it in paper towels and microwaving until desired crispness. Hopefully, you will have a microwaveable container that is shaped similarly to an English muffin or bun. Scramble two eggs and about a tablespoon of milk in this container. Microwave until cooked. Assemble sandwich on an English muffin or sandwich bun by adding bacon, egg, and top with a slice of cheese.

One of my favorite breakfast is cooked oatmeal. I buy the prepackaged kind — you add water and microwave for 90 seconds. Add a sliced banana, and you have a hearty, quick, low-fat breakfast. This is also easy to clean up!

The following are more tips that I received years ago from West Penn Power Company. (Please remember, the cooking times are estimates; each microwave is different. Also, the temperature of the ingredients when you start cooking can affect the total preparation time.)

Flavored gelatin dessert. Mix a 3-pounce package of gelatin with 1 cup of water in a 2-cup microwaveable container. Heat in microwaveable container. Heat in microwave until dissolved — at least 2 minutes. Add remaining cold water, chill, and add fruit, if desired.

Pudding mixes. In a 4-cup container combine milk, and a 3¾ ounce package of pudding or pie filling mix. Heat in microwave for 5-7 minutes, stirring twice during the cooking.

Shelling nuts. Place 2 cups of nuts in shells (8 ounces) and 1 cup water in a 1 quart casserole. Cook 4-5 minutes in microwave. Crack shells and nutmeats will slip out whole. This technique works especially well with pecans and Brazil nuts, which are difficult to pick out of the shells.

Low-calorie sauteing. Chopped celery, green pepper, and onion often required a longer cooking time than needed for other ingredients in casseroles and other dishes. To avoid their "crunch" texture, precook in the microwave. For ¼ cup of vegetables, cover and cook 1 to 2 minutes. This way you can skip the butter traditionally used when sauteing on top of the stove.

Dry bread crumbs. Place 2 slices of bread on a paper towel and microwave about 90 seconds, turning slices halfway through the cooking process. When cool, the bread is crisp and ready for cubing or for making crumbs in the blender.

Softening dried fruit. Sprinkle fruit with ½ to 1 teaspoon water, cover tightly and microwave 15 to 45 seconds. The water will turn to steam and soften raisins, dates, prunes, currants, or candied fruits.

Potatoes Sprout Tasty Eating

You can bake the potato, boil it, freeze it, fry it, hash it, mash it, and turned it into a casserole, candy, cake, soup, biscuits, pancakes . . . the list goes on.

The potato is one of the oldest and mostly used vegetables in the world. Recent statistics show that the average person eats more than 124 pounds of potatoes a year.

Potatoes are high in carbohydrates and vitamin C, and a good source of dietary fiber. They are not fattening unless you add fattening ingredients. Be forewarned, there are plenty of high calorie recipes included in the recipes, but the taste is well-worth it.

Bon Appetit!

MOM'S POTATO PANCAKES

4 cups shredded peeled potatoes
1 egg, lightly beaten
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Cooking oil

Rinse potatoes in cold water; drain well. Place in a large bowl. Add egg, flour, onion, salt and pepper; mix well. In a skillet, heat ½-inch oil over medium heat. Drop batter by ⅓ cupfuls into hot oil. Flatten to form a pancake. Fry until golden brown; turn and brown the other side. Drain on paper towels. Serve immediately. Yield: 6 servings.

TWENTY DOLLAR POTATOES

6-7 potatoes, boiled, peeled
¼ cup butter
10-ounce can cream of mushroom soup
3 tablespoons minced onion
2 cups sour cream
1½ cups shredded cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup cornflakes
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Grate cooled cooked potatoes into bowl; set aside. Heat butter and soup in saucepan, stirring until smooth. Stir in onion, sour cream, cheese, salt and pepper. Add to potatoes, mixing well.

Spoon into baking dish. Top with mixture of cornflakes and melted butter. Chill in refrigerator overnight. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Bake for one hour. Serves 8.

CREAMY WHIPPED POTATOES

5 pounds potatoes
Salt
8-ounces cream cheese with chives
1 teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 tablespoons butter
2 cups heavy or whipping cream
¼ cup sliced almonds
Paprika

Peel potatoes, cut each into quarters. In 5-quart saucepan over high heat, heat potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, and enough water to come to boiling point. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 20 minutes or until done. Drain well.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In large bowl, combine potatoes, cream cheese, garlic salt, pepper, 4 tablespoons butter, and 1 teaspoon salt. With potato masher, mash until smooth, gradually add heavy cream, mixing well after each addition. Grease 13x9-inch glass baking dish or shallow 3-quart casserole. Spoon potatoes into baking dish.

Dot potatoes with tablespoon butter, sprinkle with sliced almonds and paprika. Bake 30 minutes or until top is golden.

Makes 12 servings. May make a day ahead, cover, and refrigerate.

Scrumptious side dish. Enjoy!

POTATO CHEESE SOUP

3 medium potatoes, peeled, quartered
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
3 tablespoons butter, melted
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons minced fresh parsley
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese

In a saucepan, bring potatoes, onion, water, and salt to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer until potatoes are tender. Do not drain; mash slightly. Stir in milk. In a small bowl, blend butter, flour, parsley, and pepper; stir into potato mixture. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened and bubbly. Remove from the heat; add cheese and stir until almost melted. Yield: 6 servings (1½-quarts).

Alone or combined with other ingredients, potatoes are America's favorite vegetable.

POTATO SKINS WITH CHEESY TOPPINGS

4 baking potatoes
Oil for frying
Topping:
4 slices bacon
½ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons green onions, sliced
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
⅔ cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Scrub potatoes well with vegetable brush as you wash them. Pat dry. Bake potatoes at 375 to 400 degrees for 50 minutes or until soft. Remove from oven; let cool or until you can handle. Cut each lengthwise into wedges. Carefully cut center away from skin, leaving at least ¼-inch shell.

Prepare bacon frying until crisp. Drain on paper towel. Crumble. Combine sour cream, green onions and mustard. Fry potato skins in hot oil just until crisp and golden brown. Divide toppings evenly among potato wedges. Place on a baking sheet. Sprinkle with bacon and cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for about 5 minutes or until skins are hot and cheese is melted. Serve immediately.

If you're like the average American, you aren't eating enough fiber. In fact, the average person only gets about 12-16 grams of fiber per day compared to the recommended 20-35 grams.

Fiber keeps your digestive tract healthy, and it can ease problems such as constipation and hemorrhoids. Fiber protects against both heart disease and some cancers such as those affecting the colon, breast, and prostate.

Dietary fiber is found in plant cell walls. It can't be digested, but it adds bulk to body waste and helps move them out of the body more quickly. Some fibers also play a role in blood sugar and blood cholesterol regulation. A high fiber diet can also help with weight control. Sources for fiber are grain products like breads and cereals, fruits, and vegetables. Especially good sources are prunes, lima and baked beans, and raspberries. Eat the skin of fruits and vegetables whenever possible to add more fiber to your daily intake.

For a chart that shows grams of fiber in foods, write to the Pa. Dept. of Health, Bureau of Preventive Health Programs, Division of Health Promotion, P.O. Box 90, Harrisburg, PA 17108 or call the State Health Line Toll-Free 800-692-7254.

Prepare the following recipe to add 7 grams fiber for each serving.

BARLEY RATATOUILLE

¾ cup pearl barley
1¾ cups water
2 medium tomatoes, cut in wedges
1 cup thinly sliced zucchini
1 cup sliced mushrooms
½ cup bottled Italian herb dressing

Place barley and water in 2-quart casserole dish. Cover and microwave on High 20 to 22 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover and microwave on High 5 to 8 minutes longer or until barley is tender and most of liquid is absorbed. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 4 servings.

POTATO CANDY FUDGE

½ cup leftover mashed potates or 2 servings of instant mashed potatoes. with just enough milk added to bind and fluff the granules
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup creamy peanut butter*
2¼ cups confectioners sugar
½ cup salted peanuts, optional

Prepare potatoes and place in large mixing bowl.

Beat in salt and peanut butter, beating until well incorporated with a whish or mixer at low speed.

Add sugar ½ cup at a time and continue beating until when you drag a knife through it, it leaves a trough.

Transfer to a buttered 5x9-inch pan, pat down. Garnish with peanuts.

Chill before cutting. Fudge is better the second day.

Do not double recipe because the sugar is harder to incorporate.

Does not freeze well. Makes one pound.

*To make chocolate fudge, eliminate peanut butter and add 3-ounces of unsweetened chocolate, melted.

CROCK-POT POTATO-CHEESE SOUP

8 potatoes, cubed
1 tablespoon chives, chopped
1½ cups chopped celery
⅓ cup chopped parsley
½ cup chopped onion
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon savory
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
2½ cups grated cheddar cheese

Place potatoes, chives, celery, parsley, onion, paprika, celery seed, savory, and salt in a slow cooker and add just enough water to barely cover. Cook on high one hour. Turn heat to low and cook 4-5 hours or until potatoes are done.

Combine milk and flour in a tightly covered jar and shake to blend evenly. In a small saucepan, melt butter over medium heat. Add flour mixture slowly, and stir constantly 3-4 minutes.

Add cheese; stir until melted. Turn crock-pot to high setting. Add cheese mixture to soup and cook until slightly thickened. Serve hot in bowls and garnish with chives, sour cream, or bacon bits.

Ag Department Seeks Farmer Market Vendors

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that the department is seeking to expand its Farmer's Market Nutrition Program, which provides fresh fruits and vegetables to those enrolled in the state's Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program.

"The program provides a wonderful opportunity to promote better health while increasing the awareness and use of fresh produce grown by Pennsylvania farmers," Brosius said. He noted that last year a total of 402,759 Farmers' Market Nutrition Program checks, worth $5 each, were issued to WIC participants.

Administered by the state Agriculture Department, eligibility for the nutrition program is limited to pregnant and nursing women, who receive $25 per year; and children ages three and four years, who recieve $15 per year. The checks may be used by eligible participants or their parents or guardians between July 1 and October 31.

The WIC program is administered by the state Health Department.

In 1996, 425 vendors participated in the program at 280 market sites throughout the state. The program generated an additional $1.15 million in sales for the vendors.

An annual survey of 600 program recipients, as required by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, found that 37 percent visited a farmers market for the first time with their program checks. The survey also showed that 46 percent of the recipients learned a new way to prepare fresh fruits and vegetables. Most importantly, 63 percent of the participants responded that the quality of produce was better than at their regular grocery store.

As a pilot program in 1988, the program served only two counties in Pennsylvania. Today it serves more than 100,000 participants in all 67 counties and will provide additional sales for the over 420 participating vendors.

For more information, contact the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Food Distribution at 1-800-468-2433.

Winter Damage

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — A workshop at the Lebanon County Cooperative Extension Office, 2120 Cornwall Rd., Suite 1, Lebanon, will teach participants how to recognize and remedy winter damage to landscape plants. Find out what caused the damage, how to help the plant recover, and what to do to avoid damage in the future. John Strack, master gardener, will teach the class at 10 a.m. to noon, and repeat it at 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Cost is $1 (payable at the door).

Cook's • Question • Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, and cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Joanne Lomas, Morgantown, writes that when she was a little girl growing up in Philadelphia, her parents used to get a wonderful bread from a Lithanian Bakery (she thinks). The bread crust was very dark and shiny and the inside was moist, sour, and gray in color. It was delicious. Does anyone have a recipe for such a loaf?

QUESTION — Pat Elligson, Millers, Md., would like a recipe for a cabbage slaw that is cooked and combined with a yellow cooked dressing that is very creamy. She thinks her mother used a Pa. Dutch recipe to make it.

QUESTION — The Greene Co. New York Dairy Princess wants recipes for fudge in the following flavors: coffee, cranberry, and raspberry. She purchased these flavors at the Pa. Farm Show.

QUESTION — Helen Hertzler of Morgantown asks what causes muffin batter to bake around the outside first and then push up through the top, forming strange-looking growths and then baking firm.

QUESTION — Ann Snyder of Dauphin Co. wants a good recipe for macaroni and cheese. Hers just gets milky and runny.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, would like a recipe to make Danish or puff pastry using a food processor.

QUESTION — Ann Harner, Gettysburg, would like to know where to buy or how to make poppyseed filling to use in a cake recipe that she has.

QUESTION — Ann Harner, Gettysburg, would like a recipe for English muffins made in a bread machine. She also wants a a recipe to make homemade yogurt in a yogurt maker. She had these recipes but misplaced them.

QUESTION — Naomi Morrison, White Hall, Md., would like instructions on how to prepare strawberries in a thickened sauce like those served at Shoneys Restaurants.

QUESTION — Linda Fauth, Red Lion, wants a recipe for good homemade salsa to eat with tortilla chips.

QUESTION — Charlene Bennett, Cleanville, would like to know if cheese balls and cream cheese may be frozen. Also, how long may homemade fudge and other chocolate candies be frozen?

QUESTION — What ratio of cinnamon and sugar is good for sand tarts? Charlene Bennett said that hers always come out too light or too dark.

QUESTION — A faithful reader would like the recipe for the starter for Amish Friendship Bread, not the directions to continue it.

QUESTION — Irene Martin, Selinsgrove, wants a recipe for chocolate fudge using mostly confectioner's sugar.

QUESTION — Helen Feeg, Robesonia, would like a recipe to make a fruit only fruit spread sweetened only with pure fruit juice and citrus pectin. Her husband is a diabetic and he likes these jams better than those sweetened with artificial sweetner.

QUESTION — H. W. Hamilton, Thornton, would like recipes that use gluten flour to make bread and pastry.

QUESTION — Ida Book, Blain, would like a recipe for Indian Pudding, similar to that served at Howard Johnson Restaurants a number of years ago. It is a dessert, which has corn meal in the ingredients, and is topped with ice cream.

QUESTION — Charlene Bennett, Clearville, wants a recipe for peanut butter cake that has peanut butter in it but not in the frosting.

QUESTION — Stephanie Huger, Meyerstown, is looking for a recipe for pumpkin strudel with poppy seeds and sour cream or cream cheese. Her grandmother from Hungary made it, but Stephanie lost the recipe.

ANSWER — Earl Norton of Pottstown wanted a recipe to make bologna out of 20 pounds of venison. Thanks to Doris Dibert, Everett, for sending two recipes, one that is from the "Pa. Game News."

Venison Bologna

20 pounds ground venison
1⅓ cup Morton's Tender Quick salt
2⅔ cup vegetable oil
6 teaspoons garlic salt
2 teaspoons onion salt
10 teaspoons black pepper
8 teaspoons Liquid Smoke
Sausage casings

Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Stuff into casings and place in pans (one layer). Bake at 200 degrees for 1¾ hour.

Venison Bologna

15 pounds ground venison
4 pounds ground pork or bacon
8 ounces brown sugar
2 teaspoons mace
¾ cup salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
5 teaspoons black pepper
¼ teaspoon cayenne or red pepper
½ teaspoon garlic powder
2 teaspoons Accent
3 cups powdered sugar

Mix together all ingredients well: stuff into casings. Bake 2 hours in 150 oven, pieces not touching. It can then be smoked if desired for added flavor.

ANSWER — For Judy Kroplesky who requested a recipe for candy using saltine crackers, we received numerous recipes. Thansk to pat Elligson, Millers, Md.; Susan Weaver, East Earl; Mae Stancill, Bel Air, Md.; Josephine Matenus, Dallas; and others for sending recipes. The recipes were identical but carried such names as Sinful Toffee Bars, Soda Cracker Chocolate Candy, Heath Bar, and Cracker Candy. Here is the recipe. Call it what you like.

Sinful Toffee Bars

40 saltines
2 sticks butter
1 cup brown sugar
12-ounces chocolate chips
1 cup ground nuts

Line a jelly roll pan with foil and spray with vegetable spray. Heat oven to 400 degrees. Line the pan with crackers. Bring the butter and brown sugar to a boil. Stir for three minutes until the mixture thickens. Pour the mixture over the crackers and bake for 5 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with chocolate chips. Return to the oven for 30 seconds. Remove from the oven and spread the chocolate evenly over the crackers. Top with the ground nuts. Refrigerate for two hours. Break apart removing the foil. Yield about 5 dozen.

Potatoes

FRIED UP POTATO SALAD

2 pounds small red potatoes
¾ cup salsa
2 tablespoons spicy brown mustard
1 teaspoon chopped, pickled jalapenos (optional)
1 small red pepper, chopped
½ cup mayonnaise
1 carrot, shredded
2 green onions, chopped

Cook potatoes unpeeled for 15 minutes or until tender. Cool slightly; then peel and cube. Meanwhile in separate bowl, combine mayonnaise, salsa, mustard, and jalapenos (if using). Add potatoes, onions, toss to coat. Sprinkle carrot and red pepper. Cover and refrigerate about one hour.

AU GRATIN POTATOES

8 cups cubed peeled potatoes
¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teapsoon pepper
1½ cups milk
1 pound process American cheese, cubed
Minced fresh parsley

In a large saucepan, cook potatoes in boiling water until done. Drain and place in a greased 2½ -quart baking dish. In a saucepan, melt butter. Add the flour, salt and pepper; stir to form a smooth paste. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to a boil; boil and stir for one minute. Add cheese; stir just until melted. Pour over potatoes. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 45-50 minutes or until bubbly. Sprinkle with parsley. Yield: 12 servings.

Charlene Bennett
Clearville

SLICED BAKED POTATOES

4 medium potatoes
1 teaspoon salt
2 to 3 tablespoons butter
2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh herbs (parsley, chives, thyme or sage OR 2 to 3 teaspoons dried herbs of your choice
4 tablespoons grated cheddar cheese
1½ tablespoon parmesan cheese

Peel potatoes if the skin is tough; otherwise scrub and rinse.

Cut potatoes into thin slices but not all the way through. Use a handle of a spoon to prevent knife from cutting all the way.

Put poatoes in a baking dish. Fan them slightly.

Sprinkle with salt and drizzle with butter. Sprinkle with herbs.

Bake poatoes at 425 degrees for about 50 minutes.

Remove from oven. Sprinkle with cheeses.

Bake potatoes for another 10 to 15 minutes until lightly browned, cheeses are melted and potatoes are soft inside. Check with fork.

Charlene Bennett
Clearville

ONION ROASTED POTATOES

2 pounds red potatoes, sliced ½ -inch thick
⅓ cup vegetable oil
1 envelope dry onions soup mix

Combine all ingredients in a large plastic bag; shake until well coated. Empty bag into an ungreased 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes, stirring occasionally. Uncover and bake 15 minutes longer or until potatoes are tender. Yield: 6-8 servings.

Cook's • Question • Corner

ANSWER — Josephine Matenus, Dallas, sent in this recipe request for salami.

Dry-Cured Hard Salami

9 tablespoons salt
1 ounce powdered dextrose
2 teaspoons Prague Powder No. 2
1 tablespoon white pepper
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon ginger powder (optional)
2 ounces corn syrup solids
2½ pounds lean boneless beef
6½ pounds lean pork
1 pound backfat

Be sure that all meat is chilled around 30-32 degrees. Grind the beef through a ⅛ -inch grinder plate and all the pork through a ⅜ -inch plate. Backfat should be cut or diced into ¾ -1-inch squares and frozen. Place all meat into a mixer, adding remaining ingredients. Mix well. Grind all meat through a ⅛ -inch plate. Pack all the meat into tubs not over 6 inches high. Be sure that the meat is packed tightly to eliminate air pockets. Hold in a cooler at 38-40 degrees for 72 hours.

Remove meat from cooler. Place in stuffer and pack meat tightly to eliminate air pockets. The meat should be stuffed into a defatted beef middle about 3 inches in diameter and 20 inches long. If available, you can use a protein-lined fibrous casing. After stuffing the casings full, tie the ends and wrap the salami with a loop about every 2 or 3 inches, to give it that stuffed look.

Salami should be allowed to cure for 3 to 4 days at 70-75 degrees with a relative humidity of 70 to 80 percent. Dry salami need not be smoked; however, if you wish to smoke, be sure that the temperature of the smokehouse never reaches more than 90 degrees. It is best to smoke the salami at temperatures of 75-80 degrees with relative humidity of 70 percent. Keep in smokehouse until the desired color is obtained.

The smoked salami should be kept at 50-60 degrees. For salami that is not smoked, keep at 40-50 degrees with a relative humidity of 70-72 percent. This salami is fully dried when it loses 25 percent of its green weight. This takes from 85-90 days.

ANSWER — N. Martin, Denver, wanted a recipe for homemade hot dogs made with chicken or beef and a chicken bologna recipe. Margaret Strause of Leesport writes that she has two cookbooks that she recommends buying for these recipes. Check at your local bookstore or library for "The Sausage-Making Cookbook," by Jerry Predika and published by Stackpole Books, Harrisburg. It contains recipes from all over the world. "The Complete Sausage Cookbook" by Pamela Riddle and Mary Jane Danley, and published by San Francisco Book Co. Inc., San Francisco, CA, contains chicken bologna, hot dog, and sausage recipes.

Penn State Gardeners Go Back To School

Get ready for spring planting. Learn how to improve your outdoor living. Penn State Cooperative Extension offers plenty of gardening schools focused on 'adding' value to your home landscaping. Here's a quick preview of three upcoming schools.

Be a wise gardener. The first annual gardener's lecture series called the GardenWise Conference explores delectable edible fruits, annual flowers, native plant choices and design; selective pruning and pest-free plants on Saturday, April 12 at Penn State York Campus, York, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Learn how to choose plants that enhance the natural environment. Easy-care perennials, shrubs and trees and unusual annuals will be discussed. Lee A. Reich Ph.D., a noted lecturer and writer will provide ideas on growing little-known fruits like paw paw, medlar, nanking cherry and persimmon. Cost is $35. Call York County Cooperative Extension at (717) 840-7408.

A Penn State Garden Symposium will discuss new and unusual plants, cutting gardens, easy-care roses, shade gardening, and landscape design on Saturday, March 15 at the Lancaster Extension Office, Lancaster, from 8:00 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Explore how to bring color to your garden palette, finding proven plant performers like easy-care antique and modern roses. Learn how to use plants for mixed borders, screens, hedges, ground-covers and drapes to cover fences, walls and arbors. Cost is $40. Call the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension at (717) 394-6851.

The second annual Home Garden's School on Saturday, March 8 offers a look "Back to the Future in the Garden," by noted author Frederick McGourty. Starting at 8:30 a.m. at Penn State Berks Campus, in Reading, the school offers a look at backyard composting, growing your own fruits, choosing vine type plants, managing landscape pests, using native grasses and creative uses of flower bulbs. Sessions on small and large container water gardens and a topiary workshop are also offered. Base cost is $35. Call Berks County Cooperative Extension at (610) 378-1327.

ANSWER — Estella Fink, Allentown, wanted a recipe for pumpkin soup. Thanks to Robin Svec who sent two recipes that she received from her mother.

Pumpkin Or Squash Soup

2 pounds pumpkin or squash
White part of 4 leeks
4 medium potatoes
3 cups water
Salt to taste
2 cups milk
1 cup whipping cream
Pepper
Nutmeg

Thoroughly rinse and slice leeks. Peel pumpkin and potatoes and cut into chunks. Combine leeks, pumpkin, potatoes, water, and salt. Cover, bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes until very tender.

Puree vegetables and liquid in blender, a little at a time. Bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes. Add milk, simmer 2 minutes. Stir in cream and heat gently. Add pepper and nutmeg to taste.

Winter Squash Soup

1 cup cooked, mashed squash or pumpkin
1 quart milk
2 tablespoons grated onion
½ teaspoon powdered ginger
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
Salt

Mix squash, milk, onion, and ginger; cook 10 minutes. Melt butter in a separate pan. Add flour and mix well. Pour a little of the soup mix into the flour mixture, stirring until well blended. Pour this mixture slowly back into the soup, stirring constantly. Cook until hot, stirring often.

Toys Mean Fun, Learning, And Work

Jason plays a child's harp, which includes easy-to-read music for beginners.

This is only part of the train that is ready for take off in the Ranck's yard.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

PARKESBURG (Chester Co.) — How would you like to have your yard and part of your house filled with toys?

The six children of Paul and Twila Ranck do. They are surrounded by all kinds swings, playhouses, chutes, sliding boards and ladders. There are outdoor playsets with a look out, a treehouse, a scout hideout, a club house, a Dutch loft, and a chalet.

Even a six-car train winds along one side of their Parksburg home. It's a wooden train set, big enough to sit in and climb on, and pretend that it's actually moving.

Jason, 11; Marla, 10; Barbara, 8; Elizabeth, 6; Martha Joy, 4; and Daniel, 2, are accustomed to having their yard filled with the wooden play things. Inside, they have a whole child's size kitchen set up in which to play with their dolls, a doll house, car roller that looks like a marble roller, a big bubble bucket for blowing bubbles, and much more.

But these toys are simply for play. They require work for the Ranck children. The toys are samples for potential customers to see when they stop by the Ranck's Route 30 farm.

The children like to help their dad set up playsets in other people's yards. They like to take some of the equipment to shows where they help sell the pieces to customers. They package items to ship in the mail.

In the summertime, Jason mows the grass. It requires a lot of starting and stopping to move all the outdoor furniture so Jason can mow the grass.

Instead of going to school, the Ranck children study at home with their parents as teachers. They also play musical instruments.

They believe that spending time together helps their family appreciate each other more and teaches them how to work happily together.

Whenever they want, the children have a choice of selecting this or one of the many other playsets scattered over the Ranck's yard.

Elizabeth uses a doll-size high chair while pretending she is a real mother.

Breath Of Spring Craft Show

The Fifth Annual Breath of Spring Craft Show will be held on Saturday, March 15, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Hunterdon County Extension Center on Route 31 North in Flemington. Admission is $1. This show is made up of excellence crafters including hand crafted country furniture and shelves, American Girl doll clothes, jewelry, wood carvings, women and children's clothing, bird houses, hand decorated eggs (wax methods), dried flowers, wooden cartoon characters and much more.

Make it a family day! There will be hands-on crafts for the children to make and a visit from the Easter Bunny. Also available will be a variety of spring plants, baked goods, and a delicious lunch menu. This event benefits the State 4-H Association.

WORK WATCH

Still Running Strong

In past years we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. A watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. The BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your watch stops running within TWO YEARS of the date of purchase the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge.

To receive your new work watch, complete the coupon below and send it with your payment Your work watch will arrive shortly.

Ukrainian Joins Pennsylvania Farm Bureau

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Fred Claycomb thinks he has only touched the tip of the iceberg in his work with the farmers of the Ukraine.

His latest achievement has been to have Izor Alekseyenko become the first Ukrainian citizen become a member of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

Fred's work began when he was selected in 1994 by VOCA (Volunteeres Overseas Cooperative Assistance), a group he came in contact with at Ag Progress Days, to travel to the Ukraine to help farmers learn of the latest in farming techniques.

During the Communist regime, the Ukrainians had practically no knowledge of the fast changing world of farming.

"Communism did not allow for advancements such as machinery, and quality seeds and parts for tractors are difficult to find," Fred explains. VOCA though American farmers, like me, could help bridge these problems."

In 1995, Fred returned to Ukraine, this time through the Odessa Mutual Assistance Association, an organization similar to the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

One of the first people Fred met in Ukraine was Anna Alekseyenko, a third-year student at the University of Kiev, who acted as his interpreter.

Anna immediately introduced him to her family. Fred and her father, Izor, became fast friends.

In 1995, Anna came to American to visit the Claycomb family and while there, was fascinated with the Farm Bureau Cooperative. "She took videos of one of our local stores," Fred says. "Farm Bureau had the manager expalin everything so she could take it back on tape."

It immediately became the dream of Izor, who lives for farming, to eventually have a cooperative like the Farm Bureau in the Ukraine.

"I called the state office and asked Jan Carson how I could get a membership for Izor," Fred continues and found out it was relatively easy.

"I had to get the 'okay' of the county board and the executive directors who are Norman Sollenberger, Paul Stup, Betty O'Neil and Pauline Yoder. That was easy!"

From this point on, so long as Izor keeps his dues paid, he will remain a member. Correspondence from Farm Bureau will be sent by Fred through VOCA.

"I am not aware of anyone from any other country in the world being a member of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau," says Marlin Miller, Member Relations director at Harrisburg. "But, we welcome Izor and hope we will be of a lot of help to him and his fellow farmers in the Ukraine."

Prior to the revolution, farms in Ukraine were about 1,000 acres each. But, all of those farms were destroyed when the communists took over.

"The people there live for farming," Fred explains. "It is the richest, most fertile land in the world. They have no droughts, no severe weather of any kind. With a love of farming in their hearts, they struggle hoping only that someday life will be better."

Almost non-existent are machinery and equipment, feed and farm supplies, seed, fertilizer and chemicals, hardware, electrical supplies and a good system to distribute new or better farm technology. Hence, the idea of a cooperative was the beginning of a new dream for Izor Alekseyenko and others like him.

"Already they are running into problems with help that has been given," Fred says. "There are presently. a large group of Mennonites in Ukraine who are distributing seeds to the farmers for their upcoming growing season. Ukraine's government now wants to put a tax on humanitarian aid. Greed always gets into the picture!"

Anna's visit to America also left with her many dreams, among them, studying agriculture at Penn State University. "Every time she calls, she mentions it," Fred smiles. "Both my wife and I hope it is something she can eventually do."

Meanwhile Fred continues his work with VOCA and recently returned from a trip to Brazil.

He is grateful to all of these volunteer organizations for giving him so many rich experiences and he is particularly happy that Pennsylvania Farm Bureau was quick to welcome a new member from such a faraway land.

Cooking For A Healthy Heart

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Too often lower fat foods also lack flavor and taste appeal.

But it doesn't need to be that way.

"Heart healthy recipes can still have taste," Nikki Rice, home economist, said at a recent workshop she taught at the Berks County Cooperative Extension office.

While Rice stirred up "comfort" food she interspersed tidbits of information on how to add taste while cutting fat. Here are some of her recipes plus hints for healthy heart cooking.

• Motts Applesauce has a collection of recipes using their produce in baked goods. A complimentary copy may be obtained by calling 1-800-426-4891. Motts recommends that you can substitute applesauce up to one half the amount of total fat called for in a recipe.

• Use fruit spread or fresh fruit to add to plain yogurt or add vanilla and a little sugar for vanilla yogurt. This is considerably less sugar and calories than the prepared yogurt flavors.

• Use fat-free chicken broth to season mashed potatoes without using butter and milk.

• To get more calcium and Vitamin D in your diet, sprinkle nonfat dry milk into "everything."

• A healthful alternative for soda is to mix frozen juice with carbonated water.

• If you are interested in more information on choosing heart healthy foods, on selecting low-fat cheeses, and on practical substitutions to reduce fat in your diet, contact your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office or write to Fay Strickler, Berks County Agricultural Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520.

BUTTERMILK-BAKED CHICKEN

½ cup whole wheat flour
2 eggs, lightly beaten or 4 egg whites
½ cup buttermilk or yogurt
1 tablespoon grainy-style Dijon mustard
2 cups crushed unsweetened whole grain cereal
1 teaspoon paprika
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
12 skinless chicken breasts
Vegetable spray

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Generously coat a roasting pan with vegetable cooking spray. measure the flour onto a plate. Mix the eggs with buttermilk and mustard and whisk until smooth. Place the crumbs on another plate and season with paprika and salt and pepper. Dip the chicken in the flour; coat well and shake off the excess. Dip the chicken in the egg mixture and then into the cereal crumbs, pressing to make the crumbs adhere.

Place in prepared pan. Spray with vegetable spray for 25 to 30 minutes, or until crispy, without turning. Serve hot or at room temperature, garnished with parsley sprigs. Serves 6, calories 444 per serving.

BERRY REFRESHING YOGURT SMOOTHIE

8-ounce carton low-fat vanilla yogurt
3-ounces berry-flavored frozen juice concentrate
2 ice cubes
Blend until smooth.

RASPBERRY REFRESHER

8-ounce carton low-fat raspberry yogurt
¼ cup pineapple juice, unsweetened, chilled
Non-calories sweetner equal to 8 teaspoons sugar
2 ice cubes
Blend until smooth.
265 calories, 2 grams fat.

GRILLED CHICKEN PATTIES

Lean ground chicken or turkey makes a delicious low-fat patty when seasoned and grilled or broiled until golden.

1½ pounds lean ground chicken or turkey
3 tablespoons grainy-style Dijon mustard
3 tablespoons minced scallions (white parts only)
1 tablespoon reduced-sodium soy sauce
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Salt and freshly ground white pepper to taste

Combine chicken or turkey with mustard, scallions, and seasonings, mixing with hands until well blended. Chill until the mixture is easy to handle, about 10 to 15 minutes. Form into four 6-ounce patties.

Preheat an outdoor grill or broiler. Since the ground chicken and turkey are so lean, the patties may not hold together. If grilling outdoors, use a hamburger grill basket to hold the patties together.

Grill the patties for 5 to 10 minutes, turning once, until cooked through but not overdone. Serve the patties hot with your favorite sauce. Serves 4; calories 264 per serving.

LOW-FAT FUDGY BROWNIES

¾ cup unsweetened cocoa powder
¼ cup canola oil
½ cup prune puree, prune butter or baby food
3 large egg whites, at room temperature
¼ cup chopped walnuts (optional)
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup all-purpose flour

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Spray an 8-inch square baking pan with nonstick cooking spray; set aside.

In a medium bowl, using an electric mixer on low speed, combine all the ingredients except the flour and walnuts (if using); beat to blend. Stir in the flour. Scrape the batter into the pan; sprinkle with nuts, if using.

Bake for 30 minutes, or until the top edges about 2 inches from the center spring back when gently touched with the tip of the finger. Cool brownies in pan, on a wire rack. Cut into 36 squares.

Per brownie: 55 calories, 2 grams fat.

PEACH PICK-ME-UP YOGURT SMOOTHIES

For a refreshing drink with great nutritional benefits, use a blender to prepare.

1 8-ounce carton low-fat peach yogurt
3 ounces apple juice concentrate
¼ teaspoon almond extract and 2 ice cubes

Nikki A. Rice, left front, offers food samples of the low-fat dishes she prepares to participants at the workshop held at the Berks County Extension auditorium recently.

EASY CHEESECAKE

32-ounce carton vanilla-flavored lowfat yogurt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon lemon juice (optional)
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, lightly beaten or 4 egg whites

Day before. Drain yogurt to make yogurt cheese. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Lightly grease an 8-inch pie pan or 7-inch springform pan.

Place yogurt cheese in a medium-size bowl. Add sugar, cornstarch, lemon juice, and vanilla, mixing gently with a fork or wire whisk until well blended. Stir in the eggs.

Pour into the prepared pan and smooth the top with a spatula. Bake until center is set: 20 to 25 minutes for a pie pan, or 45 to 55 minutes for a springform.

Cool slightly on a wire rack. Refrigerate until chilled. Serve 8. 99 calories per serving, 3 grams fat.

YOGURT CHEESE

1 paper coffee filter, drip type
Stainer and colander
2-quart glass mixing bowl
16-ounce carton, plain, low-fat yogurt that contains no gelatin

Place filter in strainer basket and set in measurer. spoon yogurt into filter. Cover loosely with plastic wrap and refrigerate 4 to 12 hours. Varying brands will need different amounts of time. When 1 cup of whey has drained off, yogurt cheese remains in filter. Spoon it into a bowl and refrigerate. Discard whey.

OVEN FRIED POTATOES

2 egg whites, lightly beaten
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
4 medium potatoes, scrubbed, unpeeled, cut into 1-inch steak fries

Preheat broiler. Cover a broiling pan with aluminum foil. In a bowl, combine the egg with the seasonings and stir to combine. dip the potato pieces into the egg mixture and place on the prepared pan. Broil 4-6-inches from direct heat for 8 to 10 minutes per side, or until crispy on the outside and cooked through on the inside. Serve hot.

For a spicy version, a pinch or two of cayenne pepper or even a shake of Tabasco can be added to the egg mixture. Serves 4: calories 134 per serving.

TUNA BLEND

1 cup yogurt cheese
2 teaspoons honey
6½ -ounce can water-packed tuna, flaked
1 teaspoon onion, finely chopped
⅓ cup celery, chopped
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper

Blend cheese and honey, and fold in other ingredients. Chill thoroughly. Use on wholewheat bread, crackers, etc.

"Yes Virginia, You Can Be Debt-Free"

Last month I spent some time working with women who were in training, looking for their first jobs. Most had young children and were public assistance recipients. After spending several meetings with them teaching basic money management skills, one woman spoke directly, "I just want to know one thing. Can a person really get out of debt?"

"Yes." Most in the class had difficulty accepting this response, but as we talked they became convinced and enthusiastic about the prospect of paying off bills that had been hanging over their heads for years.

How is this possible? The first step is to set up some realistic goals. Instead of determining, "I will get out of debt," start with a smaller goal. "I will eliminate my outstanding bill from ABC store." How will you do that? "Each month I will pay the minimum due plus $15 extra until the bill is paid off. I will also leave this card at home and not make any future purchases on this account."

I encourage families who have a lot of credit card debt to pick the company with the lowest outstanding balance and pay that one off first. It feels so good to have one less bill arriving in your mailbox each month. Of course, you will need to keep the other bills current.

When I worked with these women, we talked about where the $15 extra dollars would come from. Could they cut down on snack food purchases? Rent fewer videos? Reduce impulse clothing purchases for their kids? Most thought of at least one area where they could trim expenses. For most families, the two budget areas with the greatest flexibility are food costs and entertainment.

Credit card or utility bills is one area of family debt. Home mortgages is another. Although families lose a bit in a tax write-off, they save thousands in interest payments by pre-paying these bills. Our family has seen a mortgage bill cut from 30 years to only seven or eight because we have chosen to pay more than the minimum on these bills.

Whatever the debt, there is hope to reduce it. This takes a lot of self-control. Unfortunately, for many people having the needed discipline seems out of reach.

Three strategies may help a person stick to a plan to be debt-free. First, get the support of other family members. Make sure everyone is agreeing that paying off the credit card bill or phone bill is important. One family member can quickly sabotage a plan put in place by another if he is in disagreement with the idea.

Second, reduce temptation. Leave credit cards at home. Have payments automatically withdrawn from a paycheck so you don't miss the cash. Don't travel to the mall where you are tempted. Throw away the catalog without looking at the contents. Eliminate the long-distance calling option. Whatever it takes, remove the options that make it easy to break the plan.

Finally, ask for help. Find someone who will provide a second helping of will-power. When you want that sweater, she will say "No. Don't get it, remember what's important." When a person presents you with an opportunity to buy tickets to a ball game or weekend fishing trip, he will say, "Let's go to the local fish and game spot instead. It's cheaper."

The relief that comes with being debt-free is worth some temporary sacrifice. However, I have also learned that a few small treats along the way help to keep the plan in place long-term. Just because you're paying down bills doesn't mean you can never go out for pizza or that you always have to resist buying a new pair of earrings. It does mean that these purchases should be occasional rather than everyday routines.

With a bit of discipline, some family support, and realistic goals, families can reduce their consumer debt. It just takes time.

Farm Women Societies

York Society 31

York County Society 31 of Farm Women held its 25th anniversary at Hope Grace Brethren Church, Dillsburg, on Jan. 6.

Loyle Moyer, president, welcomed the members. Leta Rohlemeier had devotions and led the pledge to the flag.

Annie Merovich read the story about the cold winter night that the group was organized.

The Good News Musical Group provided the program.

Shelly Abrashoff was installed into the group by Arlene Keener, York Co. president.

Shelly was the granddaughter of the late Grace Witmer, a charter member 25 years ago. Shelly also is the daughter of Carolyn Neal, a past York County president.

Guests present were Nedra Greybill of Airville and Arlene Keener of Red Lion.

Guests from Society 17 were Evelyn Diller and Joy McCreary.

Lebanon Society 21

The first meeting in 1997 for the Lebanon Farm Women Society 21 was held on Jan. 20 at the home of Sherry Bashore. Hostess Sherry had a reading about the value of a farm dog. For roll call, members answered the question: Did you go to the Farm Show?

Hostesses were selected for the upcoming events and meetings. Members decided to have a Sweetheart Banquet at the County Buffet. After the meeting was adjourned, members played a seed identification game and refreshments were served.

Berks Society 3

Berks Society 3 held its December meeting at Schaeffer's Restaurant in Boyertown. After eating, members played Christmas games and exchanged secret pal names and gifts. They also exchanged secret pal names for the upcoming year. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mary Hill, Boyertown.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women #26 met on January 20 at Yocumtown Church with 11 members present.

President Athena Beshore, chaired the business meeting. She passed out the schedule booklets to each member for 1997.

The local and state by-laws were read.

Delegates Charlotee Hardy and Martha Yost gave reports on the State Convention and the banquet held on January 13.

York County has 28 active groups and four inactive groups with a total of 435 members.

Luna Kohler and Margie Knotts had January birthdays.

Berks Society 6

The Berks County Society of Farm Women Group #6 met recently for a pot luck lunch at the home of Barbara Kelchner.

President Marian Gehris and secretary Pearl Hoffman reported on the 78th state convention in Harrisburg they attended. Janet Schlegel was congratulated on her election as state director for Berks County.

A monetary donation will be given to the American Cancer Society and to the Oley Valley High School Project Graduation '97. Group #6 will also be helping with the Oley Valley Community Pot Pie dinner on April 6.

The By-Laws were read by President Marian Gehris. Next month we will meet at Giorgio Foods for a tour followed by a luncheon meeting at D&G's.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women No. 20 met on Thursday, February 6, at the home of Valeria Ferguson with Jane Ferguson as co-hostess. This was sewing day and the group sewed approximately 200 bed pads. Valeria had the devotions and read from Jeremiah 31. Following a reading and poem the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and the Pledge of Allegiance was said. The Roll Call was answered by a verse in the Bible with the word "Love."

The president, Marie Foose, presided at the business meeting at which there was a report on the State Convention by Anna Mary Groff. There is a total of 2,768 members in the State and she mentioned Lancaster County furnished the centerpieces for the tables. The Sunshine Committee reported there were six cards sent during the month. The meeting was closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet in March with Vera Herr with Jean Ressel as co-hostess.

At noon everyone enjoyed the delicious food prepared by the hostesses and the desserts brought by the guests.

Eggstravaganza

READING (Berks Co.) — The Berks County Parks & Recreation Department will present "EGGstravaganza" on Saturday, March 22, from 12:00-3:00 p.m. at the Berks County Heritage Center.

Activities include children's egg decorating, crafts, pictures with the Easter Bunny and entertaining clowns. Candy treats provided by R.M. Palmer. This is a free event and open to the public. Refreshments available. The Berks County Heritage Center is located one (1) mile north of the Reading Airport on Rt. 183.

For more information call (610) 374-8839.

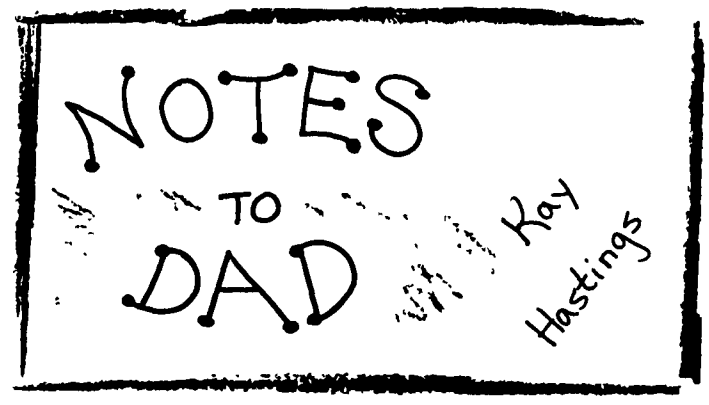
Weigh Of Life

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Another series on My New Weigh of Life is scheduled to be held for 12 Mondays beginning March 3 at the Lebanon County Cooperative Extension Office, 2120 Cornwall Rd., Suite 1, Lebanon.

Barbara Baechert, who is a success story with this program, will be the instructor. Classes will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Cost is $60 for the series. Pre-registration required by calling (717) 270-4391.



Dads and daughters are a wonderful combination. The old song "You're Daddy's Little Girl" expresses a certain sentiment that continues to prevail. However, building a strong relationship to last a lifetime will outlive the enchantment of the song.

Parenting is not easy, it takes patience and skill. Fathers sometimes find it more difficult to relate to their daughters than to their sons. They frequently visualize sons as an extension of themselves or see them as they were in their own childhood. Girls, on the other hand, are sometimes kept at arms length or pampered, of the intimate parent-child relationship becomes primarily the mother's responsibility.

Daughters need the companionship and parental guidance of dads to prepare them later in life for satisfying male-female relationships. Finding activities that encourage open communication that will help build trust is the key.

Scott is the father of a seven-year-old daughter. Rosemary is a bright, serious child with an impish grin. It's obvious she thinks her dad is very special because he plans time for activities for the two of them. They call it the "Father-Daughter Road Trip."

This three-day adventure is the subject of conversation between Rosemary and her dad year-round. They plan, they dream and anticipate what a great time they will have. Thus the trip becomes far more than a three-day event.

"During the 'FDRT,' the rules are relaxed, there is no pressure or regular routine, we do what we want to, within reason of course," said Scott. "Often parents plan what they think their child wants to do. We plan together, selecting something that is mutually enjoyable and it is just flat out fun!"

In 1996, the "FDRT" included canoeing and fishing at Shavers Creek, a visit to the State Capitol, State Museum, and a stop at a relatives home. They pack a tent and if they feel like camping out they are prepared. If they feel like a hotel, they might do that, too. Rosemary likes the luxury of having a queen-sized bed and a TV with a remote control. They may choose to have pizza for breakfast or patronize a fine restaurant. Swimming may be in a muddy backwoods creek or in a hotel pool.

Scott feels that this time together, one-on-one fosters open communication that will pay off in the future. He is laying groundwork and helping Rosemary to understand that she can ask any question and share any concern or dream with her dad. One of the questions Scott uses is "What do you wonder about that you can't understand?"

It is never too early and often too late to begin to build a parent-child relationship. Dads and daughters can begin by finding activities they both enjoy, Rosemary and Scott have in the "Father-Daughter Road Trip."

Firestone Rear Farm Tire Giveaway Official Rules

No purchase necessary. Entrants must be 18 years or older.

Prizes: Eighteen (18) pairs of Firestone rear farm tires* One pair per winner

* Winners may choose from these eligible Firestone rear farm tire designs: Radial All Traction 23* Radial All Traction Deep Tread Radial Champion Spade Grip Super All Traction 23* Champion Spade Grip Radial All Traction FWD Super All Traction FWD Traction Field & Road and Field & Road

1 To enter and be eligible for prizes, complete the Official Entry Form (available at participating Firestone farm tire outlets) and deposit it with or mail it to your nearest participating Firestone farm tire retailer — or neatly print or type your name, address, ZIP code, phone number and age on a plain 3" x 5" piece of paper and mail it to: Firestone Rear Farm Tire Giveaway, Attn: Mindy Cownie, 2633 Fleur Drive, Des Moines, IA 50321. Entries must be received by April 30, 1997. Winners will be selected in a random drawing to be held on or about June 1, 1997, from all eligible entries received. Official Entry Form must be filled out completely to be eligible.

2 The odds of winning depend on the number of eligible entries received. Prizes are guaranteed to be awarded. No substitution, refund or transfer of prizes is permitted. Selection of the winners via a random drawing will be under the supervision of the Firestone Agricultural Tire Company (a division of Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc.), whose decisions are final. Each winner will be notified by mail or telephone.

3 Prize winners will be obligated to sign an Affidavit of Eligibility, Publicity Release and Release of Liability, in form and substance satisfactory to Firestone, within 30 days of notification, or an alternate winner will be selected. Any federal, state and local taxes are the sole responsibility of the winners. Approximate retail value of each pair of the Firestone rear farm tires: $400 – $2,800. Actual retail value varies by tire design and size. For the names of the prize winners, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope by June 1, 1997, to Firestone Rear Farm Tire Giveaway Winners, Attn: Mindy Cownie, 2633 Fleur Drive, Des Moines, IA 50321. Requests will be fulfilled after the contest ends.

4 Contest is open to anyone who is 18 or older, except employees of the Firestone Agricultural Tire Company, Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc., or its affiliates, Firestone farm tire dealerships, their advertising and promotional agencies, and the immediate families of each. Void where prohibited by law. All federal, state and local laws and regulations apply.

"MASTER MIX AIM TECHNOLOGY WORKS WELL FOR US."

PAUL & CHERYL SATTERFIELD

Ridgely, MD

Paul & Cheryl Satterfield with their two sons (left) Cody & Kyle and their daughter Samantha (right) and the Family Dog "Faye".

We are very pleased with the knowledge and technical ability of our Master Mix representative. He keeps up with the latest developments in dairy nutrition and makes regular farm visits to answer our questions, observe cows, take forage samples and provide ration updates. We appreciate the prompt response provided on analysis results and ration reformulation.

Master Mix AIM Technology works well for us. We use it for our milk replacer, calf starter and in our custom-formulated lactating cow supplement. The custom-formulated lactating cow supplement is very important to us since three different people mix our Total Mixed Ration. It's easy for everyone to put in the right amount of our Master Mix feed instead of weighing out minerals, adding several proteins and so forth. Plus the feed quality and consistency are always very good.

We've been gradually expanding our cow numbers through our own replacements and plan to replace our housing with a new free stall unit in the future but currently are almost 100% overstocked in terms of both free stalls and feed bunk space. In spite of that, our production results are good. Last year we produced 1.2 million pounds of milk per worker.

We are also very pleased with our herd health and reproduction. In fact, our most recent vet pregnancy check was the best we ever had.

The replacement program is working well for us. We have large, healthy heifers calving at an early age. The Master Mix Heifer Builder Pac we use is doing the job.

Governor Honors Maryland Century Farm Families

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — In the third ceremony of its kind in Maryland, Gov. Parris N. Glendening honored 14 families from across the state whose farms have remained in the same family for a century or more.

Glendening presented the families with a certificate recognizing their longevitiy in farming, and a sign declaring their operation to be a "Maryland Century Farm."

During the recent ceremony, Governor Glendening also expressed his commitment for Maryland's farming industry, as evidenced by his introduction of Smart Growth-Neighborhood Conservation legislation, including right to farm and rural legacy initiatives.

"These farm families we are honoring today represent not only a strong tradition, but our hope for the future," said Governor Glendening. "They have demonstrated a clear commitment to keep their farms as family-run businesses. They also reflect the strength of Maryland's agricultural community."

Maryland established the Century Farm Program to honor those families whose farms have been in the same family for more than 100 consecutive years, contain at least 10 of the original acres, and gross more than $2,500 annually from the sale of farm products.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley presided over the ceremony that included families from Cecil, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot, and Wicomico counties.

"This is a continuous program and we are still accepting applications," Riley said. In all, 66 farm families have been honored as Century Farms in Maryland. If you think your farm might qualify, please fill out an application.

Applications may be obtained from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, from local Cooperative Extension Service offices, or over the internet (http://www.mda.state.md.us).

Century Farm families honored in 1997 for 1996 are:

- Cecil County — Clarence and Judith Alma Brown.
- Dorchester County — D.C. Corkran & Sons, Inc.
- Kent County — Roland Reece Corey and James and Mary Lou Hurtt, Jr.
- Queen Anne's County — J. Robert and Louise Barton.
- St. Mary's County — Russ and Arlene Cullins, R. Johns and Winifred Dixon, James and Clare Raley, Sr., Bernard Igantius Johnson, and Charlotte Young.
- Talbot County — Philip and Ann Beaven and Dan Schwaninger.
- Wicomico County — Ralph Harcum and L. Quninton Riley.

Del. Grange Meets

DOVER, Del. — The Delaware State Grange, meeting in annual session December 3-4 at Capital Grange, Dover, held its bi-annual elections.

The following officers re-elected: Master - Mervin Richard, Temple Grange (Templeville, Md.); overseer - William Naudain, Harmony Grange (Wilmington); lecturer - Lowder Mitchell, Henlopen Grange (Lewes); steward - Howard Millman, Jr., Henlopen Grange (Lewes); assistant steward - William H. Narvel, Jr., Harmony Grange (Wilmington); lady assistant steward - Barbara Narvel, Harmony Grange (Wilmington); chaplain - Esther Lafferty, Henlopen Grange (Lewes); treasurer - Ronald Martin, Union Grange (Newark); secretary - Wanda Mitchell, Henlopen Grange (Lewes); gatekeeper - James Correll, Smyrna Grange (Smyrna); Ceres - Audrey Brooks, Pencader Grange (Glasgow); Pomona - Betty Richard, Temple Grange (Templeville, Md.); and Flora - Virginia Hurd, Milford Grange (Milford).

Executive committee members are Edward Williams, Pencader Grange (Glasgow); Claude Hoffman, Capital Grange (Dover) and Ralph Daub, Henlopen Grange (Lewes).

Finance committee includes Henry Brooks, Pencader Grange (Glasgow); Hazel Clendaniel, Capital Grange (Dover); and Howard Millman, Jr., Henlopen Grange (Lewes).

Special guests to the State Grange Session were National Master Kermit Richardson and his wife Margaret.

At the annual banquet on Wednesday, recognitions were given to the Delaware State Grange Farm Family and the Delaware Granger of the Year.

Chosen as the 1996 recipients as the Delaware State Grange Farm Family was the Warner Enterprises, Inc., Milford, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Warner own 30 acres and rent 125 acres, growing various crops such as field corn, soybeans, and various vegetables. They also raise 110,000 roasters with 4.2 flocks per year. They started their farm in 1977. Their son Stacey and daughter, Janelle, work at the farm in their free time.

The Warners hold an annual strawberry festival each year during strawberry season and 1996 was the third year. The public is invited for free shortcake and ice cream. The local 4-H group and FFA organization provide bake sale and barnyard. Other service clubs provide refreshments, and free hay rides are offered.

The family was presented a plaque and a beautiful sign bearing the Grange emblem for displaying outdoors at their farm.

The Delaware Granger Of The Year Award was presented to Shirley Millman of Lewes, a 32-year member of Henlopen Grange No. 20. Shirley was recognized for her work with the Grange and her community. She has held many offices in her local Grange and is very involved with the Eastern Star, United Methodist Women, and the Gideons.

Shirley was presented a framed certificate and a personal gift by State Master Mervin Richard.

New York Wins Awards

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — During the president's awards ceremony at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Nashville, New York Farm Bureau won seven gold stars for outstanding program performance in the areas of membership, state and local policy execution, national government relations, information and public relations, ag in the classroom, leadership and organizational development, and special program for the campaign for farm property tax relief.

The awards were accepted at the ceremony by New York Farm Bureau President John Lincoln.

According to Lincoln, "These awards demonstrate the organization strength of Farm Bureau as we work to solve the economic and public problems facing agriculture in New York. This high degree of success is best measured and the result of leaders, members and staff working together."

Raising Expectations

Forget everything you've heard about compact tractors.

MF 1200 Series Tractors and implements perform way beyond their size and price. Precise lawn mowing. Heavy duty weed and brush clearing. Serious gardening. Landscaping Materials handling. Trenching. Even light field work. These tractors excel at jobs that used to require big, expensive, fuel thirsty tractors and implements.

Standard features include water cooled, 3 cylinder, diesel engines, 3 point hitch and high capacity auxiliary hydraulics, and rear PTO. Mid-PTO is also standard on the MF 1205, 1215, 1220 and 1230. Choices include ag or turf tires, and a huge selection of implements and attachments.

Steer, Heifer Shows Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemen's Association (PJCA) will hold its 7th Annual Junior Steer and Heifer Preview Show at the 8th Annual Pennsylvania Beef Expo, March 27-29, here at the Penn State Ag Arena.

Heifers purchased at the 1997 Beef Expo Sale will be eligible to show in the 1997 Junior Heifer Show.

The Junior Heifer Show will be on Saturday, March 29, at 9 a.m. Classes will be dividied by age within each breed. Heifer born between October 1995 and October 1996 are eligible. In addition to separate classes for most breeds, there will be a class for all other purebreds and a class for crossbred breeding heifers.

The Junior Steer Show is also scheduled for Saturday, March 29, beginning at 10 a.m. Steer classes will be divided into weight classes, depending on the number of entries. Steers will be weighed in after noon on Friday. Light-, middle-, and heavyweight division champions will compete for grand champion. Entry deadline is March 8.

Junior cattle may be placed in tie-outs between 4 p.m. Thursday, March 27 and 5 p.m. Friday, March 28. Health and registration papers will be checked at the registration table beginning at 11 a.m. on Friday, March 28. Heifers must be vaccinated for shipping fever complex not less than 20 days prior to the show date, test tuberculosis negative within 30 days of the show date and test brucellosis negative or have been vaccinated under 14 months of age. Steers must meet the shipping fever and tuberculosis requirements.

Increased premiums for the 1997 Junior shows are as follows: 1st Place, $40; 2nd Place, $30; 3rd Place, $20; 4th Place, $15; and 5th Place, $10.

Grand and reserve champions will receive banners; all others will receive ribbons.

Included here is a schedule and entry form for the junior shows. The entry fee is $25 per head. There is an additional $10 per head late entry fee for entries received after the March 8 deadline.

Please forward your entry form and payment before March 8 to Katie Biddle, 324 Henning Bldg., University Park, PA 16802.

Market To Reduce Risk, Not To Increase Profits

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Farmers who sell their crops in the fall do just as well as those who take advantage of various marketing tools and sell their crop before harvest.

While contrary to advice typically given farmers, "Over a lifetime of farming, it is unlikely that anyone will sell their crops before harvest at a price greater than if they sold at harvest," said Carl Zulauf, Ohio State University agricultural economist.

Zulauf averaged the prices farmers received for corn and soybeans, at planting and harvest, from 1974 to 1995. Farmers who sold their soybean crop in advance at planting time during those years on average brought home $6.33 per bushel, versus $6.30 received by those who sold at harvest. Farmers who sold corn in May received, on average, $2.63 per bushel, versus $2.59 in December. The few penny differences might just cover marketing costs associated with selling crops before harvest, Zulauf said.

"I have never met a farmer who has gone broke by selling at harvest, but I have met farmers who have gone broke with speculative marketing," Zulauf said. It's not enough to know that prices will change. Marketers must know the direction and degree of that change.

The point isn't that all farmers should sell at harvest and forego other marketing strategies. The point, Zulauf said, is that farmers should think about why they market.

"Selling before harvest can be a good strategy, but you have to know why you're doing it. The objective should be to stay in business and reduce risk. If you also raise the price you receive, that's icing on the cake. But that's not the cake," he said.

While there are rare exceptions, few farmers are able to "beat" the market. To do so, investors must have information before others or be better at analyzing the information. "It's highly unlikely for an individual farmer to have more access to information than the rest of the market," Zulauf said.

He cites a study by Michael Hartzmark, who was associated with the University of Michigan and the University of Chicago at the time of the study, that compared the profits and losses of large hedgers, large speculators and small traders. Large hedgers who traded wheat, for example, made $42.94 million over the 1977-1981 period, large speculators earned $16.19 million, and small traders lost $59.14 million. "The big guys make money because they spend lots of time and money on having more and better information, not because they are somehow taking advantage of small traders," Zulauf said.

Farmers who use markets need to maintain good records so that they know how well they are doing. All marketing strategies are not created equal, Zulauf said. If a farmer's aim is to reduce risk, he or she should look at the risk inherent in their marketing methods. Using a combination of futures and options, or other "exotics," are generally more risky, for example, than cash forwarding, Zulauf said.

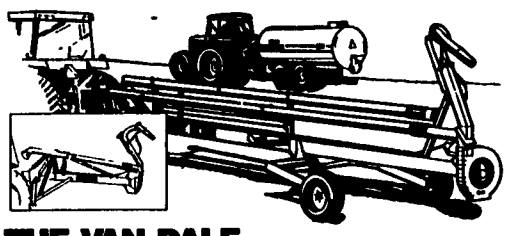
Van Dale Tag Team!

SERIES 5000 LAGOON PUMPS & SPREADER TANKS

Here are two Van Dale Waste Handlers that really compliment each other. Start with the new Series 5000 Lagoon pump that will agitate and empty the biggest and toughest lagoons or pits faster than any other pump on the market.
Then check out the Van Dale Tank that meets your needs. In 2700 - 5500 gallon capacities. They feature a low, uniform spread pattern. And with specially treated, corrosion-resistant 1/4" steel plate construction, backed by a 10-year warranty, you won't have to worry about buying another tank for years and years and years!



THE VAN DALE

CHECK OUT THESE PUMP FEATURES
- Hydraulic Control from the Tractor Seat

KNIGHT
3000 Series
Reel Auggie Mixer®

LESS PRESSURE, FRICTION, AND WEAR . . . FASTER MIXING AND BETTER FEED QUALITY . . . ALL FEATURES OF THE KNIGHT REEL AUGGIE

3000 SERIES REEL AUGGIES FEATURE THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:

- Blends by gently lifting, fluffing, and tumbling the entire load, reducing mix time, power requirement, machine wear, and dead spots
- Aggressive upper and lower auger with hardened, replaceable knives, for thorough end-to-end movement
- Shear angle for both the upper and lower auger
- Simple slide tray or three auger discharge available
- Oil bath drive with external grease banks
- Constant Velocity PTO with integral slip clutch
- Hay-Max Kit option for better break-up of most hay and bulk materials
- Tow, truck mounted, and stationary units from 147 to 680 cubic feet

CONSERVATION TILLAGE HEADQUARTERS

DMI ECOLOTIL Systems

DMI's patented point makes the difference

SOFTEN YOUR SOIL FOR HEALTHIER PLANTS AND BETTER YIELDS

When you use a D.M.I. ECOLOTIL or ECOLOTIGER Subsoiler with D.M.I.'s patented winged tooth, you break up more hardpan than you do with the straight teeth used by other subsoiler manufacturers and you get results you can see and spend...

1. Plants grow fuller and deeper root systems so that the plants are healthier in wet or dry years.

2. Yields are higher because the plants can get the moisture they need to mature - you earn more!

3. Government Regulations for crop Residue is not a problem - 30" shank spacing causes minimum disturbance to the surface while fracturing the subsoil strata beneath the surface - the result is residue stays put, but the soil below is softened so plants grow better.

HOOBER'S EXPERIENCE WITH DEEP TILLAGE SYSTEMS IS YOURS FOR THE ASKING!

ECOLOTIL SYSTEMS

DMI System	HP Required
3 Shank Ecolotil	80
5 Shank Ecolotil	130
527 Ecolotiger	130
530 Ecolotiger	170
730 Ecolotiger	250

Each of these machines can be equipped to meet your particular needs. Your choices include shank style, shank arrangement, coulters, rear levelers or point style.

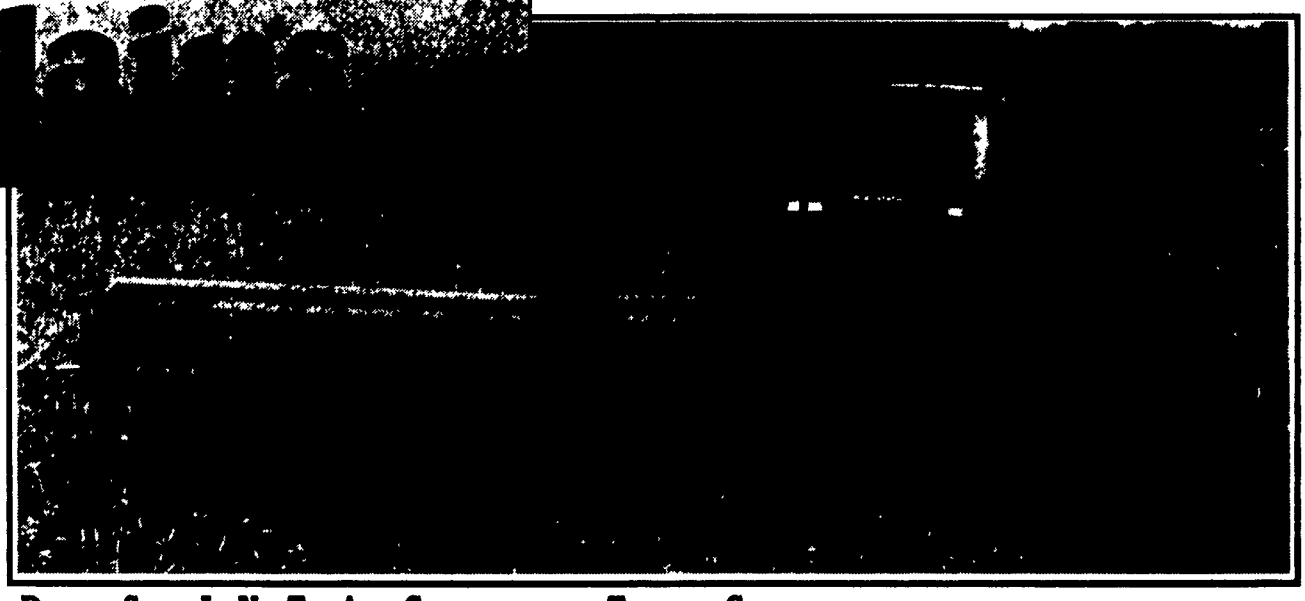
SPECIALISTS IN THE SCIENCE OF SEED PLACEMENT

Great Plains



The successful germination of any seed depends on the enviroment in which you place it... and increasingly, that environment includes a world of residue. Great Plains Drills have been shaped by years of experience. We've been building min-till drills since 1981 and no-till drills since 1982. Regardless of which tillage practice or condition you face, accurate seed placement is important. Every Great Plains Drill seeds with a time-proven technique we call the Science of Seeding.

GREAT PLAINS DRILLS SEED IN NO-TIL AND CONVENTIONAL TILLAGE CONDITIONS...

THE LITTLE THINGS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

1. DOUBLE DISC OPENERS with PARALLEL LINKAGE available on most models

2. SPEED-CHANGE GEARBOX makes seeding rate changes easier

DIAL-A-DEPTH system makes changing planting depth quick & easy

4. FLUTED SEED CUPS - a Great Plains exclusive - deliver outstanding accuracy. Whether the seed you're drilling is small, large or fragile, the Great Plains time-proven metering system will deliver the rate you choose evenly and gently - without scuffing.

Tackle Tough Work With Ease

Case IH 3800 Mid-Size Disk Harrow

A high-output economical tillage system built tough for long-lasting performance even in adverse conditions.

- Sharp angle penetration for excellent fuel economy
- Easy-pulling, wear-resistant Earth Metal blades reliably tackle the toughest field conditions
- Shallow concavity blades for efficient tillage without soil compaction
- Standard self-leveling hitch, mechanical depth control and easy-to-adjust gangs for total control over working depths and residue management
- Available with 20 in. blade at 7 1/2 in. spacing for soil finishing and chemical incorporation or 22 in. at 9 in. spacing for deeper tillage and increased residue clearance

You can count on us for quality tillage equipment, genuine Case IH parts, professional service support and flexible financing.

THB-300: A WHOLE LOT OF POWER PACKED INTO ONE SMALL UNIT.

With a 1.8 horsepower engine delivering a 157 m.p.h. blast of air, this powerful, hand-held blower outperforms all others in its class. Use it for sweeping sidewalks, driveways, lawns, parking lots, and more. Air intake is not obstructed by the operator and its thin design provides easier maneuverability. The THB-300 comes standard with a front handle for more control.

50 Years

It has often been said that opportunity is the doorway to success. So it was in 1946 when Robert Eckroth seized the opportunity to purchase the Fred Nester International Dealership of New Ringgold and became part of the post war surge in Farm Mechanization. The summer of 1946 saw the erection of a spacious store and shop aside the community of Mc Keansburg and in March of 1947 the grand opening of the new store bearing the IH logo was held. Robert Eckroth, along with dedicated employees like his son Lorton, George Teter, Harold Bensinger, Woodrow Schellhamer and others, put down deep roots in this community of honest hard working farmers.

In 1968 Lorton took over the business from his father and in 1984 Daniel and Eugene Eckroth purchased the business from their uncle Lorton. Now 50 years later, Daniel and Eugene look back at the mechanical agricultural revolution that has taken place in these narrow valleys and in deep appreciation and gratitude to this same community of honesty and hard working farmers say Thank You.

Reaching the top is easier if you have the AGCO• Allis 7600 tractor pulling you up.

Make Your Way Up Your Own Corporate Ladder.

The 89 PTO hp engine has the power to muscle through most any job. This multi-purpose, row-crop tractor has a standard synchronized transmission with 24 forward and 12 reverse speeds. For your convenience, you can choose between the cab or rops with an optional canopy.

- A direct air-cooled diesel engine powers the tractor and delivers maximum strength through the full speed range. So you're able to get more work done using less fuel, doing less shifting and requiring less effort to operate the tractor.
- This also lets you match engine power to ground speeds for more efficient field work.
- The AWD models feature true centerline drive shaft for more efficient power transfer and less maintenance.
- Like always, every AGCO Allis tractor comes with a 4-year/4,000-hour warranty that's backed by your dealer.

To see what the 7600 tractor can do for you, just stop by and see us. You'll be surprised at how fast you'll climb.

GLENCOE® SS7200/SS7400 SOIL SAVER®

For your primary tillage needs, nothing prepares your seedbed better than Glencoe SS7200 or SS7400 Soil Savers These one-pass tillage tools feature a heavy-duty 6"x4" frame with the strength to stand up to high horsepower tractors and years of hard use

Our adjustable spring-cushioned slicer gang is rock-shaft mounted for optimum bearing and blade protection Choose heavy-duty rigid, spring cushion or AutoReset shanks with twisted shovels or sweeps to match your conservation requirements For even more versatility, Soil Savers have working widths that range from 6 to 21 feet

To get a closer look at the SS7200 and SS7400 Soil Savers, contact your Glencoe dealer today Once you see how easy it is to build the optimum seedbed, you'll wonder why you didn't purchase a Soil Saver sooner

John Deere quality proves itself time and time again

Specially formulated for maximum performance, John Deere Plus-50 Motor Oil protects your engine from harmful deposits and premature wear.Plus, our oil quality is backed by a John Deere warranty.. It does make a difference what filters you use. Today's sophisticated hydraulic systems, transmissions, and engines require higher levels of filtration. John Deere filters offer maximum protection from contaminants.

Vitamix Makes Antibiotics Obsolete!
You Can Sell The Milk
When You Use Vitamix Instead Of Antibiotics

A dairyman's helper gave a cow an antibiotic and forgot to make a written record of it. He then went on vacation and for the next five days, the milk from 900 cows went down the drain!! The $42,000.00 lost would have bought enough Vitamix to last for years and years for that dairyman's whole herd.

You can sell the milk when feeding Vitamix. Vitamix is a mixture of vitamins, minerals, enzymes, electrolytes, and proteins, especially calculated to feed the immune system. Vitamix is the result of over 20 years research and over 20,000 feeding experiments. Vitamixingredients are so micro pulverized and easily digestible that some of them melt in the mouth and are absorbed into the bloodstream while the cow is still chewing her feed. Her organs increase the output of antibodies (white cells) within minutes, and can often double the output of antibodies within one hour after consuming Vitamix, and you can get Vitamix without a prescription. Vitamix is all natural. You just put Vitamix in the feed whenever there are symptoms of a contagious disease or infection.

The cow's immune system can cure any and every kind of contagious disease and infection quicker, safer, more consistently than any medical drug in the world when you support the immune system. The immune system is the only real defense. I keep cows and horses for feeding experiments.The last time I used an antibiotic was in 1984 and haven't lost a cow, calf or horse since I quit using antibiotics.

Any time any human or animal gets a contagious disease or any kind of infection, it is for one reason, and one reason only; The immune system failed to do an adequate job of defending against it. In other words, the immune system let you down.

Every time you use antibiotics, sulfa drug or an immune stimulator; you weaken the immune system. See the Physicians Desk Reference (PDR) for more information on the side effects of antibiotics. The information in the PDR was provided by the drug companies that make the drugs as required by law.

Shouldn't we be feeding the immune system instead? Support the immune system. Their lives and health depend on it. Feed Vitamix every time for every contagious disease or infection.
Vitamix is the best procedure in the world for Mastitis. It is quick and easy and you can sell the milk when feeding Vitamix.

How long does it take when you take the "Support the immune system approach?" I have seen calves that were down, had high fever, bloody scours and were dehydrated. One needed help to hold its head up. The only thing I gave them was Vitamix and water. In three hours, I had to run them down and get them cornered to give the Vitamix. Dairymen tell me that Vitamix is faster than anything else they ever used.

When there is a serious case of anything contagious or infectious; I give Vitamix once an hour for three hours, or until they are back on their feed and doing noticeably better. I continue Vitamix six times daily for a few days. Vitamix typically costs only $2 to $3 a day for a cow (less for a calf). The total cost for one cow for one illness is typically $8 to $10 from start to finish.

Vitamix costs less than antibiotics, and you can get it without a prescription. Vitamix is completely drug free!!! You can sell the milk when you use Vitamix !!! (When you use antibiotics, you pour the milk out for 5 days, sometimes more. You risk making a mistake and pouring all your milk out for 5 days or more.)

You save money Every Time you use Vitamix. Get some Vitamix now to keep on hand. Use Vitamix as soon as you see symptoms of anything contagious or infectious. You will know you did the right thing within hours.

Preventing and curing all contagious disease and infections boils down to this. Increasing the capacity to produce white cells (Antibodies). All white cells are made by the bone marrow. Antibiotics cause "bone marrow depression" thereby reducing its ability to make white cells to fight diseases and infection (See Physician's Desk Reference Book [PDR]).

I have done over 20,000 feeding experiments on healing the body, and have yet to find an incurable contagious disease or infection.

Why sit around waiting for a miracle? You can order Vitamix right now. Miracles are great and they do happen now and then; if you wait around one might happen for you. But the immune system is a miracle. You can order Vitamix today and keep it on hand, then you will have it when you need it.
Vitamix ...when you need a miracle. The best source of information about Vitamix is people who have used it. Ask a friend about Vitamix.

LIVE-BIRD MARKETS

Barrett S. Cowen, M.S., Ph.D.
Wiley Lab
Dept. Of Veterinary Science

A continuing awareness of the avian influenza (A.I.) threat that live-bird markets represent to commercial poultry is essential to the maintenance of a viable poultry industry in Pennsylvania.

A case in point is the recent avian influenza virus (A.I.V.) traceback investigation to a Pennsylvania farm (birds and environment) resulting from the isolation of H7N2 A.I.V. from a guinea fowl in a live-bird market in Patterson, N.J.

Subsequently, H7N2 and H6N8 subtypes of A.I.V. were isolated at the Penn State Animal Diagnostic Laboratory (the reference center for A.I. surveillance) from different birds and environmental swabs collected at the Pennsylvania farm. This was the third Pennsylvania premise in the H7N2 virus traceback sampling which originated from discovery of the virus in the New Jersey live-bird market. The other two A.I.V. tracebacks of two different farms in Pennsylvania were virus negative.

This apparently is the first traceback in three years that has resulted in an A.I.V. isolation at the farm of origin. During the past three years, federal veterinarians have isolated numbers of nonpathogenic H7 subtype A.I.V. in live-bird markets along the East Coast; however, none until the recent finding could be traced back to any identifiable auction, dealer, or farm of origin.

Because of the fact that each of these A.I.V. have been nonpathogenic, federal sampling of these markets will be limited to two times per year (fall and winter) and affected markets will not be required to depopulate, clean, and disinfect if a nonpathogenic A.I.V. is identified.

Even though the federal government is presently limiting the amount of virus testing being conducted in live-bird markets and their policy has changed regarding the management of virus-contaminated markets, the poultry industry should not "lower its guard" when it comes to continued enforcement of A.I. awareness and surveillance.

The A.I. threat to commercial poultry will ALWAYS be present in live-bird markets as there exist domestic poultry species (for example, ducks) in these markets which are known reservoirs of A.I.V. The positive effect of depopulation, cleaning, and disinfecting of these markets is limited to the "downtime" mandated by state and/or federal officials. When these markets are repopulated, A.I.V. reappears. There is a very logical reason for the continuing reappearance of A.I.V.; the avian reservoirs for A.I.V. are continually reintroduced into the market environment.

Because of this constant A.I. threat to Pennsylvania's poultry industry, biosecurity and surveillance are essential elements in the prevention and control of A.I. Good biosecurity practices on the farm should reduce the risk of A.I. introduction and spread.

Meeting To Look At Dairy Industry

WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — A dairy meeting to look at the factors affecting the dairy industry in the northern tier is being planned by a cross-industry dairy committed.

Penn State Extension, Tioga/Potter Farm Bureau, Northeastern Farm Credit, and Dairylea have come together to pool speakers. Topics will include feed grain pricing, milk futures and outlook, the affect of Federal orders, new and future crops breeding technologies, plus more.

The meeting is planned March 11 at the Gertrude Case School in Knoxville, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Lunch cost is $6 per person.

Here is a partial list of speakers that are confirmed to date: Lou Moore, Penn State economist, feed and grain prices, what is affecting them?; Ed Gallagher, Dairylea, milk futures and federal orders; Northeastern Farm Credit, Pennsylvania dairy business summaries, what's in the numbers?; seed industry, new crop seed and breeding technologies for the future; Joel Rotz, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Pennsylvania dairy farmer role in Federal Order restructuring; Milk Marketing Board speakers; and more.

Home Gardeners' School March 8

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — "Back To The Future" will be Frederick McGourty's keynote address at the Second Annual Home Gardeners' School, Saturday, March 8, at Penn State — Berks Campus at 8 a.m.

McGourty is a well-known lecturer, garden designer, writer, and nurseryman. He was editor of the "Brooklyn Botanic Garden Handbook" series for 15 years. He has won many awards including the Distinguished Educator Award from the New York Botanical Garden. Other awards are from the Garden Writers Association of America and the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

Some other noted lecturers include Mary Ann McGourty, the major contributor and editor of "Taylor's Guide to Ground Covers, Vines and Grasses." She has served as horticultural consultant for several publishers including the Metropolitan Museum of Art. She will speak on vines.

Dr. J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture, Penn State, will speak on pruning trees and shrubs. Dr. David L. Sanford, associate professor, ornamental horticulture, Penn State — Berks Campus, will speak about houseplants to know and grow.

Jerry Zeidler, wildlife conservation officer, will offer a two-hour workshop on identifying butterflies and creating backyard butterfly havens.

Thomas Becker and David Suchanic, extension agents, will speak on composting — beyond the basics and integrated pest management for woody plants. Also speaking will be Jill Jesiolowski Cebenko, senior editor, Organic Gardening Magazine; Douglas Nemeth, manager, Ontelaunee Orchards; Stevie Daniels, freelance writer and garden designer; Jerry Zeidler, wildlife conservation officer; Judith L. Schwank, Berks County extension director; Barbara Pressler, proprietor and garden designer, W.C. Fields Nursery; and Joyce Brobst, educator and member of the Pennsylvania Heartland Unit of the Herb Society of America.

Two workshops will be held — a Myrtle topiary by Yvonne Snyder of the Pennsylvania Heartland Unit and fresh flower arranging by W. Eugene Burkhart, Jr., floral designer.

Cost of registration for classes is $35 including lunch. An additional cost of $15 each is being charged for the workshops. Selection of courses is on a first-come, first-served basis.

Registration brochures can be obtained from Penn State Cooperative Extension — Berks County, (610) 378-1327.

- Spring loaded rear deflector keeps debris in and levels seedbed
- Built tougher than conventional tillers
- 6 tines per flange for superior pulverizing action
- Coil tines sift out large soil particles and growth, leaving the top layer just right for seeding.

Dekalb Plants Seeds On Internet

DEKALB, Ill. — A familiar fall routine for farmers is reviewing published seed company catalogs to make informed decisions on what seeds to purchase and plant.

This time-consuming process will take a quantum leap to the computer age with DeKalb Genetics Corporation putting their complete product lineup, known as their "Seed Showcase," on the Internet.

DeKalb's Internet website is http://www.dekalb.com. The company recently decided to enhance this reputation by designing and building an electronic equivalent of their published Seed Showcase product catalog to provide even more timely and accurate product performance and agronomic information.

According to DeKalb officials, this electronic version of their Seed Showcase is the easiest to use and most comprehensive available today on the Internet. "This newest addition to our website allows computer savvy farmers a variety of valuable interactive features," said Jim Nesmith, DeKalb's vice president of information technology.

Nesmith said farmers can type in a specific DeKalb seed product number and in seconds obtain complete and current product and agronomic descriptions. They can also review all of DeKalb's products available in their region by simply selecting their regional location on the map and then selecting a seed crop category such as "corn," "sorghum," or other crops. "More growers are demanding the most current information available and our electronic seed showcase delivers," said Nesmith.

DeKalb's website also includes many other standard features for farmers, researchers, and agribusiness professionals.

Air Seeder Meets High-Residue Needs

MOLINE, Ill. — Designed to work with the John Deere 787 Air Seeding System, the new 1810 Air Seeder features the residue-handling, high-productivity components needed to meet big-acreage seeding requirements.

Available in working widths from 52 to 61 feet, the John Deere 1810 can be set up with 7.5-, 10-, 12-, or 15-inch opener spacings. With the proper seed boots, the model 1810 can place seed/fertilizer in defined rows, bands, or a broadcast pattern. A heavy-duty opener is available that seeds two rows and deep-bands fertilizer in the root zone between the rows.

Starting with a mainframe that measures 112 inches deep, the frame of the John Deere 1810 features 4x4-inch cross members and 2x5-inch end tubes. The four-rank frame design allows for even row spacing while still providing for good residue-handling capacity.

With the wide field-working widths comes the need to be able to accommodate rolling terrain.

Six pairs of tandem walkover wheels help to smooth out uneven fields and provide consistent seeding depth.

The John Deere 1810 Air Seeder features a five-section frame in working widths of 52, 57, and 61 feet. A choice of either 7.5-, 10-, 12-, or 15-inch opener spacing is available.

Depending on opener spacing, the John Deere 1810 can be equipped with standard C-Shank furrow openers or heavy-duty furrow openers. The standard openers feature 550 pounds of trip force for penetrating tough soil conditions. Spring resets help maintain consistent working depth while a choice of seed boots and sweeps help to tailor the 1810 to specific needs. The standard C-shank furrow openers are available for 7.5-, 10-, and 12-inch spacings.

Deere Introduces 1570 Coulter Cart For Drill

MOLINE, Ill. — The new John Deere 1570 Coulter Cart, when teamed with the company's 1520 Integral Drill, enables the drill to work well in heavy residue. The zone tillage produced by the coulter cart provides fast soil warm-up and prepares the seedbed for better opener penetration.

The cart features on-the-go depth adjustment for increased productivity and operating convenience. A visual depth indicator is also provided.

A choice of three coulter blades — 8-wave, 13-wave, and 25-wave — permits matching the desired amount of tillage to conditions. Each coulter adjusts and swivels for in-line tracking with the 1520 Drill's double-disk openers.

Two large-capacity hydraulic towers provide plenty of power for lifting the cart, drill, and attachments. The 1570 Coulter Cart is available in 15- and 20-foot configurations with either 7.5- or 10-inch row spacing.

A heavy-duty 8x8-inch hitch frame and 5x5-inch coulter toolbar provide strength and durability. Parallel linkage enables the coulters to deliver consistent zone tillage ahead of the double-disk openers.

The 1520 Integral Drill features large-capacity seed boxes for increased productivity, and an active hydraulic down-pressure system for consistent opener penetration over uneven terrain. Dual-wheel seed-meter drive ensures even seeding from side to side. The narrow angle and low pinch point of the drill's double-disk openers provide better penetration at lower down-pressures.

Farm Credit Fills Staff

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Several new staff changes and additions have been made here at Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA.

A new director is taking office. Glenn K. Carper, a dairy farmer from Snyder County, was elected to represent the Middleburg division. He was elected over the incumbent, Lee Shaffer of Selinsgrove. Carper, 43, of McClure, farms 219 acres. His crop operation consists of corn and alfalfa and he maintains a dairy herd of 90 head.

Northeastern Farm Credit has added a new position in its efforts to better serve its customers. The new position is that of retail loan administrator. Linda George, formerly senior customer service representative, is now a retail loan adminstrator at the Lewisburg branch. In her new position, she will originate and service rural home and agricultural credits. She has been with Northeastern since July 1979 when she started as an office assistant.

Northeastern announced the addition of Christine Ritts to the Towanda branch as a customer service representative.

Ritts, originally from Baltimore, Md., currently of Towanda, has joined Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA as a customer service representative. She attended Cantonsville Community College in Cantonsville, Md.

Ritts had been working for Northeastern Farm Credit in Towanda in a temporaray capacity as a customer service representative before being hired on Jan. 20.

Northeastern has also announced the addition of Jonathan Miller to the Towanda/Tunkhannock division.

Miller, of East Smithfield, has joined Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA as a loan officer. He attended the State University of New York at Cobleskill where he received an associate's degree of applied science in animal science in 1994. In 1995, he received his bachelor's degree of technology in agricultural business from the same institution.

In 1992, Miller was the recipient of the University of Connecticut College of Agriculture and Natural Resources Gold Award and the recipient of the New England Sheep and Wool Growers' Association Scholarship for outstanding work in the sheep industry. In 1995 he volunteered for the Cornell Cooperative Extension Vegetable Program.

Miller most recently was employed as a crop consultant for Sulbra Crop Management Association.

Software Can Help Find Your Farm's Profits (And Losses)

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — There was a time when a farm's recordkeeper only had to know if the total farm operation was making money. But the complex management decisions that have to be made on today's farms require more information.

Fortunately, inexpensive computer software can take some of the drudgery out of financial analysis, said Dr. Larry Jenkins, associate professor of agricultural economics in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Farmers still need to know what's happening to the whole business, but it is also vital to know what's happening to the individual enterprises that make up the business," Jenkins said. "Is it the cows or the corn, the sows or the soybeans that are making money? Are some enterprises losign money? Computers make it much easier to get the kind of information it takes to determine which parts of the business are profitable."

Years ago, when the main farm recordkeeping tools were a pencil and a record book, it was very difficult to determine which enterprises were profitable, Jenkins said. "Now computers have eliminated the drudgery from recordkeeping and data analysis, so it takes relatively little effort to determine the costs and returns for the entire farm as well as for individual crop and livestock enterprises within the total business."

Farm managers who use a personal computer for recordkeeping can include this detailed business analysis, called "enterprise analysis," in their accounting activities.

"A low-cost software package such as Quicken or Microsoft Money can help you develop enterprise reports with only a slight increase in time and effort," Jenkins said. "By assigning all transactions to an enterprise, you can produce reports that track both revenue and costs for each enterprise."

An initial step in this process is to set up names that describe the enterprises at your farm. "Within your software package, you assign a class or enterprise name for alfalfa, corn, soybeans, dairy, beef, hogs and anything else produced on your farm," he said.

When entering transactions in the computer, use these enterprise names along with other information. For more information, call Penn State Farm Management Extension at (814) 865-7656 or (814) 863-8652.

Utility Tractors Have 40-50 PTO HP Range

ATLANTA, Ga. — The MF 240 (41 PTO hp) and MF 253 (48 PTO hp) are two of Massey Ferguson's best-selling two-wheel drive utility tractors. Now both tractors are available in new four-wheel drive models with the added versatility farmers are looking for in a mid-range tractor.

"These two tractors will handle many applications from loader work to small tillage operations, and from mowing hay to spreading manure," said John Sargeant, Massey Ferguson product marketing manager.

The MF 240 or MF 253 four-wheel drive tractor is the ideal small utility tractor on a large farm or the main workhorse tractor on a hobby farm, Sargeant stated, and can also handle almost any task in a landscaping operation.

The four-wheel drive MF 240 and MF 253 tractors are the same overall length as their two-wheel versions, resulting in a shorter wheelbase for better maneuverability. This is achieved by mounting the four-wheel drive engagement clutch on the center housing, eliminating the need for a spacer containing the four-wheel drive gears and maintaining the short wheelbase.

Four-wheel drive is engaged on-the-go with a T handle at the operator's left. When four-wheel drive is needed, the operator simply pushes down on the handle. There is no need to stop or use the clutch.

The MF 240 and MF 253 four-wheel drive tractors use a parallel drive system to keep the center of gravity low for stability without sacrificing ground clearance or turning angles. As a result, both tractors offer a low profile front tire for improved stability rather than the high, narrow tires usually found on four-wheel-drive tractors in this horsepower range.

Sire Power Recognizes Top Service Technicians

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — Sire Power recently honored its top membership area technicians.

The Technician Awards Program is the company's way of rewarding each technician for accomplishing goals that are most important to their job as a Sire Power professional sales and service technician.

The winners are determined by how they rank in several categories — service area firsts, direct herd involvement, 90-day money, number of LAMP herds or cows, maintenance of sales prospect manual, and promptness of returning requested information.

The following individuals were awarded Area Technician of the Year plaques. From area 1, Bob Heimbach was the recipient. He covers Snyder County. The area 2 winner is Michael Schrock. He works in Schuylkill and Dauphin counties.

Covering Wayne and Sullivan counties, N.Y., is the area 3 technician of the year, Warren Sharp. Jim Jenkins, area 4 technician of the year, services West Bradford and Tioga counties. The area 5 winner is Tom Shaw. He covers Franklin County, Pa. and Washington County, Md.

Crop Insurance Available

POTTSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.) — Farmers wishing to minimize some of the risks associated with producing a crop can participate in an insurance program.

Corn, soybeans, potatoes, oats, grain sorghum, processed sweet corn and spring barley can still be insured for 1997.

Growers can insure 50 percent of a normal crop on the entire acreage of a crop for a $50 fee. Catastrophic losses greater than 50 percent are reimbursed at 60 percent of average market prices.

All insurable crops carry sales closing deadlines. If you are interested in carrying crop insurance in 1997, contact the Farm Service Agency at (717) 622-1555.

Horse Judging Team Competes In Horse Congress

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Penn State University Horse Judging Team competed in one of the largest horse judging contests in the United States here at the All-American Quarter Horse Congress.

Approximately 65 collegiate, 4-H, FFA, and Quarter Horse Association judging teams competed at the 30th annual All-American Quarter Horse Congress Intercollegiate and Junior Judging Contest.

Penn State team members included Jennifer Garman, senior in agricultural sciences, Aaronsburg, Pa.; Annie Harris, senior in environmental resource economics, Simsbury, Conn.; Stacey Sands, senior in dairy and animal science, Tunkhannock, Pa.; Floyd Wise, a December graduate in dairy and animal science, York, Pa.; and Wendy Fitzgerald, senior dairy and animal science, Fredonia, Pa., who was unable to compete in the contest. The team was coached by Brian A. Egan, equine extension assistant, and Keith A. Bryan, instructor in animal science, both in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State.

All of the members of the horse judging team were also members of the livestock judging that finished fourth at The Main Event on Saturday preceding the contest at Columbus. Following the awards banquet at The Main Event, the team traveled to Columbus where their focus shifted from livestock to horses, and where they met coach Egan to begin their final preparations for the horse judging contest.

Team members were required to place four halter classes and eight performance classes. In addition, collegiate contestants were required to persent oral reasons for two halter and three performance classes.

Halter classes in the contest included: 2-year-old stallions, yearling fillies, aged geldings, and 3-year-old mares. Patterns were provided for five of the eight performance classes and included hunter hack, western pleasure, hunter under saddle, English equitation, western horsemanship, reining, pleasure driving, and western riding. Oral reasons were presented by collegiate contestants on aged geldings, 3-year-old mares, hunter hack, western pleasure, and reining.

The Penn State team members finished eleventh out of 36 teams at this year's contest, garnering a score of 2,764, a mere 17 points from breaking into the top 10. The team also placed seventh in judging performance classes, with a total combined score of 1843.

In the individual contest, all of the Penn State team members finished in the top 100, and Annie Harris placed 49th. The outstanding performance of this year's contest was turned in by Stacey Sands. Stacey finished as the third high individual in performance classes with a score of 498 out of 550 points possible. Her third place finish in performance classes, coupled with consistent placing and reasons scores in halter classes, allowed Stacey to accumulate a total of 751 points out of 850 points possible. She was two points better than the next highest score of 749, and finished as the high individual judge at this year's All-American Quarter Horse Congress. For her efforts and accomplishments, Stacey received the following awards: a monogrammed boot bag; an AQHA silversmith watch presented by Rod's Western Palace; a custom hand-made pair of calf skin boots presented by the Mercedes Boot Company; two bronze medallions from the All-American Quarter Horse Congress (third in performance, first overall); and, a $500 scholarship presented by the Ohio Quarter Horse Association.

Successful Farming Topic Of Conference

CHARLOTTE HALL, Md. — Altnerative agriculture plays a key role in the future success of southern Maryland's farmers.

Moving into the next century, creative diversification and staying successful are just a few of the issues that will be discussed at an all-day regional conference to be held on Wednesday, April 2, in Waldorf, Md.

Join other farmers and growers and learn about alternative agricultural enterprises that may be feasible in the southern Maryland region. Hear about currently successful ventures. Participate in the group discussions and discover some of the things that area growers are doing to keep their farm business lucrative.

The Southern Maryland Alternative Agriculture Conference is scheduled Wednesday, April 2, from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Jaycee's Community Center, Waldorf, Md.

Guest speakers will discuss "Opportunities in Alternative Agriculture." The conference will also feature a presentation on "What Worked, What Didn't, What Now...," the results of projects conducted during the 1996 season. In addition, recipients of 1997 Alternative Agriculture Program grants will be announced.

The registration fee of $5 includes a luncheon, preregistration by March 24, is required to ensure luncheon availability.

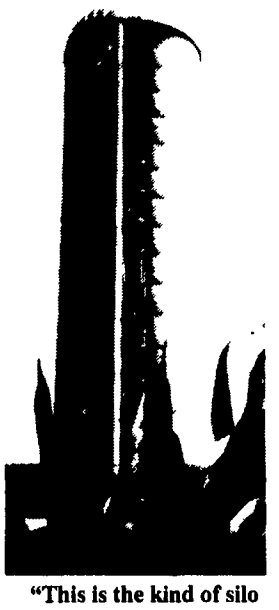
THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!



"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed:"

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

ADVANTAGE ... CONCRETE

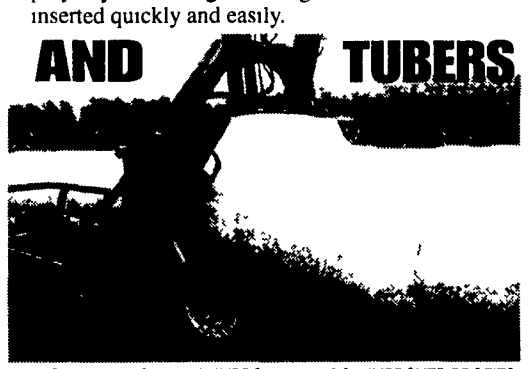
LASTIC-TUBE®

A cost effective method for the fermentation and storage of round and square bale silage.

- Handles 4', 5' and 6' round bales, as well as selected square bales.
- Creates an ideal environment for silage fermentation, maintained until feed out time
- Completely sealed from ingress of air and moisture
- Hydraulically operated fingers stretch folded polyethylene tubing, allowing the bales to be inserted quickly and easily.



IMPROVED FEED QUALITY= IMPROVED YIELDS = IMPROVED PROFITS

- High performance, fast, effective . . . field tested from 70 to 100 bales per hour!
- Uniform film layer; no joints or overlaps as found in stretch films
- Low capital start-up costs
- Capable of being a one-man operation
- Lastic-Tube® is effective, cost efficient and recyclable

Jamesway Technology Takes a Giant Leap Forward!

BIG JIM® Quantum™ SYSTEM

FOR CONVENTIONAL SILOS AND BOTTOM UNLOADING SILO CONVERSION SYSTEMS (B.U.C.S.)

Big Jim QUANTUM™ is a totally redesigned heavy-duty system that offers the best features of both Jamesway's Big Jim and B.U.C.S.® unloading systems plus a whole lot more. Now no matter what type of forage silo you own – conventional or oxygen limited – you can look to the future with a system that truly handles big capacity and fast feeding better than any unloader, top or bottom. A system that's easy to own with no doors to change or dirty chutes to climb. A system that makes it easy for you to control ration feeding. And a system that puts your tower silo investment to its best use far better than any type of bunker silo. With Big Jim QUANTUM, you get:

- FASTER FEED UNLOADING – up to 45 tons per hour, up to 1,166 pounds per minute.
- HIGHER SILO CAPACITY – pack up to 35 more forage into your silo.
- GREATER FEED VALUE – inside forage between 55% to 65% moisture content.
- EASIER MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR – less wear and tear and components are accessible.

TIRED OF LEAKING ROOFING? USE

WHEELING
Channeldrain
ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.

1. Wide overlap: Increases strength and leak protection at each joint.
2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel: the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action; stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years.

INTRODUCING...

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

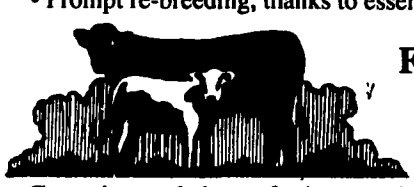
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last

Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables PTO and ground drive models available.

IN ALUMINUM BODIES
EBY BUILDS IT

M H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

Moisture, Soil Fertility Hand Corn Growers A Top Crop

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

EASTON (Northampton Co.) — It's not hard to get a top crop.

Just ask Gary Fehnel, who managed to obtain the highest yield on a three-year average for corn than any grower he competed against in the ear corn class, machine harvest, in the state.

"You need a good growing year and you feed the ground," he said.

Fehnel indicated that moisture was a big contributor to obtaining excellent corn yields. Obtaining that moisture at critical growing times allowed the best for a three-year average yield for the Northampton County grower.

Along with father Clarence and brother Stephen, Gary accepted his award at the 1997 Pennsylvania Crops Conference recently at the Holiday Inn in Grantville.

Gary obtained the award on an average yield of 165.5 bushels per acre. In 1994, Gary planted Pioneer 3293 for a yield of 147.1 bushels per acre; in 1995, he planted Pioneer 3394 for a yield of 147.6 bushels per acre; and repeated the same variety in the 1996 growing year for a yield of 201.8 bushels per acre.

Stephen also did well, picking up third in the class for an average yield of 146.9 bushels per acre. In 1994, he planted Funk's 4473 for a yield of 140.2 bushels per acre; in 1995, he planted Pioneer 3394 for a yield of 140.6 bushels per acre; and in 1996, the same variety was used for a yield of 159.8 bushels per acre.

Clarence Fehnel also did well in the Five-Acre Contest, picking up first place in the ear corn class, machine harvest, for a yield of 168.5 bushels per acre using Pioneer 3394. Plant population was 29,262 per acre.

Clarence said the family grows about 400 acres altogether of various crops, including corn, a lot of which is stored in 13 corn cribs on the farm. There are three separate farm operations in the Palmer Township business. According to Clarence, there are 250 acres in corn, 55 acres in wheat, 20 acres in oats, and 30 acres in alfalfa.

Gary said the growers can achieve good yields because of the heavy limestone soil. The soils, while holding some clay like many Lancaster County soils, are fertilized with dairy manure.

The Fehnels make use of extensive soil testing every three years.

The ground is prepared in the spring using a moldboard plow and the seedbed is prepared

Corn Checkoff Works, Board President Tells Growers

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — For one state, the corn checkoff program has been welcomed back with open arms.

Every five years, Maryland feed grain producers can vote to continue the program. Last August, they did just that — and 75 percent voted to continue the checkoff program, assessed at ½ of 1 percent of the net sale price per bushel of corn.

The message is clear: the checkoff works to help fund research and education regarding the thousands of acres of corn grown in Maryland, according to Lawrence Meeks, president of the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board.

Meeks discussed the history of the checkoff program and provided an extensive overview of the projects the checkoff has funded. One such project that is being funded is corn genome research, which someday will provide the "genetic roadmap" of the corn plant — in essence, corn's genetic history.

Another project is helping the Delmarva poultry industry find ways to make use of barley in poultry feeds, to be used as feed in between the old stocks and the new crop of corn.

The board makes extensive use of the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service, which Meeks applauded for their continuing cooperation and involvement in a wide array of grain use projects.

Also at the annual crops conference, Mike Brubaker, president of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, provided an overview of corn and the "mind-boggling potential" of the technological advancements in growing corn.

He reminded the 176 produc-

THE TEST WEIGHT PROBLEM

This year, as in many years, some Pennsylvania corn growers were frustrated with low test weight corn.

Let's review some of the issues regarding low test weight corn: what it is, why it is discounted in the market, what causes it, and what we can do to prevent it.

Test weight or bushel weight of corn refers to the density of the shelled corn. The bushel weight of #2 yellow corn according to USDA grade specifications is at least 54 pounds. In some situations test weight can drop 48 pounds/bushel or less.

Bushel weight is influenced by the density of the kernels and how well they pack together. Kernels that are not well filled out are usually less dense and have lower test weights. Kernels that are broken or shriveled do not pack well and also contribute to lower test weight.

Wet corn has swelled kernels that are less dense, so frequently wet corn will have a lower test weight than dry corn.

Test weight will usually increase by 1 pound per bushel for every 4 points that the corn is dried. In some cases, however, drying has little effect on corn test weight. Many markets discount for low test weight corn because of the potential for reduced feed quality and additional storage costs.

with a disc. At plowing, nitrogen is worked in. At planting time, a 46 percent urea is used.

Planting date was May 4 for Gary's field. Clarence planted April 26 and Stephen's went in on May 10.

Sidedressing takes place when the corn height reaches 18 to 20 inches. The 46 percent urea for sidedressing is spread and then ,cultivated in.

The Fehnels make use of the Lehigh Crop Management Association, which provides scouting for pest pressure, including weeds and insects. Clarence Fehnel attributes the use of a moldboard plow to helping control insects and weed pressure.

This year was particularly good for yields for the whole operation because the conditions were near ideal, according to Clarence. "We had a lot of moisture out there to push the crop," he said.

"Nutrients and moisture combined to give us a good crop."

Topdressing occurring twice this year, early and late — put there when the corn needed it, according to Gary Fehnel.

The Fehnels also manage a small Holstein herd consisting of 30 head on the home farm. The milk is sold to a local bottler.

Harvest began for the early corn the first week of October

They use a corn picker. What is not stored in the many corn cribs is put in a shed and piled up and sold to local elevators and some to the area farmers. The harvest was completed by Thanksgiving.

Altogether, the Fehnels believe that keeping an eye on the soils and making sure fertility programs work together with moisture contribute to a better-yielding corn crop.

This year's average corn club yield of 174 bushels per acre shattered the previous record of 168 bushels per acre set in 1994. Seventeen growers had yields of over 200 bushels per acre- this is more than twice the number we've had in any previous year. This was a reflection of the good weather for corn production in many areas this season as well as continuing improvements in participant's management skill and the quality of inputs available to them One managment change that was apparent in this years data was an increase in plant populations The average plant population at harvest this year in the grain classes was over 25100, up from 24200 last year. This is similar to trends in other states and supports some seed company and extension recommendations that indicate that some newer hybrids can benefit from these higher plant populations Other interesting trends in the data are that there are many high yields on manured fields with no additional N fertilizer being used- indicating that producers are taking manure N credits into account on these fields Several top yields were also produced without starter fertilizer, which is also probably justified on fields with high soil test levels. Another interesting trend was that the generally later planting dates this year were followed by a wet year. In 1995, the reverse occurred- a dry spring and generally early plantings were followed by a dry summer. Consequently, yield at the end of the season is not always hurt by a little later start to planting.

Our management excercise this year promoted the use of futures and options for marketing corn In retrospect, this year was a good one for utilizing these marketing alternatives, but few of the participants who responded indicated they were planning to do so

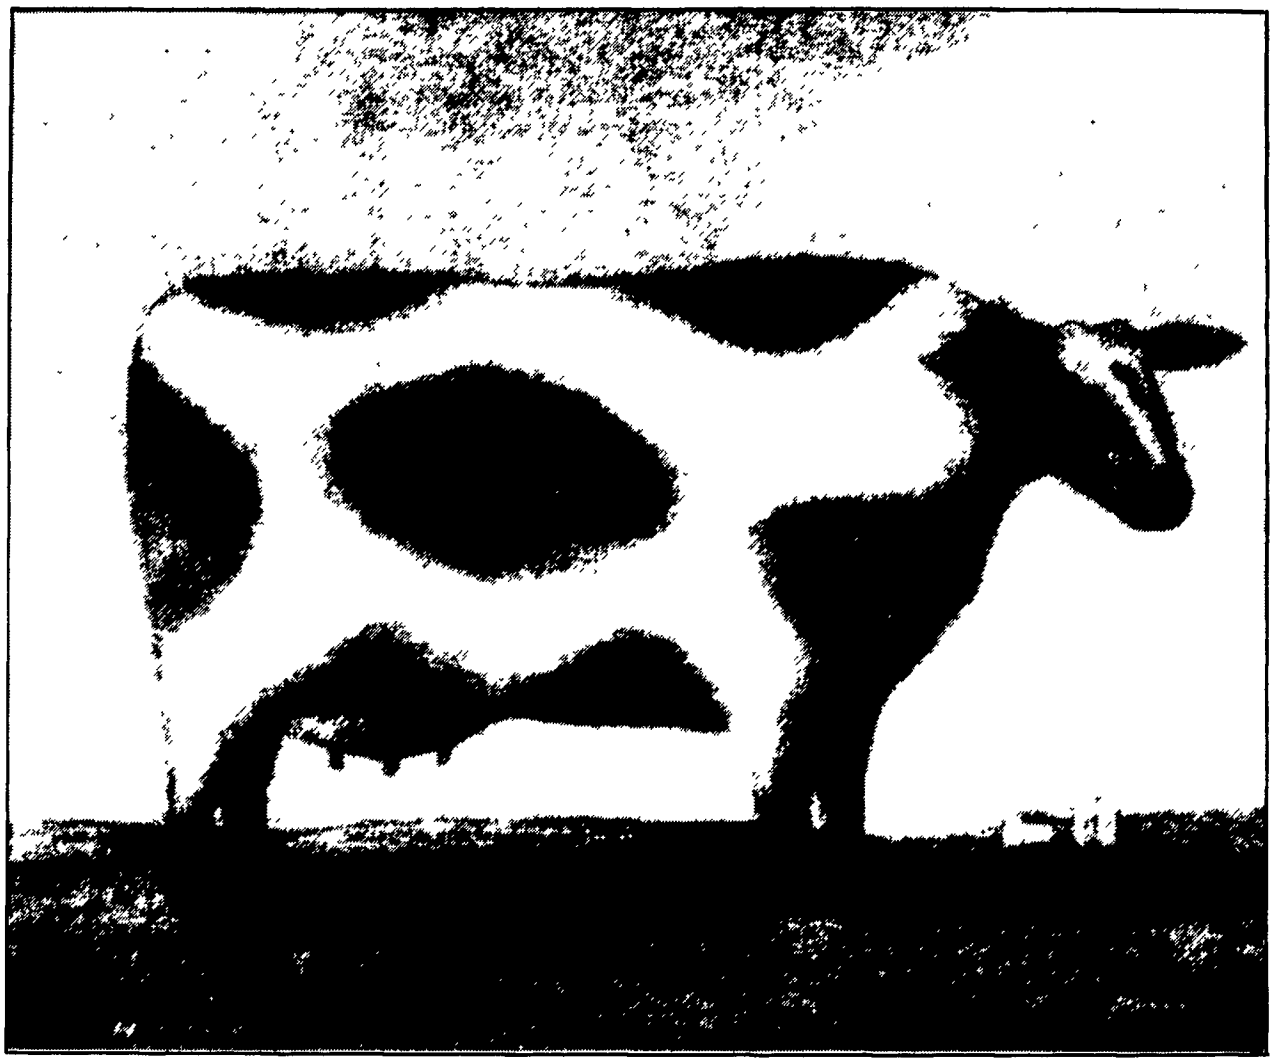
CARGILL HYBRID SEEDS

WE'VE TURNED CORN INTO A MAJOR CASH CROP. NOW WE'RE TURNING YOUR HERD INTO CASH COWS.



2411FQ
Above-average tonnage, high wholeplant digestibility and non-fiber carbohydrates make this early silage hybrid an excellent choice for beef and dairy.

3309FQ
This hybrid gives you both above average forage yield potential and an extremely high digestibility profile.

3711FQ
This new, very tall hybrid is well-suited for dairy feeding programs. Has an advanced level of fiber digestibility.

6511FQ
New mid-season maturity hybrid with outstanding whole-plant digestibility and aboveaverage fiber digestibility. High forage yield potential.

7301FQ
A medium-tall plant with good stay green rating, soft kernel texture with excellent tonnage potential. Exceptional whole-plant digestibility for high energy density.

8511FQ
This new hybrid combines the forage yield potential of a late-season hybrid with the quality of a mid-season hybrid. Very high fiber digestibility for a late hybrid.

6208FQ
A favorite among forage producers, this hybrid has moderate to low fiber values and high whole-plant digestibility. Above average tonnage potential.

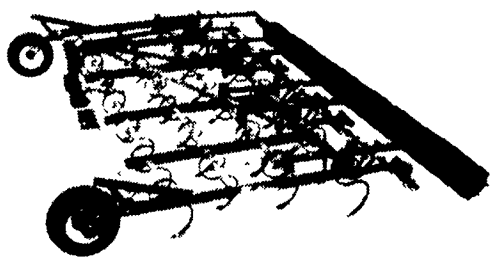
Brillion

The "Quality Crafted" Line Better Seedbeds... Better Stands!

SOIL BUILDERS
5-7-9-11-13 Shanks

SOIL BUILDERS. Optional - Coulter gang can be hydraulically controlled to save maintenance dollars. Available in 2 & 3 bar.

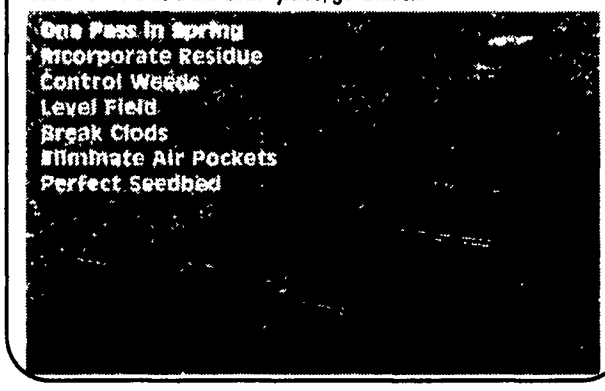
3 PT. BASKET HARROWS
12 Ft., 15 Ft., 18 Ft.



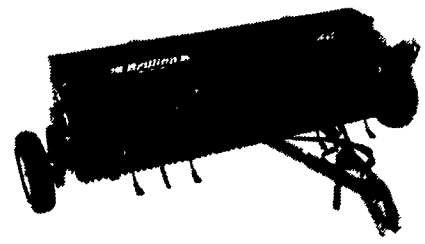
Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable coil tine leveler bar. Gauge wheels are optional.

BRILLION COMMANDER SYSTEM

Versatile tillage tools such as Brillion's Soil Commander allows the use of Chisel Shanks or Deep-ripper Shanks to break up soil compaction. Front disk gangs and optional rear leveling disks cut residue, breaks clods, level the field and prepare the field to absorb moisture from melting snow and to reduce soil erosion. Brillion's Field Commander combined with a Brillion Pulverizer excels at creating the perfect seedbed for spring planting. C-Shanks or S-Tine Shanks leave a uniform mixture of soil and surface residue for the most effecient chemical incorporation. The X-Fold Pulverizer (shown below) breaks up clods, firms the soil without compacting, eliminates air pockets in the soil and levels the soil for optimal seed placement For less time in the field and better yields, go Brillion.



AG SURE STAND SEEDERS
5 Ft.-8 Ft.-10 Ft.-12 Ft.

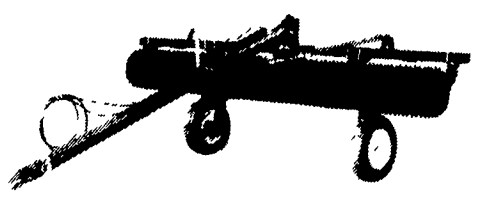


For years Brillion Grass Seeders have proven to be the best machine for plantinggrasses and legumes... and now they're even better! Larger, heavier boxes, high seeding rates, nylon lined seed meter, heavier frame, new drive system and more. Available in 3-point or pull type. SSPT604, SS8, SS10, SS12

LANDCOMMANDERS
3-5-7-9-11-13 Shanks

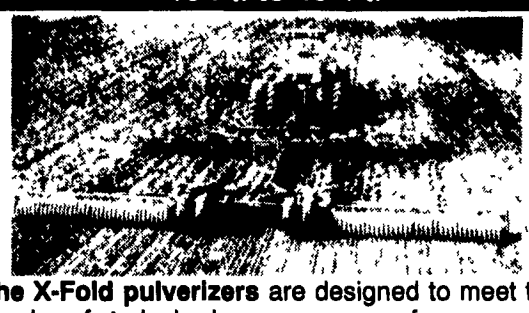
The front disc gang has 22" x 1/4" disc blades on 15" spacings. They are designed to cut residue and work the ground to a depth of 6". The Landcommander has the ability to till from 8" to 20" deep. The rear disc gang has 20" x 7 ga. disc blades on 7.5 spacing. The 6"x4" mainframe is designed to handle the stress from the deep till shanks and disc gangs.

P-SERIES TRANSPORT PULVERIZERS
10 Ft. to 20 Ft.



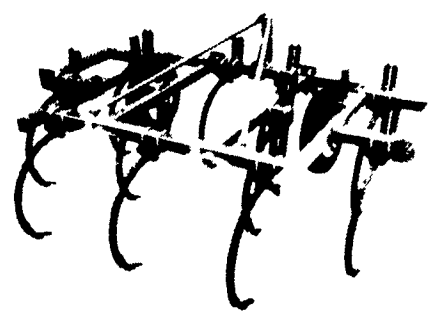
Rotary Frame Pulverizers; PT10 Series Transport Concept. Machine weight is hydraulically rotated over the wheels for transport. This reduces draw bar hitch weight considerably and provides ample clearance for transport. Also Available As Pull Type.

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS
19 Ft. to 46 Ft.



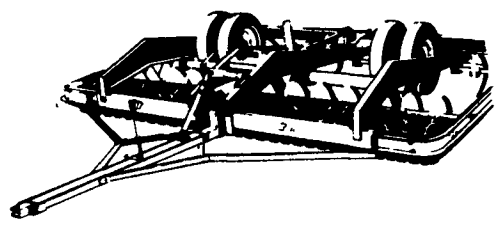
The X-Fold pulverizers are designed to meet the needs of today's larger acreage farmers...and Brillion offers them in two models and 11 sizes from 19' through 46'. Available with 20" Ductile Rollers.

2 or 3 BAR CHISEL PLOWS
5-7-9-11 or 10-12-14-16 Shanks



The CPP series of mounted models enables you to turn short and fast... to transport easily, utilizing your tractor's hydraulic system.

M-MD PULVI-MULCHERS
7'4", 10'4", 12'4", 13'8", 15'



The Brillion Pulvi-Mulcher converts fall or spring plowing into clod-free, high yield seedbeds. Just flick the tractor hydraulic control, pulvi-mulcher lifts to transport wheels.

ML SERIES PULVI-MULCHERS
12'6", 13'10", 15'2", 18'9"

- Easy rolling 20" ductile iron notched or crowfoot roller wheels with 5 year limited warranty.
- Longer life external mounted bearings.
- Longer, heavier drawbar for shorter turns.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER DEEP RIPPER - 3-5-7 Shanks

Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander... designed to break up hard-pan and compaction as deep as 20". The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

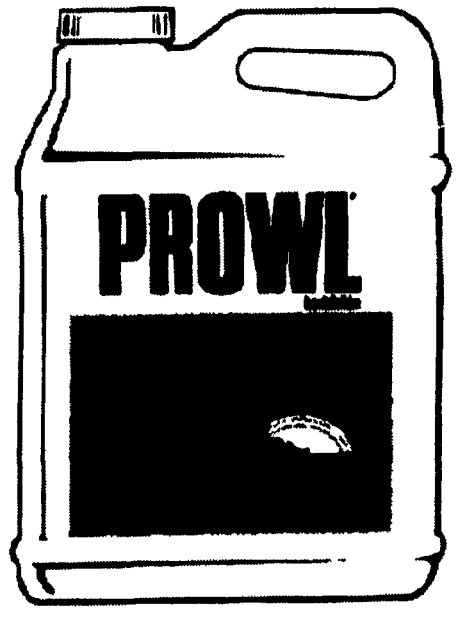
ALWAYS START WITH PROWL® herbicide



FOR LOW-COST WEED CONTROL IN CORN

VELVETLEAF, TRIAZINE RESISTANT LAMBS QUARTER

PIGWEED PLUS ANNUAL GRASSES

USE A PROWL® TANK MIX

PROWL FLEXIBILITY: Tank Mix With One Of The Following: Bicep®, Bullet®, Bladex® 90DF or Atrazine.

EASY APPLICATION Apply the PROWL tank mix preemergence, or early postemergence after the corn is up, but no bigger than the four-leaf stage. Weeds should be no more than an inch tall. Do NOT incorporate PROWL in corn.

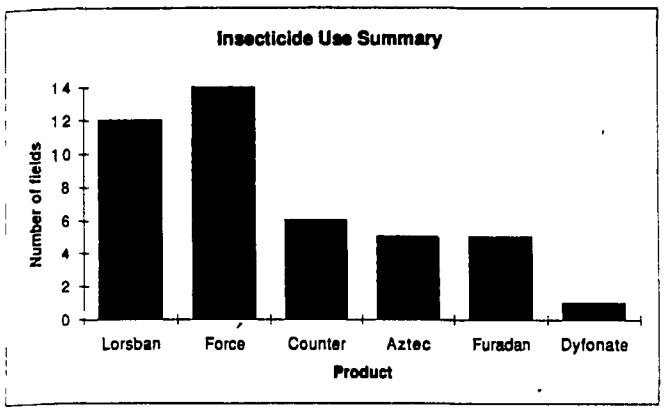
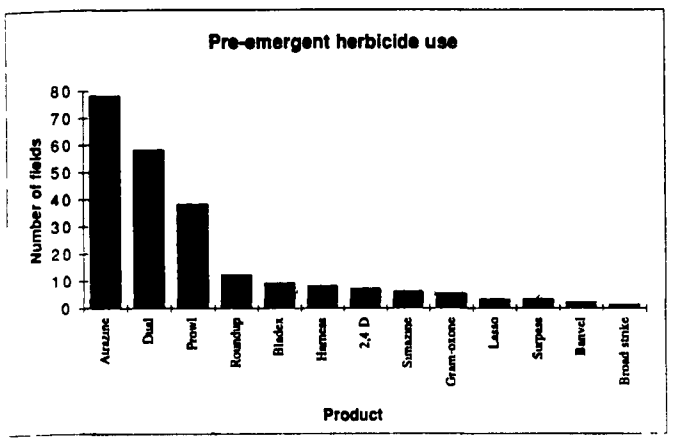
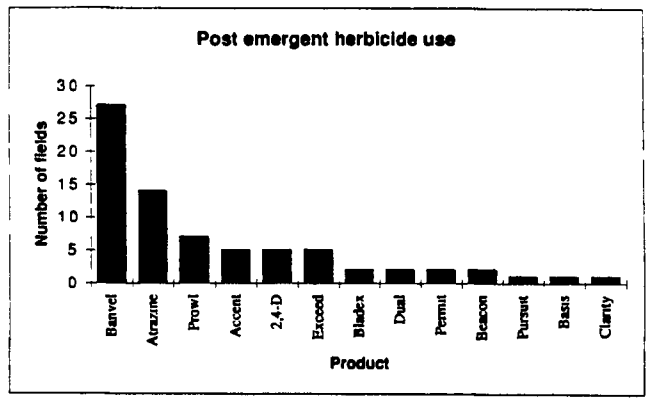
Forty four fields in the Corn Club had a row insecticide applied. The graph below reflects the use of the four insecticides reported in the Club.



Of the 118 fields in the club, 100 had pre-emergent herbicides applied. Below is a distribution of the most popular herbicides applied to those fields.



Forty three of the fields in the club recieved a post-emerge herbicide application Of these, 14 did not recieve a pre-emerge herbicide The remaining 29 recieved at least two herbicide applications



The number of trips (including custom applications) that were made across each field averaged 5 8, but there was a wide variation among Corn Club fields as shown below.

FARMERS #1 CHOICE IN COMBINES

. . . with a kinder, gentler grain handling system.

Your grain doesn't have to take a beating anymore. With GLEANER's exclusive Natural Flow processing cylinder, your crop never changes direction. Giving you higher grain quality and better returns at the elevator. Our unique transverse mounting system moves your crop in a ribbon-like fashion from the concave through the cage. It's never forced to make hard turns. You also get the cleanest grain with our combine. We have the longest cleaning shoe in the industry, 64 inches to be exact. And we've added "cleaning shoe" enhancements, like a 4-degree sloped chaffer and sieve, for even finer cleaning and separation. To find out just how gentle we can be, contact your GLEANER dealer. You'll see that only GLEANER is engineered for better returns.

Corn Futures and Options Farm Management Exercise

Jayson K Harper

The farm management exercise this past summer evaluated the use of futures and options to manage price risk Early indications were that carryover stocks of corn would be less than 5 percent of use, which would have been the lowest ratio on record In mid-summer prices skyrocketed and were extremely volatile Cash market prices were in excess of $5.50/bushel or nearly double what they were at the same time in 1995

When I wrote up the exercise back on July 10, the Chicago futures price for December corn was $3 58 December basis over the past 7 years has averaged +$0 15/bushel, this meant that the Pennsylvania price in December was expected to be around $3 73/bushel as of last July 10 On December 16, corn was selling for an average of $2 87/bushel in Pennsylvania ($2 91 in the southeastern part of the state, $2.86 in the central part, $2 79 in the south-central part, and $2 94 in the western part) What happened and when?

Prices for December futures peaked in mid-July at around $3 90/bushel By early to mid-August, corn futures prices had dropped to around $3 15/bushel Much of this was due to the discovery of additional corn stocks and the substitution of other feeds Prices rallied in mid-late August, but went into a steep decline on the news of higher than expected early harvest yields and lower export sales The extremely low stocks also led to regional shortages that reduced the corn consumption rate in late summer As a result, the final stocks of 426 million bushels were somewhat higher than expected earlier As additional information on the size of the national corn crop revised production estimates upwards, December futures prices have fallen to $2 67/bushel as of December 16 The latest USDA crop report puts the 1996 corn crop at 9 27 billion bushels (the third largest crop on record), up almost 16% from earlier estimates of 8 billion bushels Carryover stocks are expected to be over 1 billion bushels next September

What would have happened if we would have bought a put option for a December futures contract in mid-July, late-August, or even as late as early-October? In mid-July the futures price was around $3 60/bushel This means that we could have locked in an actual net sales price of $3 73/bushel by exercising the option to sell a futures contract [1] In late-August the futures price had rebounded to the $3 50/bushel level after falling to around $3 20/bushel earlier in the month At this point we could have locked in an actual net sales price of $3 63/bushel with the option[2] In early October the futures price had fallen to around $3 00/bushel However, even at this late date we could have locked-in an actual sales price of $3 13/bushel[3] The important point is that even if we locked-in the price after the late July highs, we would have an effective price above what the local market cash price is in mid-December

The farm management exercise generated little interest this past year A total of twelve corn club participants returned their surveys Of this twelve only four indicated they would either sell a futures contract or buy a put option The remaining eight decided to take their chances on the cash market Taking their chances could have cost these producers over $1 00/bushel Even if prices had increased over the futures price, the only cost would have the premium and brokerage fees on a put option and the corn could still have been sold for the higher price[4] Although the volatility of the 1996 corn market was unusual, it does point out the benefits of futures and options as part of a marketing strategy that manages price risk rather than solely taking your chances on the cash market

Notes

[1] Mid July futures price minus the December 16 futures price plus the local cash market price minus the brokerage commission

($3 60 - $2 71) + $2 87 - $0 03 = $3 73

[2] Late-August futures price minus the December 16 futures price plus the local cash market price minus the brokerage commission

($3 50 - $2 71) + $2 87 - $0 03 = $3 63

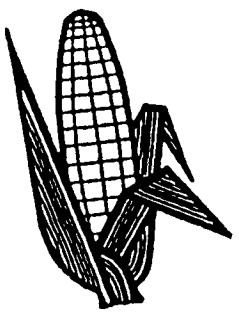
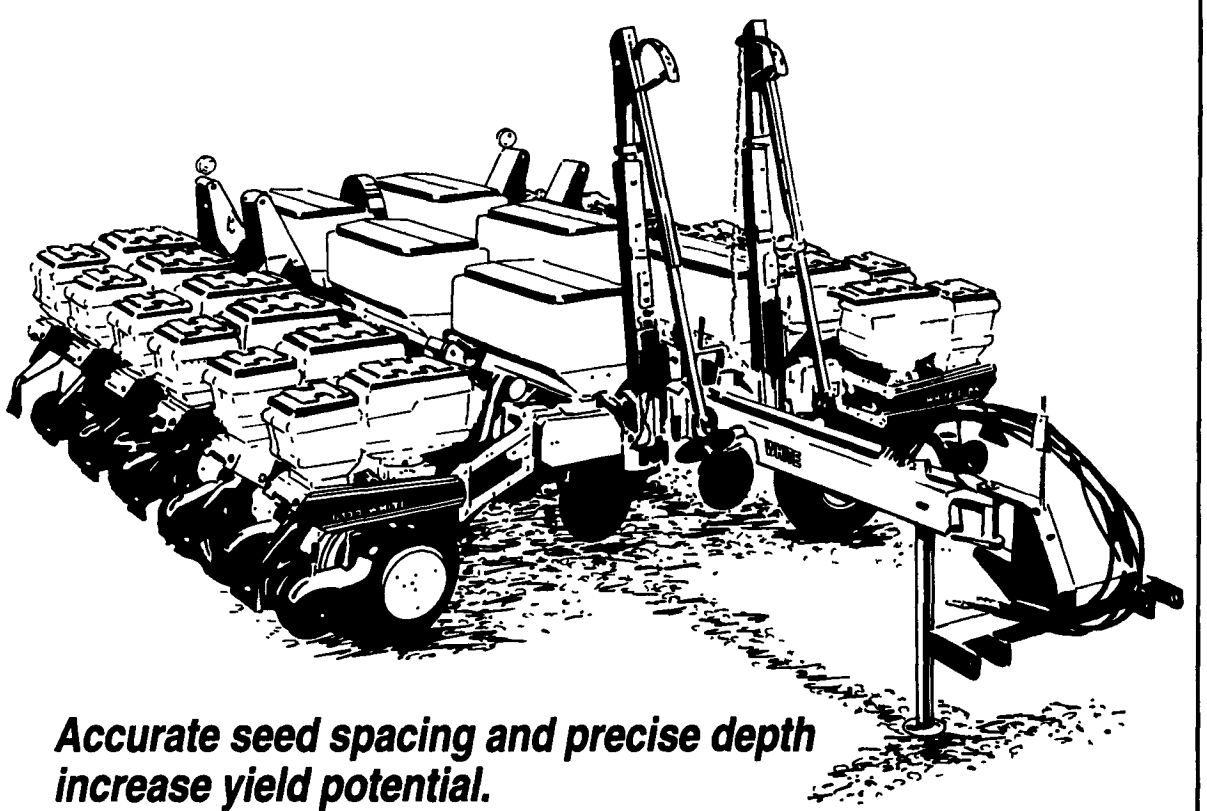
($3 00 - $2 71) + $2 87 - $0 03 = $3 13

[4] For example, on July 10 an option to sell a futures contract at $4 10 had a premium of $0.62 On August 20, an option to sell a $3 40 futures contract had a premium of $0 20 In the first case, we were locking-in a minimum price of $3 45/bushel ($4 10 - $0 62 - $0 03) In the second case, we would have locked-in a minimum price of $3 17/bushel ($3 40 - $0 20 - $0 03) If cash market prices increased above the futures price, we would benefit from the higher cash market price, but the option would then be worthless



Accurate, Precise Single Seed Placement



Accurate seed spacing and precise depth increase yield potential.

- Time-proven positive air metering system and edge drop seed discs gently singulate seeds to eliminate wasteful doubles.
- The short 18" seed drop makes seed spacing accurate.
- Consistent seed depth is assured through our independently operating walking beam gauge wheels...adjust in 1/8" increments.
- Low air pressure gently handles fragile seed coat.
- Fewer moving parts reduce maintenance and downtime.
- No-till attachments give you flexibility to plant in all residual levels.
- Interchangeable seed discs available for soybeans, corn, sweet corn, popcorn, sorghum, milo, acid delinted cotton, sugar beets and others.

Bradford County Farmer Sees Benefits Of Narrow-Row Corn

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — For one Bradford County dairy farmer, narrow-row corn has proven beneficial by providing a better silage harvest —, all without spending a lot of money on adapting to new equipment.

Tim Beardslee, a SulBra Crop Management Association (CMA) farmer based in Springfield Township, Bradford County, harvested 1,800 tons of corn silage on his 100-acre dairy, Lottahill Farms.

And he did that with a year that not only had challenges with excessive moisture, but on hilly conditions.

"We're called Lottahill Farms for that reason — we have a lot of hills," Beardslee told the 60 crop consultants, crop managers, producers, and agri-industry representatives who attended last month's Pennsylvania CMA meeting at the Penn State Scanticon Conference Center in University Park.

Beardslee maintains about 170 head of dairy cattle and about 150 young stock. Corn silage yields were "not too bad this year," he said, considering all the work involved with taking care of the dairy and the immense and time-consuming fieldwork. Corn silage yields went up about 20 percent, he admitted.

At the farm, Beardslee has help from his family and one part-time schoolboy.

He commented on a lot of the help he received from the SulBra CMA, members who have "great eyes and ears" that you can "bounce things off of" in terms of trying something new, such as narrow row corn.

The corn was planted on 15-inch rows at 34,000 plants per acre. Some corn was planted also on standard 30-inch row spacing at a plant population of 27,000 per acre.

In some cases, corn went on in the narrow row format at 38,000-39,000 plants per acre, according to Mark Madden, Susquehanna County Cooperative Extension agent, who also spoke at the January PCMA conference.

Corn was planted later than normal last year because of the cool, wet conditions early in the growing season. About 60 percent of the farm is in no-till, according to Beardslee.

When planting the narrow-row corn, the farmers used a simple four-row planter doubling back on 30-inch centers.

"We didn't do too bad going back over the old rows," Beardslee said.

Actually, the Bradford County farmer admitted that weed control was better in narrow rows than in the conventional 30- inch rows. Narrow row corn provides shading, keeping weed challenges down. No change was necessary to their equipment, and there was very little loss of seed placement or seed amount by going back.

Much of the corn was planted by June 12 on farm conditions that were wet and "very rocky," said Beardslee.

"We haul manure daily," he said. They use the nitrogen quicktest to determine how much starter urea fertilizer they need at planting.

"We probably could have used more (urea) to improve the yield," he said.

The family continues to increase the herd size. The barn was built for 100 cows but now houses 140 milking cows. "We've had to (increase the herd)," Beardslee said, to keep the farm profitable. "On our farm, we believe you have to make money off of it, otherwise why else do it?"

Tim Beardslee, a SulBra Crop Management Association (CMA) farmer based in Springfield Township, Bradford County, harvested 1,800 tons of corn silage on his 100-acre dairy, Lottahill Farms. He tried narrow-row corn with success.

One of the biggest challenges was simply learning how to accurately aim the four-row planter, which proved challenging, according to Beardslee.

Madden indicated that in the northeastern part of the state, there are 35,000 acres on corn silage, and farms can learn to "do more with less" as acreage dwindles.

Greg Roth, Penn State corn specialist, noted at the PCMA conference that farmers can achieve a 10 percent increase in yields if using narrow-row corn, and "more as we go north." The southeastern part of the state wouldn't see the same types of benefits as the "northern Pennsylvania folks considering corn silage," Roth noted. However, some farms in the southeast — a 500-acre farm in York County and a 2,200-acre farm also in the southeast — are trying out narrow-row corn with success.

What's New For Agronomic Weed Control (1997)

D.D. Lingenfelter And W.S. Curran
Dept. of Agronomy
Penn State

Corn

Label Changes and New Products: Basis 75DF (DuPont), premix of rimsulfuron + thifensulfuron (Pinnacle), is a combination annual grass and broadleaf herbicide. Basis will soon have a supplemental label for preemergence application for control of triazine-resistant lambsquarters and pigweed. We have not tested Basis preemergence, but we do have some concern about adequate residual control and crop safety.

Also, Tough, Hornet, and Scorpion III have been added to the postemergence tank mix label with Basis. Do not apply to corn hybrids with a Relative Maturity (RM) rating of less than 88 days. Basis Gold 89.5DF (DuPont) is a premix of nicosulfuron (Accent) + rimsulfuron + atrazine. This product can be applied early POST to corn up to 12 inch tall corn (i.e., less than 6 collars). It provides good control of 1 to 3 inches tall foxtails, barnyardgrass, and panicum.

Basis Gold also controls 3 to 4 inches tall velvetleaf, ragweed, pigweed, smartweed, jimsonweed, and non-triazine resistant lambsquarters. Include an effective broadleaf herbicide such as Banvel with Basis Gold for control of triazine resistant lambsquarters. Apply Basis Gold at a rate of 14 ounces per acre with an appropriate adjuvant. Basis Gold will be packaged in water soluble bags. Do not apply to corn hybrids with a Relative Maturity (RM) rating of less than 88 days, because of injury concerns.

Balance 75WDG (Rhone Poulenc) is a new preemergent herbicide containing the active ingredient isoxaflutole. Isoxaflutole is a pigment inhibitor that controls a wide number of weed species including velvetleaf, lambsquarters, pigweed, common ragweed, smartweed, and nightshade, as well as, some grasses. The application rate range is between 1 to 4 ounces/acre. In most situations, Balance will need to be tank-mixed with a PRE grass herbicide to improve grass control.

In Penn State research, Balance has performed well on most of our common annual broadleaves. Some corn injury has been observed on course textured soils or situations of early season stress (e.g., compacted areas), so follow appropriate label precautions. Balance herbicide expects EPA registration some time in 1997.

Headline (BASF) is a premix of Poast (sethoxydim) and Laddok (bentazon + atrazine) for use on SR/Poast compatible corn hybrids only. Limited amounts of this product may be available in Pennsylvania in 1997. Hornet 86WSP (DowElanco) is formerly known as Broadstrike Plus Corn Pre/PPI. It contains the active ingredients of Broadstrike (flumetsulam) and Stinger (clopyralid). Hornet can be applied preemergence or POST, up to 24 tall corn, and controls broadleaves. Tank mixing will increase the weed control spectrum. Do not apply Hornet to soils with a pH greater than 7.8 and/or less than 1.5 percent organic matter. Also, corn should be planted at least 1.5 inches deep and after average soil temperature is above 50°F.

Lightning 70DF (Cyanamid) is a combination of two imidazolinone herbicides — imazethapyr (Pursuit) and imazapyr (Contain/Arsenal). Lightning can be applied only to IMI corn hybrids. It provides good control of many annual grasses and broadleaves. Because Lightning contains two relatively persistent imidazolinone herbicides (ALS), be sure to follow herbicide resistance management guidelines such as rotating herbicide mode of actions and including a non-ALS herbicide (such as Banvel) in the tank mixture.

Lightning will have crop rotation restrictions similar to those of Pursuit. Lightning herbicide expects EPA registration some time in 1997.

Roundup Ready corn (Monsanto) is expected to be marketed by 1998 or later. It will allow POST applications of Roundup to corn.

Soybeans

New Products: Authority OnePass (FMC) is a premix of the active ingredients of Authority (sulfentrazone) and Command 4ME (clomazone). It provides preemergent control of numerous broadleaves and grasses including, velvetleaf, lambsquarters, pigweed, nightshade, foxtails, and panicum.

Authority herbicide expects EPA registration some time in 1997. Canopy XL 56.3DF (DuPont) and Authority Broadleaf (FMC) are premixes of Authority + Classic (chlorimuron). Both products provide control of annual broadleaves such as lambsquarters, pigweed, velvetleaf, cocklebur, smartweed, nightshade, jimsonweed, morningglory, and nutsedge when applied preemergence. Application restrictions apply if soil pH is greater than 6.8.

In PSU research, Authority has provided consistent control of several broadleaves, including nightshade. Both Authority and chlorimuron can injure soybeans especially in course textured soils or due to early season stress (e.g., excessive rainfall), so be sure to follow all label guidelines. Authority herbicide products expect EPA registration some time in 1997.

Conclude (BASF) is a total POST herbicide that includes the active ingredients of Storm (acifluorfen + bentazon) and Poast (sethoxydim). It will control both broadleaves and grasses in soybeans.

FirstRate 84WDG (DowElanco) contains the active ingredient cloransulam-methyl and is an ALS inhibitor herbicide. It is a broadleaf herbicide that controls pigweed, velvetleaf, ragweed, cocklebur, and morningglory when applied either PRE or POST. FirstRate is expected to have widespread marketing by 1998, however limited quantities may be available this growing season.

Raptor 1S (Cyanamid) contains the active ingredient imazamox and is a POST soybean herbicide, which is considered a shorter residual Pursuit. It provides good control of annual grasses and broadleaves especially giant foxtail, pigweed, and lambsquarters. Cyanamid expects Raptor to be labeled eventually for use in alfalfa as well. Raptor herbicide expects EPA registration some time in 1997.

Corn And Soybeans New Products

Action (Novartis), coded as CGA248757 (fluthiacet-methyl (proposed name)), is a postemergence contact-type herbicide that provides excellent control of velvetleaf, but also has activity on some other broadleaves. Action will most likely be tank mixed with other products or be sold as a premix to increase the weed spectrum. Action will not be widely available in 1997.

Axiom 68DF (Bayer) contains the active ingredients thiafluamide + Sencor, and is a PRE-applied product that will be used in corn and soybeans. Thiafluamide is one of the most active members from the chloroacetamide family (Dual, Lasso etc.), and is applied at low use rates (0.5 lb/acre). Axiom will control foxtail, crabgrass, barnyardgrass, panicum, and several annual broadleaves. Axiom will not be available in 1997.

Dual II Magnum (Novartis) is a new formulation of metolachlor. It is a more concentrated form of the active ingredient; therefore less product is required per acre (1.26 pints/acre). This new product also will contain the corn safener. It controls the same weed spectrum as previous Dual products. Dual II Magnum will also be available in the atrazine premix, Bicep.

Liberty 1.67L (AgrEvo) contains the active ingredient glufosinate. It is a broad-spectrum herbicide (Roundup/Gramoxone-like) for use on Liberty Link corn and soybean varieties. This program should provide broad-spectrum control of broadleaves and grasses of low to moderate pressure. Tank mixtures and sequential applications may be required.

Liberty Link corn and soybeans received registration from EPA in January 1997. Liberty Link soybeans will not be available until 1998.

Alfalfa

Label Change: Select 2E (Valent) is a postemergence grass herbicide that is currently labeled on soybeans and will soon receive registration for use on alfalfa. It provides good control of many annual grasses and can suppress perennial species. Its use rates will be similar to those used in soybeans. Tank mix with a broadleaf herbicide such as Butyrac to increase the control spectrum.

Small Grains And Sorghum

New Product: Peak 57WDG (Novartis), active ingredient prosulfuron, is labeled for use in wheat, oats, rye, barley, triticale, proso millet, and grain sorghum. It provides good control of wild garlic and certain broadleaves, however, Peak is weak on henbit and other weeds common in Pennsylvania small grains. Tank mixing will be necessary to increase control spectrum. Peak has a 10 month crop rotation restriction for soybeans and 15 months for alfalfa.

Because of some of the above considerations, Peak may not have a good fit in Pennsylvania cropping systems.

Transition In The Ag Industry

Within the past few years there has been some merging and restructuring of certain agricultural industries. Below is a brief summary of some of the most recent changes.

BASF acquired the rights to Frontier (dimethenamid) and Banvel (dicamba) products, as well as many Sandoz personnel associated with those products. Novartis was formed by the merger of Ciba and the remaining Sandoz company. The Ciba and Sandoz company names will no longer be used.

Monsanto owns controlling interest in DeKalb seed, a major portion of Asgrow seed company, and Holdens seeds.

Golf Tees Are Made From Corn

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) has information on the availability of golf tees that, made from corn, are entirely biodegradable.

Corn-based golf tees offer the perfect solution for golfers.

When they come in contact with soil, rain, and watering on the golf course, the tees safely disintegrate, leaving no synthetic residues behind.

The tees consist of more than 65 percent corn starch, an annually renewable resource. The tees help the soil retain moisture and promote sod growth when left on the course, unlike similar wood and plastic products. The United States Golf Association permits the use of the biodegradable golf tees under the rules of golf.

Now's The Time To Join Corn Growers

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — PMCGA is pleased to announce continuing support for its Membership Incentive Program (MIP) that is conducting in conjunction with a number of cooperating Pennsylvania seed companies.

The MIP with seed corn company sponsorship will entitle any corn grower who plants at least five acres of corn to a free bag of seed corn (standard size) with a three-year membership in PMCGA/NCGA.

This program applies to all three-year memberships, new or renewal. To participate, simply complete the membership form and indicate the brand of seed corn you would like to try.

Remember the theme of PMCGA's program is "Try Something New," so the association hopes you will use this opportunity to experiment a bit and not just get a bag of free seed corn.

You will receive a certificate for a free bag of seed from the company chosen from PMCGA. You will make the ultimate decision about which hybrid to receive in consulation with the local seed corn dealer for the company you selected.

PMCGA will send the names and addresses by brand chosen to the appropriate seed corn company's statewide contact person and they will contact you.

In addition to this incentive program, you'll be joining more than 29,000 other growers across the country who are showing their support for the corn industry and the development of new corn markets. Locally, you'll be supporting PMCGA's activities such as Corn Talk, the PMCGA Corn Conference, and local corn promotion activities.

Nation's Top Crop Yi

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) announced corn farmers from 14 different states took top honors in the 1996 National Corn Yield Contest.

The corn yield entries tabulated from the farmers who took first, second, and third place in the popular contest ranged from an impressive 209 bushels per acre to a whopping 323 bushels per acre.

Those kids of yields show how amazing our crop is," said Wallie Hardie, president of the NCGA. "On average, the weather in the Western Corn Belt helped produce some impressive yields, but really tested growers in the East." Farmers in many states east of the Mississippi River experienced a rainy spring which delayed planting. Similar weather reoccurred in the fall, which stretched out harvest.

Participation in the NCGA corn yield contest jumped 11 percent from last year to more than 3,600 corn farmers. Here is the list of the top national winners according to the contest class and agronomic practice:

Class AA States: This class combines corn growers from Illinois, Indiana, Kowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Penn State Investigates Nitrogen Timing On Continuous Corn

Joanne Stellingwerf, agronomy technician at Penn State, examines no-till corn on the left that had no nitrogen applied until sidedressing compared to corn that received a split application.

Stephen Smith
Department Of Agronomy
Penn State

Despite the cold weather and snow-covered fields, this is a good time to start planning nitrogen fertilizer programs for the upcoming corn crop.

Nitrogen management is an essential component of profitable corn production. Careful management of nitrogen is necessary for maximizing grain yields and profitability and to reduce the potential negative impacts of nitrogen fertilization on the environment.

Delaying the bulk of the nitrogen until after corn emergence is a practice known as sidedressing. Sidedressing is recommended by Penn State as a best management practice and approximately 35 to 50 percent of corn producers in Pennsylvania sidedress some of their corn.

Potential benefits of this practice are improved yields, better nitrogen utilization, and less potential for nitrate leaching in the spring. Sidedressing is most beneficial on fields that have had a recent legume crop or a history of manure applications.

There is some concern with sidedressing on fields where corn is planted continuously with no manure applications. On these fields, corn can develop early season nitrogen deficiencies that result in yield losses if little or no nitrogen is applied at planting.

Nitrogen deficiency in corn can also result from dry weather following the sidedress application. This nitrogen deficiency results when the fertilizer remains in the soil surface where root and soil microbial activity are limited.

We conducted a two-year study at four locations in Pennsylvania to evaluate four nitrogen timing application treatments on continuous corn fields that did not recently receive manure. The nitrogen application treatments were: 1) applying all the nitrogen at planting; 2) applying 40 percent of the nitrogen at planting and 60 percent when the corn reach the eight-leaf growth stage; 3) applying all the nitrogen as a sidedress when the corn reached the four-leaf growth stage; and 4) applying all the nitrogen as a sidedress when the corn reached the eight-leaf growth stage.

The results of this study indicated that when no nitrogen is applied until the eight-leaf growth stage, early season nitrogen stress can reduce both growth and yield. Delaying the nitrogen application until the eight-leaf growth stage resulted in considerably shorter plants at the beginning of the growing season. The reduced plant height was a result of the early season nitrogen deficiency that occurred with the delayed nitrogen application.

(Turn to Page 18)

At the end of the season, however, there were little dry matter yield differences among the nitrogen timing treatments. Also, delaying the nitrogen application resulted in more nitrate remaining in the root zone, compared to applying the nitrogen at planting. This could increase the potential for nitrogen to leach into the groundwater over the winter.

In one year, the sidedress treatments resulted in significantly lower grain yields compared to the at plant treatment. However, in the second year, there were no grain yield differences between the treatments.

The timing of rainfall during the season and other stress factors apparently influenced the performance of the sidedress treatments. As a result, the yield benefits of delaying the nitrogen application until the four-leaf or eight-leaf growth stage in this study were not consistent.

Considering the findings of this study, a split application of nitrogen of about 40 percent of the nitrogen at planting and 60 percent sidedressed appears to be the best recommendation on fields that have no manure history or residual nitrogen from a previous legume crop. The split application of nitrogen is recommended because of the decreased risks associated with this practice.

Applying all the nitrogen at planting could prevent early season nitrogen stress but nitrogen losses in the spring might result in late season nitrogen deficiency that might reduce grain yield. Delaying any nitrogen applications until the eight-leaf growth stage can result in early season nitrogen deficiency that in some years may also reduce grain yields.

Therefore, split applications of nitrogen are the best recommendation because they pose the least risk for nitrogen deficiency to occur during the season and in our study it resulted in the most consistent grain yields. These conclusions generally support the current recommendations from the Penn State Agronomy Guide that suggest a split nitrogen application program on fields with low residual nitrogen.

Where residual soil nitrogen levels are low, relying on a sidedress application to supply the bulk of the nitrogen requirement can be risky, since early season nitrogen deficiency can reduce growth and occasionally limit grain yields.

Cutlery Made From Corn

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Made from a starch of corn, biodegradable cutlery can take the place of plastic silverware.

The corn-based cutlery looks, feels, and performs like plastic, but it degrades completely like paper, leaves, and wood in biologically active environments.

The cutlery is just as sturdy as plastic silverware.

Specialty corn polymers can also be used in drink lids, straws, coffee stirrers, and compostable bags. The cutlery is being test marketed in several Burger Kings in the U.S.

For bulk purchasing information, contact the National Corn Growers Association at 1000 Executive PArkway #105, St. Louis, MO 63141, (314) 275-9915.

Does Liberty Link Corn Fit Your Weed Management Program?

W.S. Curran
Dept. of Agronomy
Penn State

Liberty herbicide received EPA approval on Jan. 17, 1997 for use on Liberty Link corn and soybeans.

Liberty Link corn will be sold in 1997 by several seed suppliers. Liberty may only be used on crops designated as Liberty Link.

Liberty or glufosinate is a nonselective herbicide that controls or injures most plants. Corn hybrids resistant to glufosinate were developed through genetic engineering techniques. This is the second introduction in the U.S. of a herbicide resistant transgenic crop (Roundup-Ready soybeans were introduced in 1996).

Liberty herbicide is a broadspectrum broadleaf and grass herbicide that controls many problem annual weeds in corn. Liberty may be used on field or silage corn from emergence to 24 inches tall or the V-7 stage, whichever comes first.

Liberty is applied at 16 to 28 fluid ounces per acre to actively growing weeds that are generally 2 to 4 inches in height. Liberty does not provide residual control, so a residual herbicide or a follow-up cultivation should be considered.

Liberty may be applied following the use of any soil-applied corn herbicide and may be tank-mixed with most post herbicides labeled for corn (see a product label of complete details).

In Penn State trials, Liberty performance has been comparable to other post herbicide programs for corn. In general, the best control has been observed when Liberty is applied 4 to 6 weeks after corn planting to weeds less than 6 inches tall. Liberty application following a lower cost preemergence program such as Extrazine or Prowl+atrazine has looked good. Liberty used as a cleanup treatment following preemergence grass or

SCHUYLKILL COUNTY IRRIGATED CORN STUDY

J. Allan Shoener
Schuylkill County
Extension

Shortly before the 1994 crop season, Henry Reiner, a potato farmer in western Schuylkill County, installed a center pivot irrigation system on rolling stripcropped fields.

When the irrigation system is activated, the corn and other crops receive water as well as the potatoes.

In the past, corn fields in our area that have been irrigated like this have not yielded to expectations. In 1995, we established a study on several of Reiner's fields to determine how we could maximize corn yields under the irrigation system. We decided to focus on plant populations as one variable that might be able to increase yields in this situation.

We have also been estimating water use and comparing that to the irrigation that these fields would normally receive. In addition we are comparing yields to those on a nonirrigated control plot is located on the adjoining farm of Marlin and Steve Paul.

In 1995, we planted he same hybrid, Dekalb 623, on all plots but varied the plant population from 26,000 to 38,000 plants per acre. Soil nutrient levels were more than adequate for 175 bushel per acre yields.

July and August in 1995 were hot and dry, so we expected a large increase due to irrigation. On the adjacent nonirrigated farm, yields averaged 91 bushels per acre. The irrigated corn yielded 148 bushels per acre at the 26,000 population and 156 bushels per acre at the 30,000 plant population.

At a population of 38,000, yields declined to 135 bushels per acre. Consequently the irrigation combined with the right management could increase corn yields by 65 bushels per acre.

We actually expected a larger increase in yield because many irrigated corn growers achieve higher yields than this. We think that the high temperatures (19 days at 90°F or over) had a negative impact on yields.

Liberty Link Corn

grass plus broadleaf products (i.e. Bicep, Harness Extra, Surpass 100, or Guardsman) has also looked good. Liberty in combination with atrazine, Banvel or Clarity or some other post products that broaden the spectrum and provide some residual control are also worthy.

As with previous total post programs (i.e. Accent+Banvel), Liberty applied at a single application timing for complete weed control has been less consistent.

Liberty herbicide adds a new tool for postemergent grass and broadleaf weed control in corn. Liberty is an effective herbicide on many annual weeds found in Northeast fields. It will require some additional help on certain perennials (yellow nutsedge, hemp dogbane, etc.) as well as larger annuals (pigweed, crabgrass, etc.), but when used in a planned approach, it provides an excellent opportunity for better weed management.

In Liberty's inaugural year, try a lower cost pre program followed by Liberty, try some Liberty tank-mixtures or sequential treatments, or follow Liberty with a cultivation.

This first year is a good opportunity to get some experience with Liberty in Liberty-Link corn.

Also, even though the plots were irrigated five times in late July and August, receiving approximately .8 inches of water each time, we may not have kept up with water needs of the crop.

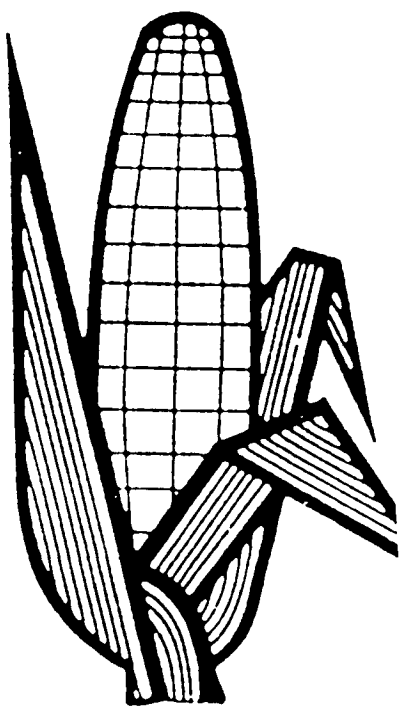
In addition, this field was planted about May 20 and a small area of the nonirrigated

In addition, this field was planted about May 20 and a small area of the nonirrigated plot that actually was irrigated yielded 168 bushels/per acre, better than any of our plots. This field was planted about two weeks earlier, so late planting may have also put a cap on our yields in the trial.

We repeated the trial in 1996 — a year with a very much different growing season and no need at all for irrigation. This year the cultural practices were almost identical with all the plots being planted the same day with the same equipment and by the same operators. The hybrid planted was Dekalb 626.

The corn in 1996 yielded a phenomenal 209 bushels per acre at the 23,000 population and 213 bushels per acre at the 26,000 plant population. At 38,000 yields declined to 209 bushels per acre.

We noticed that at the highest population, standability declined to about 23 percent down plants compared to 15 percent down plants at the 26,000 plant population. Our conclusions so far in this project are that yields will benefit in this situation from plant populations probably in the 26,000-30,000 range, depending on the hybrid, early planting, a good crop rotation, and adequate fertility. We hope to repeat the project again in 1997 to confirm these recommendations.



Sharpen Grain Marketing Skills

Tom Murphy
Lycoming County Extension

The Central Susquehanna Grain Marketing Club, formed in March 1995, provides its members the opportunity to learn how to become more effective at marketing their grain commodities.

The group started with 12 members and has now doubled to its present size of 25 producers.

Although the group primarily focuses its attention on the corn market, other commodities are discussed as they affect the market conditions.

The group accomplishes its mission by intensely studying the market and watching how the Chicago Board of Trade reacts to events as they occur. Through this process they discuss how different marketing strategies might affect their bottom line.

One of the opportunities they have been involved in is the purchase of futures options contracts through the Chicago Board. To date, they have purchased options on four different occasions (as a group) as a way to learn this method of hedging and to offset some of their risk if they were to sell in the cash market.

Not all of these options have paid off for the group but each has been a learning experience. Members are now starting to purchase options and use some of the other strategies now that they have become more familiar with how they work.

The members have been increasing their marketing knowledge by utilizing the experience of many people in the commodity marketing field. The group has had a wide variety of speakers at their meetings along with sponsoring a number of one-day seminars on the principles of marketing.

Currently the majority of the members are enrolled in a 15-week ag marketing video course from the University of Nebraska. All of these opportunities, along with the personal experiences of the producers involved, has worked to build the confidence level of the participants which is leading to better marketing plans and ultimately to better commodity prices for the members.

If you would like to know more about the grain marketing club and/or how to start one in your area, contact Tom Murphy at the Penn StateCooperative Extension office in Lycoming Co. at (717) 327-2350.

STARTER FERTILIZER YIELD RESPONSE

Amanda Ritchey
Extension Program Assistant
Blair County

This past summer three farmers from Blair and Huntingdon counties participated in a starter fertilizer trial with a grant from the Ridge and Valley Project, a program of the Pennsylvania Association of Sustainable Agriculture.

Agronomy Extension Agent Phil Rzewnicki and I coordinated the demonstration plots and assisted with data collection and analysis.

This trial was initiated in order to test the value of starter fertilizer on well manured fields. All of the corn fields in this trial had been in corn at least one year since the three farms which completed the demonstration was also evaluated.

The Scott Cox farm located outside of Warriors Mark, Huntingdon County, tested the yield response of corn planted with starter and Asset against neither. Six replications were made in a nine-acre strip, with an average field length of 2,350 feet.

The soil is a Morrison sandy loam manured once a year with 4,000 gallons of dairy manure. Soil test information showed that the soil phosphorus level was 67 pounds per acre and the potash (K) was at 117 pounds per acre. Both of the levels are in the low range of soil fertility. Starter fertilizer was 8-28-12 applied at a rate of 100-120 pounds per acre. The insecticide Force was used at 6.8 pounds per acre.

The corn was planted in 30-inch rows using traditioanl tillage practices on 4/29/96. Soil temperature was 49°F. Site evaluations following emergence showed little if any noticeable variation between the two treatments.

The Presidedress Soil Nitrate Test (PSNT) was performed on the field. The test indicated N levels were high. Stand losses due to wet, cold soil were a problem with this plot. Average height and population counts were taken on 8/8/96 for all farms. The average height was 107.4 inches and the average population was 19,750. The differences between the plots were found to be insignificant.

Cox harvested the test field for silage between Sept. 19-21. The yields were adjusted for

NOT ALL ROOTWORMS ARE CREATED EQUAL.

Rootworms are rootworms. Believe that and you could be at risk for the western corn rootworm. More aggressive than its northern and southern counterparts, the western corn rootworm has been spreading and becoming more dominant across the Corn Belt. That's why you need COUNTER® CR® systemic insecticide-nematicide in the LOCK'n LOAD® closed handling system. COUNTER CR, the only controlled-release soil insecticide, not only controls northern and southern corn rootworms, but also provides the most consistent control of the western corn rootworm. Between The Rows

Whether the discounts in the marketplace are fair is the subject of an ongoing controversy between grain buyers and sellers.

Several studies have shown that low test weight corn (under 50 pounds/bushel) will produce similar gains in beef feedlots or for fattening lambs compared to higher test weight corn if fed on a weight basis. There appears to be a growing concern in the dairy industry, however, that low test weight corn may not work as well in dairy cow rations as it does in the feedlot.

I am not aware of any controlled studies, however, on this topic. Low test weight corn is sometimes associated with mold problems so this makes grain buyers wary. Low test weight corn can also influence transportation costs. A truck that holds 300 bushels of corn at 54 pounds/bushel would be hauling 16,200 pounds of grain. If the grain were 50 pounds/bushel, then you could only get on 15,000 pounds on the same truck.

Low test weights are usually caused poor kernel fill. In most cases this is caused because the crop did not reach physiological maturity, This is often caused by frost before the crop is mature, but can also be caused by leaf or stalk diseases that cause premature death.

Hybrids also vary in their inherent test weight because of the differences in the density of the grain. In a strip test we conducted in northern Pennsylvania this year, hybrids of the same maturity ranged for 48 to 53 pounds per bushel in the same field. Hybrids can also influence test weight by being too late for the area where they are planted.

In one of my tests at Rock Springs in 1992, for example, a well-adapted 103-day hybrid had test weight of 55 pounds/bushel, but when we changed to a full season 111-day hybrid our test weight fell to 52 pounds per bushel.

Test weight can also be influenced by other management practices, such as grain drying, but these effects are usually small.

Some basic strategies are necessary to avoid low test weights. Start by considering only hybrids that are adapted and will mature under most conditions in your area. Those hybrids that don't usually reach black layer will be at risk in some years to produce low test weight corn. Some growers appear to rely a bit too heavily on these full season corns that don't usually mature before frost.

When we get a cool year such as 1996, they dry down slow and have low test weight. Try to limit yourself to 20 percent of your crop in this full season category. Test weights really get low when these full season varieties are planted late.

When we delayed planting our full season corn in 1992 until May 20, the test weight dropped to 48 pounds. Granted, 1992 was a cool year, but it illustrates what can happen. Switching to earlier hybrids from these full season hybrids is critical when planting is delayed. Also, do what you can to avoid planting late.

Another strategy is to screen your adapted hybrids carefully for test weight. I know several corn producers who sacrifice a little yield potential to select hybrids with exceptional test weight. They believe it is important to develop a reputation as a quality grain supplier and this reputation offsets any lost production.

If all else fails, and you still end up with low test weight corn, then you'll need to identify markets when the effects of the test weight on price and production will be small.

In summary, low test weight can be a problem, but it can often be avoided through a strategy of timely planting, hybrid selection, and marketing.

moisture at 65 percent. The corn with no starter or Asset yielded 19.9 tons per acre.

The corn with starter and Asset averaged 19.2 tons per acre. With six paired replications, there were no significant, statistical differences between the two treatments. The application of starter fertilizer plus Asset did not increase yield in this trial.

The Dennis and Douglas Smith farm is located north of Martinsburg, Blair County. The Smiths apply 9,000 gallons per acre of dairy manure per year to the six-acre field mapped as a Hublersburg cherty silt loam soil. Soil test levels in this field were in the excessive range for fertility. Phosphorus was at 388 pounds per acre and potassium was at 459 pounds per acre. This trial was simply 150 pounds per acre of 9-43-10 starter versus more.

The Smiths planted on 5/4/96 with a soil temperature of 58°F. Site evaluations on 6/11/96 showed the corn with starter was noticeably greener. By 6/25/96, when the PSNT test was taken, visual differences were no longer evident. The nitrogen level was high requiring no additional nitrogen. Average height of the corn on 8/8/96 was 91.7 inches with only an inch difference between the two treatments. The population counts were 19,747 for the corn with starter and 21,606 without.

The corn was harvested for grain on 11/23/96. The average moisture level in the field was 19.7 percent. At yields adjusted to a standard moisture of 15.5 percent, the corn with starter yielded 167.1 bushels and the corn without starter yielded 171.1 bushels. This trail also showed that the starter fertilizer provided no yield benefit.

The Harold and Bernard Bailey farm is located south of Martinsburg, Blair County. Bailey applies 3,500 gallons per acre of dairy manure to the 6.5-acre strip mapped as a Hublersburg cherty silt loam soil. Soil test levels of the phosphorus were 288 pounds per acre and 271 pounds per acre for potassium. These levels are both in the high range of soil fertility. The Baileys utilize ACA at planting. The use of ACA and starter versus, starter without ACA, versus nothing were compared at this site. The starter fertilizer was 10 gallons per acre of 10-34-0. Aztec was used to control corn rootworm.

The corn was planted on 5/23/96 using no-till and 30 inch rows. The soil temperature was 64°F. Early visual differences between the plots were very evident. The strips with no starter and no ACA were much lighter in color and were smaller. Samples were taken on 6/25/96 for the PSNT test and showed no additional nitrogen was needed. The corn with no starter and on ACA continued to lag behind in size and color. By mid-summer, visual differences had mostly disappeared. Average height on 8/8/96 was 98.8 inches. Average population count was 21,375. Neither height nor

New Congress Shows Interest In Ethanol

PEORIA, Ill. — Cars in the 21st century could run on ethanol fermented from fiber-rich crop residues such as wheat straw or corn stalks instead of corn.

USDA scientists are moving in that direction with research that seeks to squeeze more ethanol from corn using the grain's fiber.

"This research delivers on the Clinton Administration's commitment to the continued growth and development of the domestic ethanol industry," said Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman. "Technological innovations in corn production and ethanol conversion will continue to improve ethanol yield per bushel and per acre."

Microbiologist Rodney J. Bothast of USDA's Agricultural Research Service heads a research team that's now scaling up a process for converting grain fiber into sugars. Genetically engineered microbes convert these sugars into ethanol.

Modern ethanol plants ferment grain's starches and sugars to produce 2.5 gallons of ethanol per bushel of corn. Bothast's research team, based at the ARS National Center for Agricultural Utilization Research, aims to coax an extra three-tenths of a gallon of ethanol from the outer fibrous layer of every bushel of corn kernels.

"This technology could be applied to converting cellulose from other crops creating additional income and market opportunities for farmers," said Glickman. "USDA analysis confirms that expanding ethanol production increases farm income and creates jobs in rural America."

In 1995, about 1.3 billion gallons of fuel ethanol were produced from corn. More than 60 percent came from wet milling, in which the corn is soaked in water before grinding it. Ethanol has traditionally been produced by fermenting the corn's starchy endosperm — the storage tissue in the seed that "feeds" the corn plant during germination. Currently the leftover fiber is mixed with water and fermentation residues, then dried and fed to animals.

"However, if this fiber were processed into ethanol, the increased efficiency and potential reductions in cost for a corn wet milling facility could significantly enhance net returns," said Robert B. Hespell, microbiologist and project leader for ethanol research in Bothast's Fermentation Biochemistry Research Unit.

According to USDA's Economic Research Service, the ethanol energy now produced from each bushel of corn is more than 25 percent greater than the amount of energy used to grow and harvest the corn and distill it into ethanol, thanks to today's higher corn yields, more energy-efficient fertilizer production, and improved distillation technology.

Recent research to further improve ethanol production is described in the October issue of Agricultural Research magazine, the monthly publication of the Agricultural Research Service.

The corn was harvested for grain on 11/22/96. The average moisture level in the field was 36.9 percent. The treatment means adjusted to 15.5 percent moisture were 116.9 bushels for the corn without starter and ACA, 122.8 bushels with just starter, and 118.0 bushels where starter and ACA were both used. Again we determined that there was no statistical difference between the three treatments.

All three trials indicated that starter fertilizer did not increase corn silage or grain yields in 1996. The comparisons of the root growth hormones, ACA and Asset, were felt to be inconclusive due to the wetness of the growing season. It is very likely root growth was not a limiting factor in 1996.

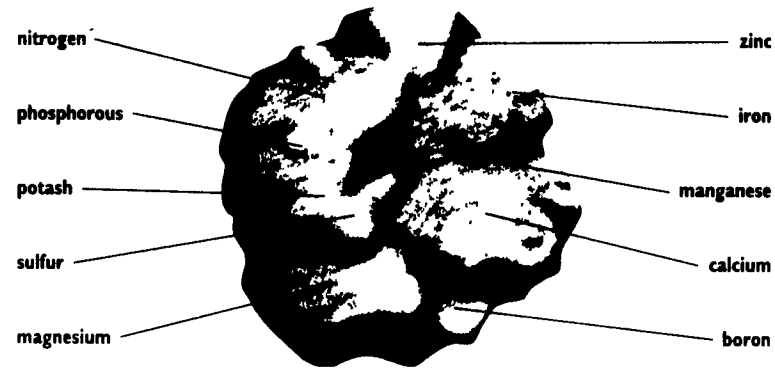
Lebanon Extra Plant Food

For over 50 years, farmers have been choosing Lebanon Extra for premium homogeneous/ammoniated plant food. Lebanon Extra is ideal for use in row applications where nutrient safety and consistency is crucial to yields. And its homogeneous/ammoniated granules offer superior performance over so-called "Custom-formulated" blends.



A blend of raw materials can result in uneven feeding. Unlike homogeneous/ammoniated granules which deliver all the primary nutrients and micronutrients in each particle — ensuring even distribution for consistent performance.

Five-Acre Corn Contest Announces Winners

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — The 1996 corn growing season wasn't record-shattering, at least in terms of total yields.

But it was still a pretty impressive year for yields statewide and was the best year ever in bushels harvested per acre, according to a Penn State corn specialist.

Dr. Greg Roth, associate professor, Penn State agronomy, spoke about the corn growing year in general and provided detail about the winners of the Five-Acre Corn Contest recently at the Pennsylvania Corn and Soybean Conference at the Holiday Inn in Grantville.

Roth told the 176 growers and agri-industry representatives who registered for the daylong event that the average per acre yield for corn in 1996 was 174 bushels per acre, for the contest, with 17 folks who took in more than 200 bushels per acre of corn.

"Yields on average were higher than ever," Roth indicated.

Plant populations averaged 25,000 per acre of corn (compared to 24,200 last year), and some growers were planting 30,000 per acre.

Curt Rakestraw, president of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA), spoke about a study committee that is reviewing a proposed corn checkoff modeled after the checkoff used in Maryland and Ohio. A survey conducted at the meeting asked producers if they would support a Pennsylvania corn for grain checkoff program at one-half of once percent for corn sold in commercial channels (such as feed mills, brokers, grain elevators, and other locations). All direct farmer-to-farmer sales would be exempt.

The survey also asked where the checkoff money would be spent. Producers could mark the following categories: enhancing farm income, marketing and promotion, increased usage, product development, research, or all categories.

Corn Checkoff

ers and agri-industry representatives registered for the event that the genetic potential of field corn is in the range of "300 to 600 bushels per acre." Those potentials are affected by a wide variety of variables, including weather, soil conditions, temperature, plant population, and other factors. One factor that could be limiting is soil moisture, and water, through the use of irrigation, is one controllable variable.

Another variable is row width. Narrow-row corn is proving promising, with a possible 9-11 bushels per acre advantage over conventional row widths.

Also, the emerging use of corn yield monitors "are a thing of the future," said Brubaker.

And today, there are about 216 commercial pesticides to select from, and with tank mixes, there are "thousands of choices," he said.

Brubaker provided management strategies based on the different seasons. He presented an agronomic overview of the types of management decisions based on 1996 growing experiences.

Grain Speculators: Beware Of Overseas Producers, Carryovers, Stock Market Uncertainty

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — Within the next 25 years, the Chinese economy will be much larger than the U.S. economy and will be a "major course grain user," said a nationally recognized commodity adviser.

David Kruse, president of Comstock Investments in Spencer, Iowa, spoke to about 176 corn producers and agri-industry representatives recently at the 1997 Pennsylvania Corn and Soybean Conference at the Holiday Inn in Grantville.

Kruse indicated that while China continues to produce enough corn for its own use, usage will grow to the point where they will become a major importer in the future. That could be positive for the export market in the U.S. and help fuel export initiatives in years to come.

And for soybeans, very shortly South America "will take over in world export market," he said.

Kruse provided some thoughts on economic forecasting methods used by USDA and many commodity organizations. In particular, Kruse focused in on USDA projections for 1997 and what they could mean for corn growers across the region.

More and more, forecasters are seeing "significant increases in corn acreage outside the Corn Belt," in states such as Maryland and Pennsylvania, which could have a "significant impact in the future."

For the most part, other regions of the world have just completed excellent growing seasons, such as Argentina, which will slowly begin harvest on what is projected at 400 million bushels of corn for export. China has also had good growing weather and is expected to export about 200 million bushels.

For U.S. operations that have experienced tight carryover stocks, growers are seeing some excellent basis for the price of corn. But how do growing conditions look for 1997? Kruse said that one Iowa climatologist has indicated the U.S. is seeing a climate change in which the heartland of the country is cooler and coasts have experienced increases in temperature.

The past year, Kruse said he has seen problems in the temperature in parts of Iowa worse than any he's seen since he started farming in 1973. "We starve for heat units," he said, and many growers have to rely on 106-day corn or even shorter season hybrids to be able to harvest on time.

On the other hand, states such as Mississippi are experiencing "tremendous corn crops," he said. "We're getting too cold and they're getting just about right." Corn prices go in 5 1/2 year cycles, which growers can use to build into their marketing plan. The next "low" point of the cycle is due next winter, so growers should beware. "Avoid marketing corn in that timeframe," he said.

Overall, corn under $3 per bushel is going to be realistic for this growing season despite predictions for tight carryover stocks. Kruse told grower/speculators to look into the $2.90 per bushel area. The price objective could come as soon as March or May on the market reports.

The tight stocks situation for 1997 "makes for an explosive price opportunity," Kruse said.

As for the general economy, the stock market is going through a "state of euphoria," noted Kruse, with continuing record advances. Price-earnings ratio is fully priced at this time and will be difficult to generate any additional gains. At some point in time, the market will retract, so speculators should beware.

Herbicide-Tolerant Crops Could Provide Big Yield Advantages To Growers

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Corn growers can gain a yield advantage to the tune of $11 per acre by using transgenic corn in the long run — compared to doing nothing against corn pests — according to one Penn State researcher.

And for control of other pests, including corn earworm, Bt corn has proved very effective, according to an entomologist at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Dennis Calvin, associate professor of entomology at Penn State, told 60 growers and agri-industry representatives that for many growers, yields can be hampered, which could prove costly if nothing is done to thwart the ravages caused by common corn pests such as the European corn borer. Calvin spoke last month at the Pennsylvania Crop Management Association (PCMA) annual meeting at the Penn State Scanticon Conference Center.

And up to 90 percent control of corn earworm by Bt corn hybrids could lead to the eventual elimination of widescale spraying for the corn earworm, which can devastate corn ear tips, according to Dr. Galen Dively, entomologist with the University of Maryland, who spoke to about 176 growers and corn industry representatives this month at the Pennsylvania Crops Conference at the Holiday Inn in Grantville.

According to Calvin, the $11 per acre advantage is based on five-year average corn prices, national yields, and yield responses of Bt corn hybrids over their non-Bt counterparts.

The transgenic corn he spoke about is the common Bt type corn, or Bacillus thuringiensis, marketed by several companies.

The corn borer eats the Bt corn, which contains a crystallized protein that is toxic to the corn borer, according to Calvin. The toxic protein is completely safe to humans and livestock.

The cost of the transgenic corn varies from $7-$10 per acre, depending on the manufacturer and seeding rate. Most hybrids in the Penn State evaluation tested at a significantly high corn borer control rate. And Bt hybrids in a Penn State trial outyielded their non-Bt counterpart.

Based on five-year average crop values and yields, according to Calvin, average national losses from the corn borer without control are about $18 per acre. Subtracting the $7 per acre seed premium gives an $11 per acre average return to Bt corn hybrids over their non-Bt sister (isoline) line. Calvin noted it should be kept in mind that the Bt corn hybrids did not always outyield traditionally bred non-Bt elite hybrids available.

One problem Penn State and other universities are studying is the potential of insect resistance that could build up over time to using Bt corn. Insect resistance to the material "is something we need to be concerned about," Calvin remarked.

At Rockspring, Penn State is studying the Bt corn from four different companies. Most varieties reported an average yield increase of about 11.7 percent.

At the corn and soybean conference, Dively noted that not only can earworm be controlled by Bt corn, but there has been a significant reduction in armyworm through Bt trials. The armyworm is a significant threat because it can remove lot of corn plant biomass over a short period of time.

"Is the technology worth the extra cost?" Dively asked those who attended the crops conference. "It depends on the year and the insect pressure."

Some years, such as last year, the insect pressures could be light and the extra cost of using Bt allowed some growers to break even. But in years with heavy infestations, the savings could be dramatic. "Over the long run, use of Bt corn will pay off," he said.

Whatever strategies are used, growers using Bt corn still need to scout the fields for other pests that Bt corn can't control (particularly corn rootworm) and beware of the potential for insect resistance in the future.

Also, growers "need to know what you're buying," said Dively. "Not all Bts are the same. They vary tremendously."

Dr. Bill Curran, associate professor of weed science at Penn State, spoke about the use of herbicide-tolerant crops at the PCMA meeting.

Of particular interest to growers at the meeting are the use of Roundup Ready soybeans and Liberty Link corn. The corn is EPA cleared for 1997.

For soybean growers, sequential treatments of Roundup herbicide may be necessary for perennial weeds, according to the research conducted by Penn State.

The use of Liberty Link corn in post-emergent weed management is "not a standalone program," according to Curran.

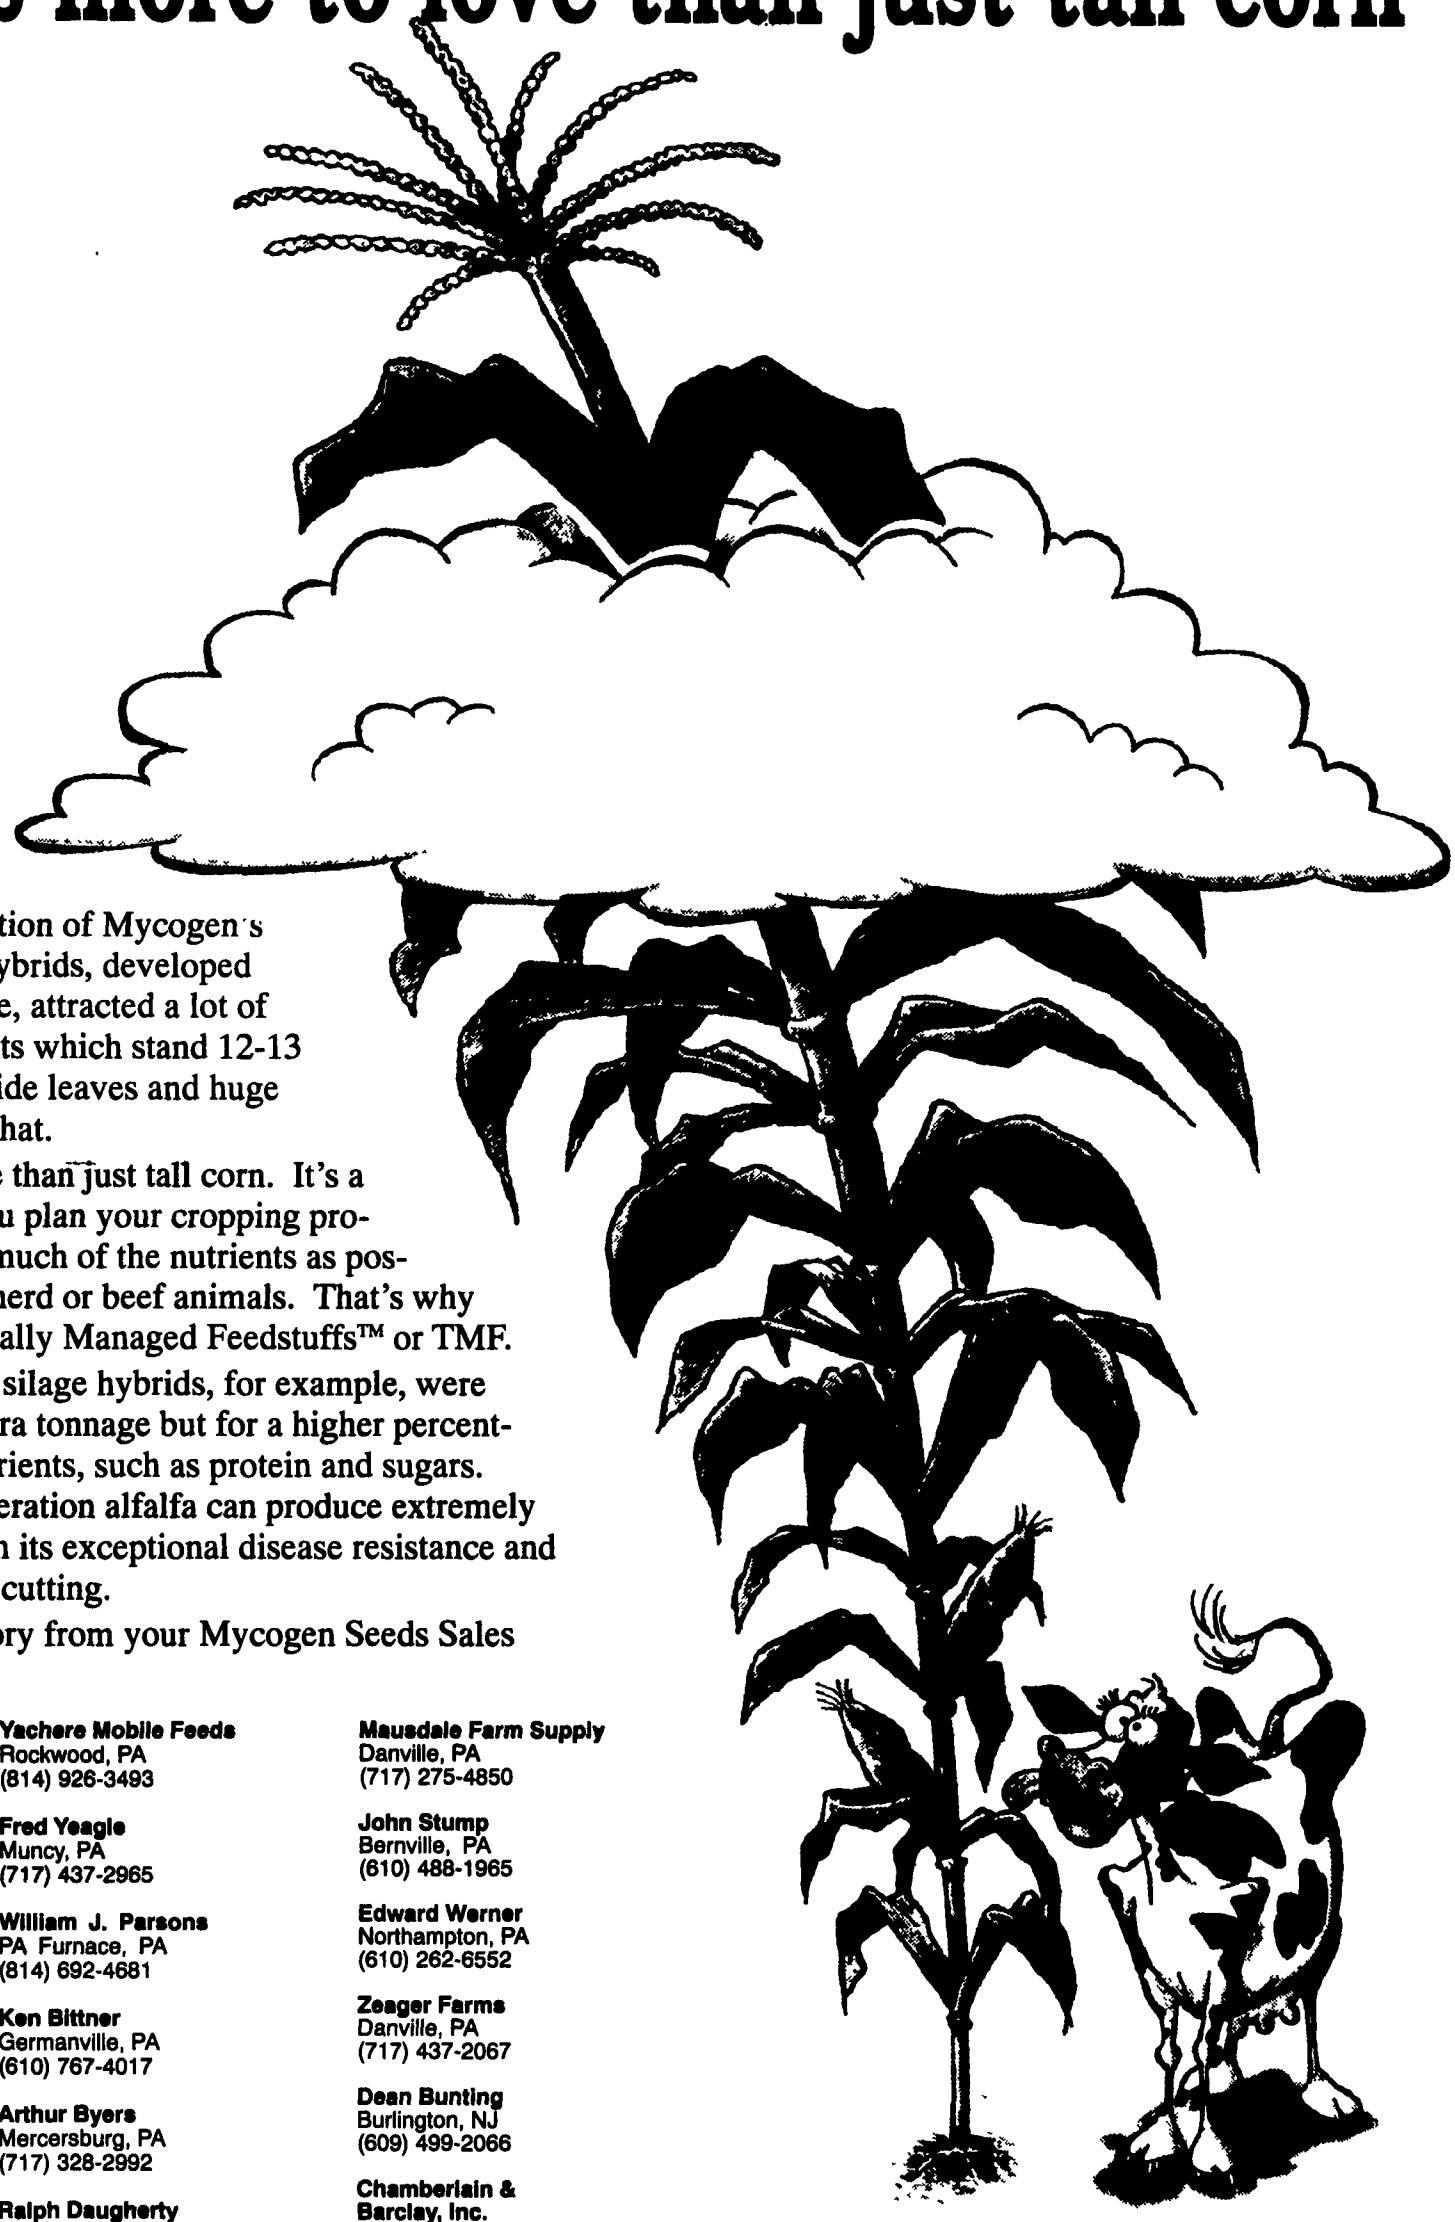
With TMF from Mycogen Seeds, there's more to love than just tall corn



The 1994 introduction of Mycogen's first TMF corn hybrids, developed exclusively for silage, attracted a lot of attention. Corn plants which stand 12-13 feet tall with very wide leaves and huge ears will tend to do that.

But TMF is more than just tall corn. It's a system that helps you plan your cropping program to produce as much of the nutrients as possible for your dairy herd or beef animals. That's why Mycogen calls it Totally Managed Feedstuffs™ or TMF.

Mycogen's TMF silage hybrids, for example, were bred not only for extra tonnage but for a higher percentage of digestible nutrients, such as protein and sugars. Likewise, TMF Generation alfalfa can produce extremely high RFVs even with its exceptional disease resistance and quick recovery after cutting.
